Who said that certain parties shipped in whiskey in oil cans?

We are told that one of the bootleggers who was recently arrested solicited money last summer. Wonder whether it was for protection?

When you see a bevy of men tagging the well known bootleggers to certain houses in town, it is circumstantial evidence that the law is being violated.

For the information of those who are in the habit of taking a trip for the benefit of their health previous to the drawing of a grand jury. We want to say that the circuit court convenes on the 19th April.

And still the lawless, undesirable class continue to give the city officials trouble, and they will continue to do so as long as chicken hearted methods are used in dealing with lawbreakers.

It has been raining again. Well, cheer up, it always rains in the spring of the year in Tillamook county to help the grass grow. But, cheer up, you can bank on dry weather after the 4th July, not before.

Langworthy, who was run in for being boozed, told Marshal Kimball that he obtained the drink from the pool rooms. That should not surprise anybody. But what about it? Nothing. Only no one can believe the bootleggers, even if they do tell the truth.

Here's a happy thought. Bro. Rosebraugh might hold a revival meeting for the conversion and penitence of bootleggers, bootleg attorneys, Ananias witnesses, prejudiced jurymen and those awfully wicked editors. Say! Would n't it draw a crowd, though, to see them on the mourner's bench.

As we have frequently stated, not until several of the lawless bootleggers have served time in the county jail will that kind of lawlessness be put a stop to. It is the same thing with all other kinds of lawlessness, let juries fail to convict and then see how the criminal class will grow and thrive. You see it right here in Tillamook City.

If some arrangements could be made whereby the steam whistles of the electric light plant and the saw mills could be connected with an electric appliance so as to whistle when a fire alarm is turned in it would be a good way of getting the boys out in good time, especially in the night, for the present fire bell does not fill the bill for a fire alarm.

Enforce the laws and those who violate them have to foot the costs. Fail ure to enforce the law and juries to convict, the taxpayers foot the bill. This has been so frequently demonstrated in Tillamook county that those who complain about heavy taxation should be getting wise. Perhaps they are, for the recent bootleg cases surely ought to open the taxpayers' eyes as to who pays the fiddler in the travesty of justice cases.

All kinds of real property in Tillamook county is getting away out of reach, with too much speculative valuation injected into it. This is unfortunate for the county, for the high price that land is held at scares away many home seekers who would otherwise locate in the county. We cannot suggest any remedy for it, other than to wait patiently until such time as the property values will find it proper level. If other places are any criterion to go by, those who want to sell should do so before the railroad is completed.

The recent state legislature authorized State Dairy and Food Commissioner Bailey to appoint three dairy inspectors. Well and good if these inspectors will do good work, but we have an idea that they will take junketing trips over the state and accomplish little by way of improving the dairy industry, for the reason that they will be birds of flight, with little or no time to inspect dairy farms and only a short visit to creameries and cheese factories. We will gamble dollars to doughnuts that the inspector and cheese grater employed by the Tillamook Creamery Association will accomplish more for the dairy interest than the state inspectors. It is simply a business proposition with the co-operative associations of this county in employing an inspector, but with the state inspectors it is different, for they are more liable to become political inspectors instead of dairy inspectors. We hope not, however.

Turner's Leaflet had this to say of the travesty of justice in Justice Sappington's court:

"That intoxicating liquors are illegal ly sold throughout the county no one doubts. That those engaged in this outlawry are well known to almost every one is undeniable. Then, how is it these criminals cannot be convicted? Wherein is the failure? Is it indisposition or incompetency of the county's prosecutor, or injury on the witness stand, a corrupt jurymen, or is it a collision of all these agencies? That something is wrong somewhere is irrefutable. That these failures to convict in these illegal liquor cases is a reproach to the judicial and legal fraternity of this county is patent to all. To seek justice in any contention by appeal to the judgment of such incompetency or willful disregard of judicial honors is to appeal to the Devil Himself. Burlesque in modern so-called courts of justice along mercenary lines is too common to be hidden by bluff and bluster. The fact that an illegal rum-seller cannot be convicted in Tillamook is as a putrid sore on the local legal character, and a shame not only to the bar, but to all law abiding citizens.

The Portland and Tillamook Transportation Co., in repudiating the contract entered into with the shippers of this county, has not acted in good faith. It was a fair and square agreement that was entered into with one of the owners of the Argo, who came in here to represent the company, and should have been lived up to. No one expected that the Argo people would meet the cut rates of the Sue H. Elmore, but most all who were interested in the transportation matter at the time, when several members connected with the Argo made their boast that if they could get the business they could carry freight between here and Portland for $4, and possibly for $3, a ton, we like people to make good when they talk and boast what they can do. The failure of the Argo people to abide by their agreement is disappointing to those who were instrumental in getting so large patronage for the new boat. As the Argo people are entirely to blame it seems to us that they should reconsider the matter but no one can expect them to carry freight at a loss.

