

Editorial Snap Shots.

Some of the bootleggers threaten to squeal on one another. Let them squeal.

My! How some witnesses do perjure themselves while on the stand in Tillamook county.

"Outside Attorneys" are numerous in this city this week, but they haven't come to Tillamook to milk cows.

Representative Beals was fortunate in being offered a nice snug little job at Salem and he had the good sense to accept.

It looks as if there will be three resignations in the city council before long. Here's a splendid opportunity for those who crave public office.

We understand that W. E. Catterlin is "slated" for one of the dairy inspectors to be appointed by State Dairy and Foot Commissioner Bailey.

It is expected that the visitors to this county this summer will be the largest in the history of the county, for Tillamook is being freely talked about on the outside.

After being tried three times a motion for a new trial is to be made in the V. Jacob bootleg case. If the attorneys and not the taxpayers had to foot the bills that kind of pettifoggery would soon cease.

By way of a little comfort and amusement for the gentlemen whose wives go away on long vacations every summer, we would suggest that they start a grass widowers' club, with "We won't go home till morning" for its motto.

The snap shot man feels at times like taking the bull by the horns and starting a Commercial Club. We need a club of that description to take and entertain visitors and where business men can get together and discuss the best methods for the improvement and up-building of the city. The snap shot man is ready to take his coat off and pull if the business men will do the same.

Watch Tillamook City grow from now on with up-to-date buildings and metropolitan style. There is no reason why Tillamook City cannot be made one of the best little cities in the state, for it is admirably situated at the head of navigation and right in the heart of a splendid dairying and timbered country, hence it has a bright future for a manufacturing center. Everybody push and pull to make it so.

If the local attorneys who have taken an appeal in a local option case to the supreme court can prove that the law is unconstitutional they will have the everlasting thanks of the Wholesale and Retail Liquor Dealers' Association. And it is strange that with all the legal lights and brains at the back of that association none of them ever undertook to attack the law on unconstitutional grounds. A great many attorneys in the state have claimed that they could knock out the local option law, yet the laurels have still to be won.

Judge Galloway did the right thing on Tuesday when he fined the Italians and Bulgarians who caused the trouble on the railroad, for this county is not desirous of feeding a lot of able bodied men who are able to earn a living. Being ignorant as to the laws of this county they had been wrongly advised, but in this connection we want to say this, that it was on account of Sheriff Crenshaw's prompt and fearless action which quelled what might have turned out a most serious affair and probably the loss of life, for which he is deserving considerable credit as a peace officer. In fact, Mr. Crenshaw has gained the reputation of being one of the best sheriffs in Oregon.

What a crazy murderers have of being crazy after they have committed their bloody crimes. The defence in the Nordstrom case will make that plea when the case is tried on Friday and a specialist is brought from Portland, and at the taxpayers' expense, to show that the man was demented. We might add that Nordstrom wasn't very demented when he left this city with a plan concocted in his mind to rob an old man. Nor was he demented the day he looked upon the corpse of his victim, whose head was battered in, presenting a bloody, gruesome appearance. The dementia plea is getting so common it is a wonder that attorneys have not tried it in bootleg and other cases.

Congressman W. C. Hawley, who has interested himself in the harbor improvements for Tillamook bar and bay, will visit the county the coming summer, and the local bodies and all those who are interested in the improvement, development and growth of the county, should help make the occasion interesting for the Congressman and to show him how thoroughly in earnest and also united the people of Tillamook are for harbor improvements. Let this be a real day this year in this county, and it would be a good thing to invite the large timber owners, or their representatives, to meet Mr. Hawley, for this is a matter which is of as much importance to them as well as the county. We make this suggestion so that the necessary arrangements can be made.

The railroad news looks good to th

snap shot man, with the prospects of railroad connections with Portland before the year is through. Patience is one of the virtues which the people of Tillamook have had to endure for many, many years, which was harder to endure when other parts of Oregon, with far less natural resources, were opened up and developed by railroad connections. Undaunted and with implicit faith in the future development of the county the people have toiled on, at times almost isolated from the outside world, yet for all that it has been the most prosperous county in Oregon, laying the foundation of the dairying industry that is bound to grow and develop as soon as the county is opened up with railroad connections. If a section of country and an industrious class of people ever deserved railroad transportation it is Tillamook county.

