

Editorial Snap Shots.

We want to say this, despite the "beefing" of the chronic "knockers," that the present county court has taken more time to the consideration of county affairs than any previous court.

That was another disgraceful affair on the dock last week, when the bruiser spirit again took hold of two men intent on chewing one another up, and which add another incident to the bad repute of the city.

Something new in the history of Tillamook must be taking place when beefs are being shipped in for the meat market in this city. We hope that Fletcher Leach won't accuse the "beef eaters" for the scarcity of beef.

A man was denied citizenship in Portland because he lied. That's nothing to be wondered at. Witnesses in Justice Sappington quite recently lied as fast as questions could be propounded and they are still considered "respectable" citizens in the community.

It should not be lost sight of that as most of the timber in the county is held by large syndicates, it is still a problem how, when and where it will be manufactured or whether it will be held for speculation, even after the transportation problem is solved by the advent of the railroad.

The fight that the Press is making for a clean, moral, law-abiding city will win in the end, no matter who butts in and stands at the back of the immoral, lawless element. The fight is on and the Press is not going to quit. Turning the light on some women and houses of bad repute would reveal some of the disgusting things which take place in this city.

There is a strong movement on foot to make local option state wide at the next election, and although this may be premature, it would not surprise us much to see Oregon go dry at any future election. The people of Portland will vote at the next city election to eliminate all games, seats, free lunch counters, screens, etc., from the saloons in that city, which will be an improvement in some respects.

As a result of the bad example set them by men who violate law and get heastily drunk in this city, a number of young men were given a night's lodging in durance vile for doing the same thing. And we are sorry to say that these young men have been in trouble before and have given the officials considerable trouble. They were haled before the city recorder and fined, which was temitted pending good behavior. But the question is asked: How much longer are these young hoodlums going to be permitted to carry on their nightly depredations and then let off?

This is a little coincident which should not be overlooked: The first round up of bootleggers was brought about on the information furnished by an outsider, and by a man who had served time, yet the juries in the cases believed this witness and solely upon his evidence brought in verdicts of guilty. The second round up was on information of a stranger, and on his evidence solely the parties pleaded guilty. The third round up was on information furnished the sheriff's office by well known local parties, yet the juries in the latter cases would not believe them. Strange and peculiar things take place in Tillamook when the total stranger is believed before citizens who are well known and reside here.

President Reynolds, of the water commissions, claims that it is the city officials who are the water hogs, because the city has not paid its water rent. He claims, notwithstanding the opinion of attorneys to the contrary, that the water commission is entitled to all the tax levied in the city for general purposes with the exception of two mills. This was the view taken by a number of persons at the time, for the city charter gives the city permission to levy only two mills for general purposes and eight mills under the amendment, to be used for water or sewerage. The courts will have to decide who is entitled to the money, anyway, for we do not expect to see the city council and the water commission agree. It means a little more tax money for the taxpayers to pungle up to pay attorneys to scrap it out in court. And the sooner this is done the better to put a stop to this cat hauling as to which body is entitled to the money.

There are quite a number of citizens who are good roads advocates who are not in favor of the county court employing an engineer and experienced road builder, yet they all can relate instances where roads have been constructed and then abandoned for another road, which is a costly procedure. And they can also relate what little work is done by some persons who work on the roads. Yet in face of all this they are not in favor of a change in the system of road building. Probably they are in doubt for fear that an incompetent person may be employed to fill the position. In that event we are candid to admit that it would be no improvement. The present system has been in operation for a long time, and most everybody are honest in admitting that the county is not getting the roads for the money expended. Under the circumstances, then, it looks to us that it would be in the line of progress to give the new system of an engineer at the head of the road work a trial, anyway.

A good many persons complain about the bad boys and girls in this city. It is no surprise to us and it should not be to any intelligent citizen who will take the trouble to ascertain the cause why so many of the boys and young men, and young women as well, have become debauched and licentious. Here is the reason in a nutshell: It is the bad example set them by some of our citizens who violate the law and those who get gloriously crazy drunk. If men do these things in any community, the boys and young men think they have a right to follow their example; or let young girls associate with fast and lewd women, and see how soon they lose their chastity and join the great army of young women who become common prostitutes. This is an awful picture to draw, but, nevertheless it is true and something which parents who are raising boys and girls cannot close their eyes to. All we need add is: Heaven pity the young people of this city where the environments are such that lawbreakers and crazy, drunken individuals set them such bad examples and juries turn the lawbreakers loose to still further carry on their lawlessness and show a bad example to the young people.