Quite a number of men have made their boasts that they would not obey the local option, yet once in a while they squeal that they have had enough when law asserts itself. A case of that character is reported in the Oregon Free Press, which is worth repeating, for some of the Tillamook blind pigs will be squealing likewise one of these days:

Old Ike Wright, of Klamath Falls, who had a saloon in that city before local option went into effect, boasted that "No man, no set of men, nor law, nor God Almighty himself could stop him from selling whiskey in Klamath Falls."

Well, he has changed his mind. He was informed on as a violator of the local option law and indicted by the grand jury. Later he pleaded guilty. The judge fined him $500 and costs—$400 more. Then his lawyer's fees was about $400 additional. That makes the half pint of whiskey run up to $1400. By the gallon such whiskey would cost $22,400. That's enough to make a man change his mind.

A good detective, a good prosecuting attorney and a good judge and there would be no difficulty in enforcing the local option law and driving out all "blind pigs."

Let the good work go on. Attorney Holmes and any other attorney for that matter, who goes outside of his case to drag the Headlight man into it uses mighty poor judgment. And it shows the levity by attorneys permitted in the justice of peace court in this city, and, no doubt, Mr. Holmes was perfectly aware that he was on untenable ground when he told the jurymen that a certain editor was trying to influence the jury. We deny such an absurd statement. The Headlight has discussed bootlegging and the travesty of justice in connection with the cases from a purely public standpoint, being perfectly satisfied that a deplorable condition of affairs existed in this city when attorneys spirit away and run out of town state witnesses and jurymen acquit men whom they knew were guilty. The Headlight was simply doing its duty to the public when it exposed it, for if that condition of affairs continued to exist much longer justice would have been turned into a burlesque by the attorneys. We have purposely avoided personalities as much as possible and have shown no bitter feeling to anyone, and for that reason we are very sorry that Mr. Holmes so far forgot the rules of the court and himself and dragged the editor into the case. It matters very little, the Headlight man can take care of himself when it comes to discussing law and order vs lawlessness.

An Inquiry.
TO EDITOR OF TILLAMOOK HEADLIGHT.
Who is this new light of our legal fraternity that has come here to defy and defeat the people in their effort to rid themselves of the liquor curse? Why do we go about the street boasting of his legal lore? Is he wanting to build up a reputation? Will $500 of our bootleggers money, for which he declares he can send our Local Option Law to the howl, get this man properly started in business? We understand that already one of his cases was so weak, that he was reduced to attacking an editor and a minister for exercising an American right to express their views of public matters, hoping thereby to influence a certain jury to free another bootlegger. The jury was not influenced either.
At three general elections, covering a period of about four years, the people have made plain their mind in regard to this matter. And this young legal "wisitful" may yet discover that he is fooling with a live wire. There is doubtless room here for a good lawyer of certain legal and personal qualifications for his profession. And such a man would be well received by the public. But we mistake the people greatly if they want any more to help the criminal class to defy, elude and destroy laws framed for the proper protection of our homes and business. That class of lawyers are crowding each other now.

Draft Horses.
The draft horse is getting bigger and bigger. In the late 80's if one weighed over 1,600 pounds and came from France, it was an event and the horse papers talked about him, with pictures. Today the draft importer will touch nothing under 1,800 and 3 year-old colts often run up to a ton.
The favorite draft breed in America—six to one—is the Percheron of France. It comes from Le Perche, southwest of Paris, and nowhere else. The horse breeders in that district have banded themselves into a guild or union, and decreed that no horse from outside the borders of their district can ever be recorded as a Percheron in the studbook of the breed. A colt foaled just across the line out of a mare and by a sire correctly registered cannot himself be registered.
The foundation blood of the Percheron is, or is said to be, Arab. The Frenchman will tell you that a Percheron is an Arab made heavy by climate. But whether Arab extraction or not, it is sure that the breed has been made heavy by the climate or human selection during the past half century.
The French never dream of breeding to stallions of mixed or unknown blood. But the American farmer who bred his mare to a Percheron for a heavy colt usually changes his mind a couple of years later, puts what he got from the first cross to a coach horse for style, and the grand result to a jack or a mule. As a horse breeder he looks only at the outside of the sire (and apparently not so careful at that), and cares little what kind of blood is running inside.
The Nehalem Horss Co.'s stallion Fincur No. 56331, was bred by M. E. Chopette, of Department, of LaSarth, France. Will make the season of 1909 at Tillamook and Nehalem. For terms see keeper of horse.