We have observed one thing, and no doubt a large number of the dairymen have done the same thing, that a lot of persons want to sell the cheese for the dear dairymen. That is the secret and reason why certain individuals in this city are continually "knocking" the co-operative associations. Surely a great many dairymen in years gone by have lost enough by trusting a lot of blasted-excuse our English—thieves and crooks and "stool pigeons." And because the co-operative associations have adopted a safe, business system, and there is no way whereby the crooks can get in and fleece the dear dairymen, the efforts now being made to create strife and dissatisfaction and to pull down, is another instance where the dairying interests of the county is being injured. We have also observed that where dairymen have been "bilked" out of their hard earned money in this county it was by individual operators or some stranger who had obtained the confidence of the dairymen and not by any of the present co-operative associations. Hence, we want to advise the dairymen not to be fooled or humbugged by those who are knocking the the dairy industry.

CIRCUIT COURT.

- Continued from First Page. Astoria & Columbia River Railroad Company, a corporation, plaintiff, vs. George Watt and Helen Watt, his wife, defendants. Contemnation. Dismissed for want of prosecution. Astoria & Columbia River Railroad Company, a corporation, plaintiff vs. Helen Watt and George Watt, her husband, defendants. Contemnation. Dismissed for want of prosecution. Astoria & Columbia River Railroad Company, a corporation, plaintiff vs. John Watt and Sarah M. Watt, his wife, defendants. Contemnation. Dismissed for want of prosecution. Astoria & Columbia River Railroad Company, a corporation, plaintiff vs. George Watt and Helen Watt, J. C. Hawk and — Hawk, and R. J. Hendricks and Emilie Hendricks, defendants. Contemnation. Astoria & Columbia River Railroad Company, a corporation, plaintiff vs. Robert C. Becker and Eastern Investment Company, defendants. Contemnation. Miriam L. Colvin, plaintiff, vs. Chas. McKillop and Hulda McKillop, defendants. Ejectment. Continued. Ellen Daugherty, plaintiff, vs. Anna Kunze and Gustav Kunze, defendants. Ejectment. Continued. Ellen Daugherty, plaintiff, vs. Jonas Olson and Alpha V. Olson, defendants. Ejectment. Continued. Ellen Daugherty, plaintiff, vs. Grant Mills and Morrison Mills, defendants. Ejectment. Continued. Miriam L. Colvin, plaintiff, vs. Jonas Olson and Alpha V. Olson, defendants. Ejectment. Continued. Miriam L. Colvin, plaintiff, vs. Anna Kunze and Gustav Kunze, defendants. Ejectment. Continued. Ellen Daugherty, plaintiff, vs. Charles McKillop and Hulda McKillop, husband and wife, defendants. Ejectment. Continued. Miriam L. Colvin, plaintiff, vs. Grant Mills and Morrison Mills, defendants; Mrs. C. L. Roberts, substituted as defendant. Ejectment. Continued. Ellen Daugherty, plaintiff, vs. Grant Mills and Morrison Mills, defendants; Mrs. C. L. Roberts, substituted as defendant. Ejectment. Continued. Ellen Daugherty, plaintiff, vs. Riley Maxwell, defendant. Ejectment. Continued. K. G. Staples, plaintiff, vs. W. H. West, defendant. Action for money. Continued for service. Astoria & Columbia River Railroad Company, a corporation, plaintiff, vs. Louis Olson, defendant. Contemnation. Dismissed. Pacific Railway & Navigation Co., a corporation, plaintiff, vs. Herbert W. Cardwell, Abbie M. Cardwell, Fowler H. Cardwell and Helen R. Cardwell, defendants. Contemnation. Application that Oak Nolan be appointed guardian was granted. Defendant H. W. Cardwell is dismissed. Order and judgment that the defendants are in default and the same was entered. Pacific Railway & Navigation Co., a corporation, plaintiff, vs. Joseph Kodad and Mary Kodad, defendants. Contemnation. Dismissed without cost. Pacific Railway & Navigation Co., a corporation, plaintiff, vs. Samuel Elmore, Mary H. Elmore and Elmore Packing Co., a corporation, defendants. Contemnation. Dismissed. Alberts Brothers Milling Company, plaintiff, vs. B. O. Souffer, defendant. Action for money. William G. Dwight, plaintiff, vs. A. W. Atterbury, defendant. Damages and ejectment at issue. William G. Dwight, plaintiff, vs. Christopher Christensen, defendant. Ejectment and damages at issue. Cowing & Cowing, plaintiffs, vs. Claude Thayer, defendant. Action for money. Mary E. Phelps, plaintiff, vs. Hugh Finigan, defendant. Action for money. Case set for trial on Saturday.