The "Baby Shoe" circular sent out by the Portland agent of the Pacific Navigation Company has been ridiculed to some extent by those who received a copy of it. It, certainly, was a baby's squeal, subject to a freight rate change without notice. But we do not want to be too critical. The Pacific Navigation Company had just as well make up its mind that it can no longer monopolized the transportation business and that it is going to have healthy, vigorous competition, for the Sue H. Eluore cannot handle the increased amount of tonnage coming into the county and the prospective business in outgoing freight, to say nothing of the passenger business. The system of putting down the price of freight when competition was put on and then charging exorbitant rates when it was taken off will not work any longer with the people of Tillamook. They have been seduced so many times before and know the consequences if they allow themselves to be seduced again. As competition is the life of business, and as the prospects look bright for a large increase in business in Tillamook county this year, the Pacific Navigation Company, surely, cannot be so dense as to think that it can run off competition with the cheap freight rate "bait" again. Most every business man is up against keen competition and it will not hurt the transportation company to have a little of that medicine itself.

The report of Carl Haberlach, who handled the business of thirteen cheese factories, representing about 350 dairymen and $259,355 in money, is interesting in numerous ways. For instance, it is often said that as a class farmers will not hold together for any length of time for their own interest, and as a result the middlemen get the biggest share of their profits. There is no denying this, but it has also been demonstrated over and over again that where the farmers have pulled together it is to the own—not the middlemen's—financial benefit. It has taken several years of patient endeavor to bring the co-operative associations of Tillamook county together for one common purpose. Yet, for all that it is well known that there are those who tried to pull the co-operative associations apart. Closer the associations can be cemented together, and where directors of one association can assimilate with the directors of other associations, with one secretary who is kept well posted as to markets, supply and demand, etc., better will it be for the patrons of the cheese factories. The proof of the pudding is in the eating. Numerous efforts have been made by individuals to control the cheese output of different factories, and, as a result, quite a number have had big losses by being fleeced out of their money. Not so, however, with the co-operative associations which have held together, for it is gratifying to know that none of the dairymen have lost anything through mismanagement or fraud. All we need add is this: Any pulling apart of the co-operative associations will not be for the best interest of the dairymen of this county.

[TO THE EDITOR OF THE TILLAMOOK HEADLIGHT].

Thinking that it might interest a number of your readers, I am making the following report of production and sales at the 13 factories and several dairies for which I act as salesman. These figures are totals for 1908.

Total lbs. of milk received, 19,171,322 lbs.
Total lbs. of cheese manufactured, 2,073,390.
Total lbs. of butter manufactured, 10,331 lbs.
Total boxes cheese sold, 32,018.
Total lbs. of butter fat in milk, 717,929 lbs.
Amount received for cheese and butter, $259,355.29.
Amount received for cheese, $256,381.65.
Amount received for butter, $2,973.64.
Average price received for cheese, $12.365 c. per lb. net on wharf.

Patrons were paid $120,987.00 for butter fat.
Factories received for making approximately $38,350.00.
Farmers were paid an average of 29.55 c. per lb. butter fat.
207,790 lbs. of this milk was made into butter.
Average yield was a little over 10.93 lbs. of cheese per 100 lbs. milk.
9.14 lbs. of milk required for lb. cheese. Yield was higher than in 1907.
Farmers were paid an average of $1.15 1/4 per 100 lbs. of milk.
Average butter fat content or test for year was a little over .039 per cent.

This is the milk received from about 350 patrons. From the best estimates at hand, the above amounts are approximately two thirds of the output of the county, so that it may safely be said that the county produced a little more than three million lbs. of cheese during the past year, of a value of $400,000.00.

The Emersonians gave an interesting program on last Friday. We think the contest will be a close one this year.

To show up things with speed and might. Weak men invented dynamite. But women whose fame here is sung can blow up things with simple tongue.

There is some talk among the boys of organizing a track team this spring. It would be excellent sport and would help the base ball team we contemplate putting out this year in particular, as well as all their sports.

Albert Bramwell returned to school last week after an absence of about five weeks, this time being spent in helping with the tax roll in the sheriff's office.

Wanted by Mr. Reichen to know where a certain hat came from.

Found by Eula Noyes, a Jasper, under no consideration will it be returned to the owner.

Instead of sending off for the base ball suits as was first intended, the goods will be purchased and the suits made here. The colors will be maroon and white. Maroon and white caps and stockings will be sent for right away. We should have quite a toggy little team this year.

The Sophomores and many others were sorry to have Carrie leave school. She will probably spend her time in the near future learning how to keep house well.

Some time ago a letter was received from O. A. C. headquarters asking if the H. S. basket ball team would like to have a chance at getting a trip out to O. A. C. to take a part in a H. S. meet there. Of course the letter was answered at once. It stating that the H. S. would like very much to be considered as contestants. Of course it will be the teams making the best records that get to go. The teams hope for the best and expect a letter soon that will decide the question. It would be an excellent trip and besides the game or games at O. A. C. the team could get games with many of the H. S. teams on the return trip.

Miss Helen Beals is back in school again after an absence of two weeks on account of sickness.

