

THE BUGLE CALL.

VOL. II.

C.L.S. E.L.S. Editors: Lynn Elerman, Ralph Huuse.

The school was surprised last Monday morning as it marched out for recess to see the flag of the Sophomores gracefully waving in the breeze over their heads.

The simple fact is that the Sophomore class have made a nice banner of lavender and white silk.

Of course there was considerable talk on the part of the other classes about the flag being made of cheese cloth, etc., but of course the Sophomores did not care.

The flag was soon taken down on account of the uncertain weather.

On account of the rain there was no ball game last Sunday. The players are very anxious for a game with Bay City some Saturday.

The Sophomores have brought down upon themselves much comment, favorable and otherwise, lately by assuming to be the leading class of the school and in a sense the model for the other classes.

To be the leading class is a praiseworthy ambition. But in what respects does a class merit the emulation of other classes? Does it possess the true school spirit that leads it to sacrifice pleasure for duty?

Does it seek school for school, or for the social and athletic opportunities which school affords? The signs of a model school class may be read in its attitude toward school duties.

Does the class drop all play and gossip at the signal, or does its members continue their fun as long as possible, infringing on class and study time?

Does the class leave all arrangement for parties, games, etc., for time outside of school hours? Are all occasions of a social and athletic nature left until the end of the week, so as not to interfere with school work?

Are pupils who do not reach good grades and do full school work excluded from participation in the social function of the class, or are they the leading and controlling spirits? These and other secular questions are to be answered by any class that sets itself up as a model for the school.

The public will soon have the pleasure of seeing the flags of all the other three classes as they—the Freshmen at least—always follow the Sophomores.

Mr. Reichen expects to make poets out of the Sophomore class, but they are as hard to do with as figures modeled of brass.

A poet dreams of nature and birds in the air, and he lives near the trees cool shade; but the Sophomores' occupation now is to make a high, honest, grade.

When they become old and wise, as Shakespeare and the rest, then we may sometimes live in dreams, with the bird as he makes his nest.—Selected.

There was a mysterious disappearance of the new Sophomore flag last Monday afternoon. It seems that the Freshmen know a good thing when they see it, and having taken possession of it decided to keep it as long as they could.

It is also rumored that they are making a new banner of their own out of green and white silk, and that they wanted the Sophomore flag for a pattern.

A May day dance will be given by the members of the T.H.S. base ball team, on the evening of May 1st, 1909. One hundred votes for the Queen of the May dance, will be given with every dance ticket. Extra votes will be twenty-five cents per hundred.

Come one. Come all. To the H.S. team's ball. Tickets $1.00. Music by Jenkins' orchestra.

A Vision. The sea in its powerful majesty, is a beautiful place to dream and be. The rolling waves of the ocean grand display their wild fury along the sand.

The white capped waves did break on the shore. When I did hear the stroke of an oar then round the rocks a figure came, which stared and stared yet did not tell his name.

The figure motioned and waved with his hand. To help him get his skiff to the land, so while the wild waves did leap and roar we pulled the skiff upon the shore.

When the boat was safe upon shore the figure vanished to be seen no more and as the sun sent out its bright beam I awoke and found it to be only a dream. M. G.

When one of the illustrious Juniors made the threat to take down the glorious banner of the Sophomores one of the Irish blood of the Sophomores rose. This last was the cause of the following interesting dialogue between V. M. and M. G.

Still another party said that there were other nationalities in the class. V. M. then said that M. G. was a Swede. M. G. retaliated by saying that V. M. was just as much a Swede as she. This was too much for V. M., who replied that M. G. was more of a Swede because her's—V. M.'s did not have as white hair as M. G.'s. (What did that mean?)

Mr. T. Edison Finney was seen leaving town hurriedly the other day. Shortly afterwards Mr. Crenshaw left at full speed in his automobile. He soon came back with said T. Edison Finney. (Looks bad)

Miss Wheeler's cough has not improved, the least bit the past week. We advise her to consult Dr. Allen.

The boys of the eighth grade have acquired a bad habit lately, that is the use of Chinese snuff. It is a dreadful habit boys and you must quit it. The girls and Mr. Reichen were not used to it, so found it necessary to sneeze.

Mr. R. in history class: "Has any one of you ever heard about international union (promptly): "Never heard of it with so many words put together."

The Juniors are very busy preparing for their entertainment which is to be at the opera house next Friday evening, April 30th. As this will be the High School's first appearance before the public this year, a full house is expected.

Information Concerning Eighth Grade Final Examinations.