Royal Baking Powder Absolutely Pure Renders the food more wholesome and superior in lightness and flavor. The only baking powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar.

- Walburga Jacob, plaintiff, vs. Miami Lumber Co., a corporation, defendant. Damages. Mitchell, Lewis & Staver Co., plaintiff, vs. E. E. Tyler, doing business under firm name of E. E. Tyler & Company, defendant. Action for money. Default and judgment for plaintiff. L. G. Freeman, plaintiff, vs. Miami Lumber Co., a corporation, defendant. Damages. Pacific Railway & Navigation Co., a corporation, vs. Samuel Elmore and Mary H. Elmore and Elmore Packing Company, a corporation, defendants. Contemnation. Dismissed as to defendant Elmore Packing Company. G. H. Ward, plaintiff, vs. C. H. Larrison, defendant. Action for money. Motion to strike out amended answer over ruled. Talmage & Johnson and Ralph R. Dunaway, plaintiffs, vs. Frank Hadley, defendant. Action for money. Settled and dismissed. Talmage & Johnson and Ralph R. Dunaway, plaintiffs, vs. L. T. Bynum, defendant. Action for money. Settled. Talmage & Johnson and Ralph R. Dunaway, plaintiff, vs. Phoebe A. Snodgrass, defendant. Action for money. Settled. Talmage & Johnson and Ralph R. Dunaway, plaintiffs, Paul Erickson, defendant. Action for money. Settled. Mary E. Phelps, plaintiff, vs. Ralph Cross, defendant. Damages. Set for trial at one o'clock on Friday. A. J. Mapes, plaintiff, vs. C. L. Fox Lumber Co., a corporation, defendant. Action for money. Andy Nolan, plaintiff, vs. L. A. Le Miller and Agnes E. Fitzpatrick, administrator of the estate of E. A. Fitzpatrick, deceased. Action for money. Non suit granted. J. O. Drummond, plaintiff, vs. Miami Lumber Co., a corporation, defendant. Writ of review. E. R. Ayer, plaintiff, vs. Seth F. Moon, defendant. Action for money. Continued. Pacific Railway & Navigation Co., a corporation, plaintiff, vs. Eben P. Parker, defendant. Contemnation. Judgment for $350 for defendant, which was a formal procedure. W. H. Derby, plaintiff, vs. Frank Marey, defendant. Action for money. Continued. Ellen Long, plaintiff, vs. Custav Ripmter, defendant. Damages. Peter McIntosh vs. Alex. McNair Mandate. Decree granted. In the Matter of the Estate of Eli Goodspeed, deceased. In Probate. H. E. Noble, plaintiff, vs. Floyd W. King, Nettie C. King, Thomas Childers, Orace Childers, H. E. Gibson and the Portland Coal & Development Company, defendants. Foreclosure. Settled and dismissed. Oak Nolan, plaintiff, vs. Frank Kroth, Thos. F. Harrison and J. M. Harrison, defendants. To quiet title. Continued. E. Bergstrom, plaintiff, vs. Helen E. Bergstrom, defendant. Divorce. Motion overruled and plaintiff given until Monday to plead. W. G. Dwight, plaintiff, vs. Alex. McNair, defendant. To quiet title. Motion to make more definite over ruled and defendant allowed until Monday to plead. M. H. Larsen, plaintiff vs. Marston Bush and others, defendants. To restore deed. Hattie B. Marolf, Ethel M. Holden and Arthur E. Holden, plaintiff, vs. Preston E. Marolf, Carrie Marolf, Arthur N. Marolf, John C. Marolf, Wallace, Lola V. Marolf Lamb, J. D. Wallace and Martha E. Wallace, E. M. Lamb and P. E. Lamb, defendants. Partition. William Himes, C. H. Himes, Sarah A. Bayley and Fred Smith, plaintiffs, vs. William Maxwell, Harrison Cleve, David Smith and Charles Wesley Smith, defendants. To set aside deed. Charles M. Lanning, plaintiff, vs. Dwight Skinner and Mrs. Skinner, his wife, defendants. For deed. Fred P. Wittenberg, plaintiff, vs. Vincenz Jacob and Walburga Jacob, defendants. To set aside deed. George W. Kiger, plaintiff, vs. William W. Starr and wife, defendants. Foreclosure. Default and decree. William Ryan, plaintiff, vs. E. E. Tyler and Della L. Tyler, his wife, and Mitchell, Lewis & Staver Company, defendants. Foreclosure. Demurrer over ruled and decree granted. F. R. Beals, Bird L. Beals and A. G. Beals, plaintiffs, vs. E. E. Tyler and Della L. Tyler, his wife, Mitchell, Lewis & Staver Company, a corporation, and Arthur Holden, defendants. To cancel bond for deed. Demurrer over ruled and decree granted. John B. Langley, plaintiff, vs. Nellie Langley, defendant. Divorce. D-fault. Walter A. Dimick, plaintiff, vs. Yellow Fir Lumber Co., a corporation, defendant. Foreclosure. Peter Brant, plaintiff, vs. Christopher Mills and Samantha Mills, his wife, J. Lyle Wright and Annie I. Wright, his wife, Clarence Jones and Ella Jones, Tillamook County Bank, a corporation, A. R. Gangloff and A. C. Daniels, defendants. Foreclosure. Application that John A. Brant, executor, be made defendant was granted. William Dewd, plaintiff, vs. Hulda Cooper, defendant. Injunction.