The Story of a Medicine.
Its name—Golden Medical Discovery—was suggested by one of its most important and valuable ingredients—Golden Seal root.
Nearly forty years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that he could, by the use of pure, triple-refined glycerine, aided by a certain degree of constantly maintained heat and with the aid of apparatus and appliances designed for that purpose, extract from our most valuable native medicinal roots their curative properties much better than by the use of alcohol, so generally employed. So the now world-famed "Golden Medical Discovery" for the cure of weak stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness and kindred derangements was first made as it ever since has been, without a particle of alcohol in its make-up.
A glance at the full list of its ingredients, printed on every bottle-wrapper, will show that it is made from the most valuable medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. All these ingredients have received the strongest endorsement from the leading medical experts. Doctors and druggists use this Medicine who recommend them as the very best remedies for the diseases for which "Golden Medical Discovery" is advised.
A little book of these endorsements has been compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and will be sent free to any one asking same by postal card, or letter addressed to the Doctor as above. From these endorsements, copied from standard medical books of all the different schools of practice, it will be found that the ingredients composing the "Golden Medical Discovery" are advised not only for the cure of the above mentioned diseases, but also for the cure of all catarrhal, bronchial and throat affections, accompanied with catarrhal discharges, hoarseness, sore throat, lingering or hang-on-coughs, and all those wasting affections which, if not promptly and properly treated are liable to terminate in consumption. Take Dr. Pierce's Discovery in time and persevere in its use until you give it a fair trial and it is not likely to disappoint. Too much must not be expected of it. It will not perform miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will. It will cure the affections that lead up to consumption, if taken in time.

Cracked Furniture.
Ugly marks caused by splits or cracked places in furniture are easily filled in with beeswax, and the mark is never detected. In fact, this is how furniture dealers cover such blemishes. First slightly soften the beeswax until it is like putty, then press firmly into the cracks and smooth evenly with a thin knife. Sandpaper over the surrounding wood and work the dust into the beeswax. This gives a wool finish or color, and when the furniture is varnished you will look in vain for the blemishes. It is better than putty, since putty soon dries, crumbles and falls out, while beeswax will remain forever just where it is placed.
They Needed Prayers.
A member of parliament tells a good story of an out of the way country clergyman who did not keep up to date in what was going on in the world. One Sunday he asked his sexton: "Is the prayer for parliament to be used today? Is parliament still sitting?"
The sexton's reply came promptly. "Well, sir, I don't know; but, anyhow, better pray for them, for they're a precious bad lot!"—London Standard.

WINTER WOOD.
It Makes the Best and Most Lasting Kind of Timber.
It has long been known that winter was the best time of the year for cutting down trees for their timber, but until the American bureau of forestry published the results of some experiments no one was sure why. The bureau of forestry selected four pine trees of the same age and of equal vigor, growing in the same soil, and felled them, the first at the end of December, the second at the end of January, the third at the end of February and the fourth at the end of March. They were hewn into logs of the same size and dried at the same place. Then the logs were tested.
The December log resisted a strain twice as strong as that which the March log resisted. It furnished piles which were still perfect and undecayed sixteen years later, while the piles made from the March log had rotted within three or four years.
Wood that is felled in December is less porous than that cut at other times. It has been proved that out felled in the spring allowed water to percolate through it in from two to three hours, while similar wood cut in December was seemingly impermeable.
There is a very simple method of ascertaining the quality of wood cut in winter or in spring. The former contains floury particles, which turn blue when tincture of iodine is poured upon them. The latter preserves its natural tint or merely becomes a little darker at the contact of iodine.—New York World.

COPIED NAPOLEON.
South American Dictators Who Imitated the French Despot.
The dictatorship of Castro in Venezuela has been compared with that of President Francia, who terrorized Paraguay for over thirty years. Francia was a worshiper of Napoleon, whom he endeavored to imitate in every possible way. He possesses only one portrait of his idol, a German caricature, which depicted the emperor wearing an exaggerated version of the famous gray overcoat. Francia took this picture seriously and for many years paraded the streets of Asuncion clad in a gray dressing gown and a cocked hat, which he fondly believed to be the habitual garb of the French despot.
Castro's most distinguished predecessor was also a Napoleon devotee, but Bolivar had seen his idol and could thus imitate him more faithfully. He managed to acquire the emperor's brusque speech and other mannerisms, pulled people's ears when in a good humor and dictated dispatches to several secretaries at once. He founded an order closely modeled on the Legion of Honor; surrounded himself with a guard of negroes from Haiti, after the style of Napoleon's mamelukes, and endeavored to codify the laws of his country. When he returned to America after witnessing Napoleon's coronation Bolivar entered Caracas standing in a Roman chariot drawn by twelve maidens belonging to the first families of the town.—London Chronicle.

A Narrow Escape.
When Mr. Hartman returned an hour later than usual, Mrs. Hartman asked him the reason, and his good natured face was solem as he answered her. "I had had one narrow escape from drowning, Katchen," he said.
"How was that happen?" asked his wife as she helped him unwind the knitted scarf from his neck. "Tell me it at once, Hans."
"It was at the ferry that I came late," said Mr. Hartman, "from the blocked cars, and the boat she was just starting. A man he called me out, 'Joomp, joomp!' and for no moment I thought to make as he said. But I reminded myself to be cautious and wait, and in one minute more, Katchen, came a great patch of water showing! Then I took hold of the post where I stood and said to myself, 'Hans, you were the wise man that you joomped not at first when that man advised.'—Youth's Companion.
