The Tillamook Headlight.

The Next Step.

As to the Astoria, Seaside & Tillamook Electric Railway enterprise, the people of this city and county are in possession of the first important and reliable facts. The purchasing concern has paid its thousand dollar bonus into the treasury of this city; and Eastern companies are not given to casting such sums "into the air"; it has undoubtedly been sent here by way of practical pledge that the subsequent steps will be taken in due course. The intimation is also at hand the company is buying certain material in the East, for shipment and use here in the building of the line; and thus the way is made clear for the appearance of the moving spirits in the enterprise, or their representatives, and this may be looked for at any moment as the time for prosecuting the work is rather limited and not much of it will be frittered away.

There is every reason to look cheerful upon the proposition. For, in the event the present negotiations fall through, the city will have $1000 to its credit as sheer profit; and the great project will still be as valuable an offering on the open market as it ever was, and that is saying a good deal. It is merely a matter of waiting for the next step, or the next man.—Astorian.

Is a Farmer's Wife a Slave?

What prosperity on the average farm means to the women of the country is described by William Atherton Du Fay in the Delineator. Were the 6,000,000 of farmer's wives in the United States placed in a caldron, fused into one homogenous mass, enough of it chopped out to make one woman—the typical farm woman—and where she depicted to the people as she is, there would be the greatest tragedy of American civilization, says Mr. Du Fay.

There is a lot to be found out about this woman, and it is vital to know of her. It is she who bears the brunt of feeding the multitudes for which the farmer receives so much praise. It is she who gives birth, before her vitality is stopped, to the men who make history. It is she who is martyred even in the times of peace and plenty. It is a use-martyrdom, for it is easily preventable, and for this reason it is especially important that her condition and the causes of it should be known.

In the first place you will be told that it is all bosh about the unfavorable conditions on the farm; that the farmers last year raised $7,000,000,000 worth of produce and that they have given themselves the uplift. Conditions are not at all like they used to be on the farm, you are told, for these men are now riding in automobiles and there is running water which has been put in the house.

There is a lot of truth in some of your statements, for the farmers have made a great deal of money, and in some communities there are hundreds of conveniently arranged and ideal homes on the farms. But the consensus of opinion of the greatest authorities of this country upon farm conditions is to the effect that probably 10 per cent of the farmers are grasping their opportunities for better living in so far as the home is concerned, and that the condition of but 10 per cent of the women is improved. Strange to say, with the vast majority there has come a worse condition with the development of the farm and the advent of prosperity. The country life commission appointed by the president has traveled the country over and found this to be a fact.

Just before sailing for Europe E. H. Harriman had a long chat with the New York reporters, in the course of which he talked quite frankly about his personal affairs, and said that a complete resumption of prosperity waited only upon good weather and the American crop. "Good weather," said he, "is much more important than tariff legislation." In reference to the panic, he said that it was due to sentiment created by such decisions as that of Judge Landis against the Standard Oil Company and to the "methods employed." He thought the people were getting back into a healthy state of mind after a period of dementia. He admitted that his health was pretty poor, and said he was going to consult European doctors. He was willing to retire as soon as a youngster showed up to take his place, but no such youngster had appeared yet.

The word "economy" which appeared to Mr. Taft's inaugural was there on business. It meant exactly what it said. This will be shown a few days hence when he gives to the public the estimates of the executive departments for the fiscal year which begins with July 1, 1910. The appropriations for the year which opens with July 1, 1909, were made in the session of Congress which ended on March 4, three months ago. Those for the year which will begin a little less than thirteen months hence will be made in the session which opens in December, 1909. All along the line the coming estimates are expected to be below the appropriations for the year immediately ahead of them. The cut is expected to amount to $20,000,000 for the War Department, $10,000,000 for the Department of the Interior. This would make a reduction of $46,500,000, as compared with the appropriations which Congress recently made. It is expected that the cuts in the other departments will bring the reduction to about $50,000,000.

Lord Rosebery, who does not usually figure in the role of an alarmist, says that a big war is threatening in Europe, the intimation being that he means between Germany and England. He attributes this danger to "the overpowering preparations for war" which he sees on all sides. Prince Henry, brother of William II, at a naval fete in Kiel, spoke of a "powerful fleet as a means of securing peace," while the talk of Admiral Weber, the naval commander there, had a warlike tone. Possibly there may be something behind all this belligerent language which nobody on this side of the Atlantic is able to see. The American public has been inclined to laugh at all of these war irruptions but there may be some actual basis for them. In these days wars sometimes come without any apparent cause, and also without warning.