- 1. Dates: (a) January 21-22, 1909. (b) May 13-14, 1909. (c) June 10-11, 1909. (d) September 2-3, 1909. 2. Program: (a) Thursday—Arithmetic, writing, history and civilt government. (b) Fridays.—Grammar, physiology, geography and spelling. 3.—Teachers having pupils who will have completed the Eighth Grade work at the time of the next examination and who wish to take said examinations, shall notify the county superintendent at once in following form:

Supt., Tillamook, Oregon.

Sir,—This is to certify that the following named pupils of School Dist. No. ... will have completed on or before ... 1909, all of the Eighth Grade work prescribed by the State Course of Study; hence, will be ready for the Eighth Grade uniform examination to be held at that time:

If you have backache and urinary troubles you should take Foley's Kidney Remedy to strengthen and build up the kidneys so they will act properly, as a serious kidney trouble may develop. J. S. Lamar, Tillamook; Hawk & Miller, Bay City.

During the spring everyone would be benefited by taking Foley's Kidney Remedy. It furnishes a needed tonic to the kidneys after the extra strain of winter, and it purifies the blood by stimulating the kidneys, and causing them to eliminate the impurities from it. Foley's Kidney Remedy imparts new life and vigor. Pleasant to take. J. S. Lamar, Tillamook; Hawk & Miller, Bay City.

People past middle life usually have some kidney or bladder disorder that saps the vitality which is naturally lower in old age. Foley's Kidney Remedy corrects urinary troubles, stimulates the kidneys, and restores strength and vigor. It cures uric acid troubles by strengthening the kidneys so they will strain out the uric acid that settles in the muscles and joints causing rheumatism. J. S. Lamar, Tillamook; Hawk & Miller, Bay City.

Mr. F. G. Fritts, Oneonta, N.Y., writes: "My little girl was greatly benefited by taking Foley's Orino Laxative, and I think it is the best remedy for constipation and liver trouble." Foley's Orino Laxative is best for women and children, as it is mild, pleasant and effective, and is a splendid spring medicine, as it cleanses the system and clears the complexion. J. S. Lamar, Tillamook; Hawk & Miller, Bay City.

FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR

For children; safe, sure. No opiates.

He Obed.

Murat Halstead, the great journalist of war times, went to General William T. Sherman's headquarters once for the "latest news from the front." Halstead was armed with many fine introductory letters, but decided to rely mainly on one given him by Thomas Ewing, Sherman's brother-in-law. He found the general and presented Ewing's letter. The general opened it somewhat impatiently, read a few lines, folded it and said:

"Ah, you come from Ewing, and you desire to have 'all the latest news,' the 'next probable move' of our army, eh? Well, there's a train leaving this town for Cincinnati at 2 o'clock. Here, take this ticket and step over there and get your dinner and then get on that train."

"Well, but, General Sherman"— began the newspaper man. But Sherman waved him off. "Go over and get a good dinner. We have plenty and always strive to treat our friends well. But be sure you don't miss that 2 o'clock train!" And Halstead obeyed.

Japanese Delicacies.

Under the head of "Japanese Delicacies" the Berlin Prometheus gives a list of some of the queer things which are served to citizens of the Flowery Kingdom who "have a refined taste." In the provinces which are so distant from the sea that fresh fish cannot be obtained readily, and where meat is not abundant, snakes and lizards are considered good food and are prepared in many ways. Grasshoppers rank among the real delicacies. They are always kept in captivity without food for a day, then bathed and decapitated and made legless. Heads and legs must be torn off, never cut. They are served in various ways, but dry, with a salad dressing, is the most popular. An insect of the bee family which lives in the earth is also much sought. This is served with sugar or honey when eaten raw, but it is also made into a porridge. The chrysanthemum exists not only in the poetry and art of the Japanese, but has an important place on the table, where it is met as salad, candy and stew.

The Right Hand Seats.

The Philadelphia Record quoted an observant street car conductor to the effect that the right hand seats are always filled first. He could not account for this except on the theory that, as most persons are right handed and accustomed to turning to the right, it might be simply force of habit. "There is another probable reason which he did not think of," says the Record. "It is generally believed that the right side of a car is safer. An old traveler once said to the writer: 'In traveling always sit in the middle of a car and on the right hand side. The middle is safer than the ends in a collision, and the right side is not likely to be "side swiped" by projecting objects on trains, cars or any vehicles passing on the adjacent track.'"

Observations on Baldheads.