They Had Will Power. I was sitting one morning in a quiet corner at Monte Carlo when two elderly men sat down beside me. One was evidently a Scotchman, and the other, I gathered, was from Yorkshire. The former remarked, "I have just managed it." This, I discovered, meant a win of 20 francs. Their daily routine was to appear at the same roulette table at an early hour and play the lowest stake of 5 francs on even chances—that is, on black or red or on the odd or even numbers. They would lose and win and win and lose, but they remained calm and self contained and persevered until they had each 20 francs to the good. I observed them in daily. Some mornings they scooped in. At the amount in twenty minutes, and at other times it was a tough struggle until luncheon time before they managed it. I never saw them fall once, and I learned that they had pursued the same plan for four months. One thing was clear—nothing could tempt them to go beyond the modest stake, and they had the will to stop when they won the stipulated amount. It was really one of the best illustrations of will power I have ever seen, for few, indeed, who enter the portals of the casino are able to resist the compelling atmosphere of the tables to play on if losing and to plunge if winning.—Chambers' Journal.

Family Jars. Schoolmaster (to his wife)—My dear, I wish you would speak more carefully. You say that Henry Jones came to this town from Sunderland. Wife—Yes. Schoolmaster—Well, now, wouldn't it be better to say that he came from Sunderland to this town? Wife—I don't see any difference in the two expressions. Schoolmaster—But there is a difference, a rhetorical difference. You don't hear me make use of such awkward expressions. By the way, I have a letter from your father in my pocket. Wife—But my father is not in your pocket. You mean you have in your pocket a letter from my father. Schoolmaster—There you go with your little quibbles. You take a delight in harassing me. You are always taking up a thread and representing it as a rope. Wife—Representing it to be rope, you mean. Schoolmaster—For goodness' sake, be quiet. Never saw such a quarrelsome woman in my life.—London Scraps.

Pretty Slow. Horace L. Moore was lieutenant colonel of the noted Nineteenth Kansas cavalry. He could lend me for a longer period without rest on a single ration of cheerful good humor than any other officer. Though not given to jokes, he was the reputed author of as many astonishers as the great Lincoln. One time, on the march, he sent an orderly with a message to an officer at some distance. Before the man was out of hearing Moore shouted: "Hey, orderly! Come back here!" He came galloping back, sitting limply in the saddle. Moore dropped his voice and, assuming a half confidential manner, inquired, "Orderly, in the course of your life have you ever seen a snail?" "Yes, sir," was the astonished reply. "You met him, then," replied Moore, "for you'd never overtake one!"—Kansas City Journal.

His Business Ability. In the Adirondacks lives a man too lazy to work, but evidently of great business ability. One winter when he was sitting around smoking his family came so near starvation that some of his neighbors, who could ill afford to help him, took up a collection and bought for the suffering family a barrel of flour, a barrel of pork and a load of wood. They were not considerate enough to cut the wood, but the business man knew how to manage. He hired some of the neighbors who had not contributed to his donation to cut the wood and paid them with half the pork and half the flour.—Lippincott's.

Admirably Equipped. Cardinal Mezzofanti, the famous Italian linguist, who died at the age of seventy-five, knew and could speak more than fifty languages. He could entertain his English friends with specimens of the Yorkshire dialect and his French or German visitors with the patois of their respective countries. "Dear me!" exclaimed Lord Byron, to whom this was told. "He ought to have been the custodian of the tower of Babel!"