Leslie Finney came up to the school house Wednesday morning to get his books. He is going to try ranching for a while.

All the boys and many of the girls were glad to see Marion Deeter start to school Monday morning. Mr. Deeter will strengthen the base ball team a great deal.

Horatius at the Bridge.

During the rule of the first Tarquins, Rome waged war against the Sabines and gained famous victories. The first Tarquin was killed by treachery and Servius Tullius attained the sceptre. He reigned twenty-four years, and with him fell constitutional rule. Tarquin, "The Proud," came to the throne next. He accomplished great wonders, but at the same time proved to be a "maudlin tyrant." Realizing this the Fathers and Plebeians united and banished the Tarquin House.

The Tarquins fled to Etruria, for they were of the Etruscan race, to seek aid of Lars Porsena, King of Chisium, who said, "The great house of Tarquin shall suffer wrong no more." He, therefore, bade his messengers ride forth to summon his army, and soon an army was on the march from Rome.

Janiculus was taken by the Tuscans and the guards were slain. A Roman council was held at the gates of Rome, and Horatius, Spurius Lartius and Hirminius decided to keep the bridge. After Janiculus was taken all depended upon the dauntless three. They held in check the whole Etruscan army. Ten of the Tuscans were slain, and false Sextus cried "Down with him," and Lars Porsena said, "Yield to our grace." Meanwhile the Senators or fathers and the Consuls were at work to demolish the bridge, and just as it was about to fall they cried "Save yourselves," and the companies of Horatius rushed back just as the bridge was falling down, leaving Horatius standing on the bridge alone. A crash, and the bridge that spanned the Tiber plunged into the river. Horatius prayed for the Tiber to protect him. Missiles were thrown at him, but Horatius escaped and reached land in safety, and the fathers shook his gory hand, and great honor was bestowed upon him, cornland was given him, as much as three oxen could plow from morn till night, and the good wives of the neighborhood, hoped their sons would turn out to be as brave men, as who kept the bridge in the brave days of old. Lars Porsena withdrew his army and the Tarquins next sought aid of the Volscians but they were disastrously beaten at lake Regulus.

W. S. Some of the work in typing and shorthand is being done very creditably and Miss Garfield thinks that some of it would be worth exhibiting at Seattle.

The Seniors are beginning to plan for commencement, which reminds us that the year is rolling around to pretty near the end.

The class in mechanical drawing is slowly increasing in number. Some of the students have completed plates in isometric and commenced cabinet projection. A few exercises on developments and working drawings will be included in this year's work.

Lloyd Jones has finished an anatomical and tenon joint, and Francis Rosebraugh has a desk book rack completed. Both have done their work very well, and it is the more creditable in that they have done it all in their outside of school hours.

Idle time for sale at office 42 Main st. and 46 ave. For further particulars Address, Gail Buel.

We find in the history of the world, when a nation reaches a high state of civilization it falls, as Rome and Athens did. Now when men have motives in which they can attain, when they do attain them or nearly so, they fall back. This is true, when men are working together in societies, but when the societies have a motto to lead them "Even Higher," there is no danger of a falling back, for when they reach a very high position there is still a motto to cause them to strive "Even Higher." Philosophy of a Junior.

At a meeting of the T.H.S.A.A. a week it was decided to accept the position made by Mr. Eberman, who was for the use of the race track for a base ball team to practice upon, who's return for which he is to receive a certain per cent of the gate receipts of the games which may be played.

The eight grade likes Mr. Reichen well that they remain after school until five o'clock or later.

Ralph takes a great deal of interest in his history. He even memorizes some of his lessons and gives them for questions.

Marbles is now the favorite game, if this nice weather keeps up you will see the base ball candidates hunting for a race track to see if Coach Holman approve their style and award their position on the team.

Mr. Ernest Edmunds recently paid an old class a friendly visit. Mr. Edmunds said he enjoyed himself very much.

Miss Garfield's class in short hand has been writing. "No man ever did much for his country."

R. J. DUNHAM COMMANDER.

Former Master of Roanoke Tillamook Bay Steamer. Captain R. J. Dunham, formerly master of the steamship Roanoke, of the North Pacific Steamship Company, has taken command of the ship Argo, operating between Portland and Tillamook, Captain Ed Anderson, formerly master of the Argo, has been sign-d. The steamship Roanoke, which tied up at the Risdon Iron Works, is reported in steamship circles that Captain Dunham will turn to that steamship and that Captain Hanna in command.

A new change of schedule has been announced for the Argo, beginning first week in April. The vessel will make two trips between Astoria and Tillamook and once each week will come to Portland. This schedule will only be in effect during the summer months. The Argo has been equipped and has a license to carry 22 passengers. Operating twice a week between Astoria and Tillamook, residents of that section will have the best service has ever been given to that locality.