"If you care to observe the bald-headed row," remarked the theater goer, "you will find that there is great variety in baldheads. There are elliptical bald spots, circular bald spots, elongated egg shaped bald spots, bald spots that are almost square and bald spots whose shape can hardly be described for the reason that they include the entire circumference of the head, with the exception perhaps of a slight row of finishing fringe between the head and the neck. If it wasn't for the baldheads the theater would be a bore before the rising of the curtain."—New York Press.

A Remarkable Race.

The Lapps are very fond of stimulating drinks. They think nothing of drinking fifteen or twenty cups of coffee a day, while their consumption of punch is on a vast scale. It is no uncommon thing to see numbers of helplessly drunk natives in the streets of Tromso, especially when the sale of reindeer flesh has been profitable. Yet robbery and, indeed, crime in general are practically unknown among them. The innate honesty of the people is quite extraordinary.—Wide World Magazine.

The Label Failed.

Gunner—You can't get the best of those blamed baggage smashers. I labeled my trunks "China" and thought they would handle them with unusual care. Guyer—And did they? Gunner—No, but blamed if they didn't ship the trunks all the way to Shanghai, and I haven't seen them since.—Chicago News.

A Slander.

Every time a girl wants to find anything in her top bureau drawer she gets a stick and stirs everything in the drawer round and round. If what she is looking for doesn't come to the surface, then she is satisfied it isn't there.—Acheson Globe.

Intuition.

"What became of that rich uncle of yours?" "I think he's dead, but I don't know." "Gee! How did he lose all his money?"—Cleveland Leader.

The Example.

Professor (lecturing on hygiene)—To-bacco, gentlemen, makes men ugly, short winded, idiotic, paralytic, and I can tell you this from experience, for I have smoked for many years!"

Why, Indeed?

Mrs. Meeker—Wake up, John! I hear a noise downstairs. Jim—Sure there are burglars in the house. Meeker—Nonsense, my dear! Why should burglars want to make a noise?

What's in a Label.

There is a good deal of art in advertising, and it has to be adapted to the public it seeks to meet. Edward Reeves in "Brown Men and Women" makes clear that what attracts the American market may not serve that purpose in the islands of the south seas. He tells an experience which a food firm had with one of those seagirl communities. The natives get very tired of fish, but are fond of canned beef, which they buy when ever they have money. That they are nothing more than children in their ideas the traders find out to their cost if they are not careful. An exporter of canned meat was nearly ruined by clinging to the trademark of a dragon's head. Shipment after shipment was sent out from San Francisco, each can branded with the flaming dragon. The natives shuddered at the sight of the hideous thing. They were not going to eat the disgusting beast. In vain the agents tore off the labels; the natives were suspicious and would not buy. The whole shipment had to be returned and put in fresh cans with a fat ox or sheep on the label. All the natives fully believed that the figure on the label was a true picture of what was inside.

Persuasion.

Dr. A. is a specialist in nervous ailments. In his most successful cases "persuasion" has played an important role. Six-year-old Frank has evidently had opportunity to imbibe his father's views on the efficacy of persuasion, which, Dr. A. contends, appeals to the highest psychic functions.

It was only a few mornings ago that Mrs. A. overheard an altercation in the kitchen between Master Frank and the cook. Mary's voice rose in loud protestations. Mrs. A. hastened to the scene and arrived just in time to see her son seize a convenient broom and threaten Mary.

"Why, Frank," she exclaimed in horrified amazement, "what are you doing?" But Frank was equal to the occasion. "I'm just trying to persuade Mary for some angel cake," he explained in a matter of fact way.

If this treatment may not have appealed to Mary's highest psychic functions it at any rate tickled her sense of humor. Frank gained his point.—New York Times.

A Woman Soldier.

Eleonore Prochaska, born March 11, 1785, at Potsdam, was the daughter of a serjeant. After being brought up in the military orphanage of that town she became a cook in some citizen's house. When the great war against Napoleon broke out in 1813 she was led away by enthusiasm to quit her town secretly. By selling her poor belongings she procured male attire and weapons and enlisted under the name of August Renz in the Lutzw corps. On account of her tall, slender figure her sex was not discovered until she was mortally wounded. This happened in the encounter in the Gohrde forest, Regierungsbezirk, Lunenburg, Kreis Dannenberg, Sept. 10, 1813. The Prussians were there attempting to storm a hill occupied by the French, she acting as a drummer. In 1833 a monument in memory of her was erected in the churchyard at Dannenberg and another in 1889 in the old churchyard of Potsdam.—London Sketch.