Although Gov. Magoon figured that the new Cuban Government would have a surplus on hand for several years, a deficit is already in sight. President Gomez's finance minister estimates that the expenditure for the year beginning on July 1 will be at least $30,000,000, and may run up as high as $40,000,000, while the revenue will not go above $24,000,000. Some of the leaders of Gomez's party say that the higher figure for outlay will be touched.

Although Democrats carried Indiana in November, owing to their attitude of opposition to liquor regulation, the state has been going wild for local option ever since. When confronted with the possibility of a general Democratic restoration as the result of liquor license, Indiana shrinks back appalled from the alternative. She would rather be dry than deluged with something worse than beer or whiskey.

For the first time in twenty years, it is said in Pittsburg iron and steel circles the big mills in that district were compelled to run on Memorial Day, owing to the piling up of orders in the last few weeks and to the emptiness of the ware houses. It is the talk that the recent sluggishness was part of a plan to impress Congress with the danger of tampering with the steel tariff schedules.

With wheat going up farther and farther every day, the "back to the soil" movement is gaining added force. Still nobody is preparing to build a monument to Patten who got in on the ground floor, went up on the elevator, and escaped before he could be kicked downstairs.

President Taft has set the country an excellent example in rising and leaving a theater in which a salacious play was being performed. But the fortune of the play and its managers will be made when this fact is thoroughly advertised.

Mr. Roosevelt has denied that he has killed as much big game as he has been credited with in reports sent from Africa. When we recall the slow work of the Louisiana bear hunt we are disposed to credit the denial.

Mr. Rockefeller says he doesn't care to know golf, but he would like to know golf. Maybe he plays a squarer game of golf than he did of finance. When a game is not bought it is often hard to win.

James I. Hill's suggestion that Congress shall take a four years' rest may be good, but, like a great many other good things in these days, it is unconstitutional.

There is only $35 apiece for every man, woman and child in the country. The prevailing prejudice against Mr. Rockefeller is due to the fact that he seems to have got more than his share.

Although we still hear occasional echoes of Harry Thaw, the world is beginning to rejoice in the hope that it has heard the last of Count Boni de Castellane.

Decision has been reached that no more pictures shall be printed in the Congressional Record. If the order includes word pictures, well and good.

Great Britain and Germany fought to settle their differences amicably. Arbitration is better than a war and much less expensive than a lawsuit.

The president has increased his diet from two to three square meals a day. No doubt of the wave of returning prosperity in this country now remains.

If the governor should take the initiative in doubling the dramshop license, nobody could doubt what the result of a referendum would be.

James J. Hill voices a widespread belief when he declares that law enforcement is not keeping pace with law enactment in these United States—another case of supply exceeding demand.

Organizing a business men's party for ultimate fusion with the Democratic party can only be done after the manner of the old recipe for cooking a hare. First catch your business men.

THREE STAGES TO BE RUN.

Heavy Travel From Forest Grove to Tillamook Expected.

FOREST GROVE, Or., June 12.—Big travel over the Wilson route into Tillamook is expected this summer from this city for there will be three stages in operation between this place and Tillamook City. The Wilson River road is the most accessible mountain road because of the lack of heavy grades and the umbrageous trees on each side of the road. McNamer & Wirtz will run one stage, making the stop at the Halfway house for dinner and making the trip in a day. Charles Adkiss, of Gordon & Adkins, will also put on a stage line, and James Reeber, of Wilson, who has operated a stage whenever traffic warranted it, will also conduct one this summer. McNamer is the lessee of the toll road, toll being paid only over that portion of the mountain road which is in Washington County.

The Worship of God According to Dictates of Conscience.

[TO THE EDITOR TILLAMOOK HEADLIGHT.]

There are men who would have all transactions of business carried on with gold.

There are others who believe that silver should be favored, as a party known as 16 to 1. Then we have the greenbacker who is willing to discard both gold and silver as a medium of exchange, and have the government issue paper exclusively.

In the religious world we have those who believe in the supremacy of the church. Others who believe in the Bible, the leading authority; and a third class who believe in the infallibility of conscience.

The fact is, we need the gold, silver and paper in the financial world. There is not enough gold or silver to supply the demand, and the world at large would lose faith in the paper if it were not backed by specie.

In the religious world we need the church, the Bible and the light of conscience.

The most alarming affair to my mind is the fact that so many men are both penniless and Godless. Neither gold, silver, or paper, nor do they worship God under the direction of the church, or what appears to them the teachings of the Bible, or have any self respect for their own convictions.

Devoid of hope in this life or the future, inferior and unreliable citizens.