Breakfast Months. A traveler stopped at a hotel in Greenland, where the nights are six months long, and as he registered asked a question of the clerk. "What time do you have breakfast?" "From half past March to a quarter to May."—Harper's Weekly.

A Bone. "What sort of an after dinner speaker is Bliggins?" "One of the kind who start in by saying they didn't expect to be called on and then proceed to demonstrate that they can't be called off."—Exchange.

The Quarrel. "Last night we parted forever." "Then I suppose Ferdy will not call tonight." "No, but he'll spend the evening behind a tree across the street."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

General John C. Fremont, "the Pathfinder," is buried in Rockland cemetery, Nyack, on the Hudson.

The Persevering Guesster. "It is amazing what perseverance will achieve," said an Englishman. "Even misdirected perseverance has achieved marvels. There is the case of Robson, the great Notts cricketer. Robson during his Australian tour determined one scorching afternoon that his side shouldn't do the best work of fielding. Well, when the Australian captain spun the coin heads lay uppermost, instead of a knowledgeable defeat Robson said, 'perseverance and nonchalance.' "Well, we'll go in." "But—er—I thought," said the persevering Guesster, "I don't know the English meaning of 'perseverance'." "Then," said Robson gallantly, "I'll toss again." "The Australian made a second zled Australian—you see, I don't know the ordinary man would at this point have surrendered in despair, but so Robson. "Honors are now easy," said with a pleasant smile. "On with a rubber." "The Australian a third time spun the coin, and, having at last called a toss correctly, the persevering Robson led in his side to the shady benches.

An Unofficial Order. Thomas, tenth Earl of Dundonald, his death vice admiral in the Royal navy, tells in his "Autobiography of a Seaman" of an incident on board Hind, on which he served as midshipman. The pet of the ship was a parrot, the aversion of the boatswain whose whistle the bird learned to imitate exactly. "One day a party of ladies paid visit aboard. By the usual means 'whip' on the yardarm several were hoisted on deck. The child descended for another. Scarcely its fair freight been lifted out of boat alongside when the parrot said, 'Let go!' "The order was instantly obeyed and the unfortunate lady, instead of being comfortably seated on deck, was soused in the sea. Luckily for her, the men were on the watch and pulled her out, and, luckily for the parrot, the boatswain was on the watch, this unseasonable assumption of the boatswain's functions might have ended tragically for the bird.

How Prisoners Converse. A man who was sent to jail for three days for a small offense greatly impressed with the conditions taken to prevent the prisoners from engaging in conversation. They were to be warders everywhere, and one was allowed to utter a word. On the Sunday he was in the cell the psalm given was "Wilt thou be as the trees of the forest?" Beside him were two other prisoners, and instead of the words beginning "All people on earth do dwell" this pair sang of their own in conversational tones which went something as follows: "How long are you in for?" "I am doing sixty days." "I nearly broke a copper's jaw." "Sing low or else they'll make you sing." Second convict replies: "You are a lucky piece of goods." "I've got two-and-a-half months." "Tried to break into a house." "Somebody must have given me a push." "By this method they exclude all conversation during the singing."—W. W. News.

Too Humiliating. A certain snail boy of fifty years, assuming many ways, Net, his "room" at school planned a performance. There were to be songs and recitations and a variety of grab bag. The small boy who was in charge concerning the coming of this show, and more especially his part he would take. On the morning of the entertainment his mother suggested that he take his little sister, aged five, to him. He hung his head. "Don't you want to take your mother asked." "No, I don't," he answered. "And why not?" "The reply came quickly. "Cause there ain't none of my fellers has to bring their mother Cleveland Plain Dealer.

No Acid Needed. Weary William Rhoades— "I've got two-and-a-half months in for." "Tried to break into a house." "Somebody must have given me a push." "By this method they exclude all conversation during the singing."—W. W. News.

Getting His Straight. "I wouldn't make a mistake of May," said the conceited beauty of a self satisfied smirk. "You said you were crazy to get married. Of course she's no friend of mine." "No," interrupted Miss Baggins, "she's not even a good reporter. I say I was," but "would be" in the Standard and Times.

Noiseless. Wife—Would it please you learned another language? Yes, it would delight me. Wife—Well, which one should I learn? Husband—The sign language. Set.

A Women's Secret. Biggs—There goes a woman past. Boggs—Yes, and she's twenty years more of it than willing to own up to.—New York Herald.

Great is the fact that the gradually take a wider and wider more scope for the better compensation.—Dinah