Stone Eaters.

Sir James Ross in the course of his travels noted a curious fact with regard to the penguin—namely, the habit of swallowing stones. In one specimen he found ten pounds weight of quartz, granite and trap. Other animals, reptiles, fishes and mammals exhibit the same strange fancy. In a paper contributed to the proceedings of the British Naturalists' society W. H. Wicks has collected a number of facts connected with such stomach stones. The fact noted by Mr. Wicks that the pebbles are usually white quartz is interesting, but does not appear to throw any light on the strange habit.—London Globe.

A Rude Youth.

"How do you account for this, ma'am?" And he held aloft a lump of coal which he had just dug out from the strolch steak. The landlady slightly flushed. "I suppose the poor cows sometimes stray along the railroad track," she said. "But you must admit the steak is tender."

He thumped the coal with his knife. "Yes," he said harshly, "locomotive tender." And the meat progressed in silence.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Concrete.

Concrete itself is, of course, very old. The concrete stairs of Colchester and Rochester castles still show the marks of the incising boards. The dome of Agrippa's pantheon, which is 142 feet in diameter, is of concrete, and fragments of concrete buildings are found in Mexico and Peru.—London Spectator.

Wealthy Poverty.

There are still many houses in the country in England where the owners are unconscious of the fact that, while they themselves are apparently poor, they possess fortunes in furniture and pictures.—Town and Country.

Too General.

Little Eph—Mammy, who was Venus? Mammy—Fo' de law's sake, I knows so many Venuses—Venus Jonsing, Venus Smiff—an', look hemb, chile, you mus' be mo' splicke!—New York Journal.

The Modesty of Women

Naturally makes them shrink from the indelicate questions, the obnoxious examinations, and unpleasant local treatments, which some physicians consider essential in the treatment of diseases of women. Yet, if help can be had, it is better to submit to this ordeal than let the disease grow and spread. The trouble is that so often the woman undergoes all the annoyance and shame for nothing. Thousands of women who have been cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription write in appreciation of the cure which dispenses with the examinations and local treatments. There is no other medicine so sure and safe for delicate women as "Favorite Prescription." It cures debilitating drains, irregularity and female weakness. It always helps. It almost always cures. It is strictly non-alcoholic, non-secret, all its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper; contains no deleterious or habit-forming drugs, and every native medicinal root entering into its composition has the full endorsement of those most eminent in the several schools of medical practice. Some of these numerous and strongest of professional endorsements of its ingredients, will be found in a pamphlet wrapped around the bottle, also a booklet mailed free on request, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. These professional endorsements should have far more weight than any amount of the ordinary lay, or non-professional testimonials.

The most intelligent women now-a-days insist on knowing what they take as medicine instead of opening their mouths like a lot of young birds and gulping down whatever is offered them. "Favorite Prescription" is of known composition. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound. If you consult the Doctor, free of charge by letter. All such communications are held sacredly confidential.

My Delusion.

[TO THE EDITOR TILLAMOOK HEADLIGHT.] We rarely ever find two persons afflicted with the same delusion in the asylums for the insane.

It appeared to me that I was greatly indebted to God, and just how to appease the wrath of God was beyond my comprehension. I came honestly by delusion for I was taught to respect the popular preacher to whom I looked for advice and consolation.

Imaginary obligations are as acute as real; and there is no sensation of rest so long as a person is laboring under a delusion or actual burden.

It seemed to me that there ought to be something done to appease the wrath of God, and the more I went to church and the more religious I tried to be the more I was confounded.

The fact of it is the whole thing is a great big lie and all the popular preacher has to do is to tell it.

Mr. Reader, if you found yourself in an asylum, for the insane charged with insanity and dangerous to be at large, don't you think you would want to consider what brought you there and how to be restored again to your right mind?

I found that the popular preacher was my Jonah, and that I had to throw him overboard entirely. When he comes to town with his great work of salvation I just pass him by for that was my delusion.

If a person is comparatively well and they begin to read patent medicine advertisements and take everything recommended they will soon become a confirmed invalid.

I followed up every religious excitement until it appeared to me that I was a very great sinner that I was lost and undone.

We have in the asylum what is known as the dope fiend, I was full of that holy dope until I was bewildered, until I came to one conclusion and that is this, that Jesus Christ was, and is the Savior of the world, that he complied with all of my requirements. He paid the death penalty in my stead, and that I am absolutely free from all religious obligation, that I have nothing to do, or undo, and that I will rest to that proposition without regard for heaven or hell.
