In the political almanac which Col. Bryan is said to be getting out, Gov. Johnson will probably be put down as one of the yesterdays.

Good crops and good times always run together under Republican administrations. There have been exceptions to the rule of "good crops good times."

Young Mr. Thaw is having a hard time in trying to get rid of his demented Americana. He wiggled out of the brainstorm attack, but the other bothers him.

The supreme test to determine whether Secretary Dickinson is "straight" or "rectified" will come in the War Department's attitude toward the water needed to make the 14 foot channel from lakes to Gulf.

A 3,000,000-foot a-day gas well has been struck in that part of Illinois which once illuminated the world by sending Populists to the State Legislature. The signs were not misleading to the prospectors.

The manner in which the Spaniards are getting ready to fall foul of the Moors in Morocco leaves little room to doubt that Santiago, San Juan, El Caney and Cavite are all to be avenged at last in one red battle day.

As an outgrowth of the tariff question one of the great issues of the next few years will be the proposed income tax. The debating clubs throughout the country are urged to get busy, so that no mistakes shall be made.

Dr. Osler reached his 60th birthday the other day, but no smell of chloroform has as yet been detected issuing over the transom of his bedroom door, and it would be a great loss to the world of thought and action if one should be.

The Standard Oil corporation has cut off the pension of $30 a month it had long paid to some of its old retainers living in Ardmore, Ok. A part of the sunshine is now withdrawn from Ardmore and confidence is not as prevalent there as it was.

Three thousand marriages in Chicago are now threatened with annulment because of a defective or illegal ceremony. The action of the divorce courts in Chicago has always been rapid, but, it seems possible to find yet faster ways for getting out of bad scrapes.

It turns out at the close of the government's fiscal year, that the government is $25,000,000 richer than it thought it was because it owes that much less than it was feared that it would. To a perfectly solvent government or individual subtraction in debt is addition in wealth.

It is the trypanosom and not the tsetse fly which threatens the life of Mr. Roosevelt in Africa. The name is larger and more sonorous, and what is better, is more convenient to spell. And if we are to lose Teddy at all, we would prefer the trypanosom to the tsetse, on all accounts.

An Englishman may now marry his deceased wife's sister without violation of the law, but the established church has just declared such marriages immoral. England, it appears, has not yet associated enough with American catching parties to learn that whatever is not illegal can not be immoral.

Canada has asked Great Britain to allow her the privilege of garrisoning the British forts in the West Indies. It was Canada which rushed gratuitously and enthusiastically to the front against the beleaguered Boers. The red hot loyalty of Canada seems to be the only thing its climate can not freeze out.

Ex-Millionaire Snell, late of Clinton, Ill., once said, "A man should get all he can and keep all he gets," but the next week he sent the price of a seal-skin sash to a woman who called him "darling." These two facts, taken in connection, ought to be enough to break his will on the ground of unsound mind.

The same day that Rev. Mr. String of St. Louis denied that the devil needs close watching in this world, the Supreme Court of Iowa decided that a man has a right to use profane language over a telephone wire. There are a number of summer resorts in Iowa, and we have high ecclesiastical authority for saying that the devil is always to be found working around summer resorts in summer.

The case of Harry Thaw is to be referred to three expert alienists who are to pass upon the question of his sanity. The prospect of an early agreement among as many as two mental experts as to anybody's sanity is never good, unless both are retained by the same person. Harry Thaw has had experience enough to know this, and no doubt he does.

The topical songs sung at a recent dinner in honor of Mr. Roosevelt in Nairobi prove again that the old man of the English speaking house who says he knows how to speak English, also knows how not to know how, whenever it suits his purpose to speak English in ways that will put the right English words in the best position and relations toward one another for bringing out the sense—or the nonsense. They sang to Mr. Roosevelt of his prowess as a hunter, and finding that the thing could not be done in classical English they cut boldly loose from effort in that direction. The result is a literary style admirably adapted to the subject they had in hand. It would not be easy to do anything anywhere any better than this:

The colonel plugged him with a laugh. While Kermit took his photograph. Said he, "Those Wall street boys would cry. If they knew how near I'd been to die. Oh, this country's bull, bull, bully; I've enjoyed it full, full, fully. For it eures the best they can show in the West That's so wild and wool, wool, woolly."

The tariff bill has gone to the conference committee, and now the country believes that the end is in sight. The fact however, that ten Republicans voted against the bill in its final passage in the Senate should prepare us for a long contest in the conference. Such persistence and such power as the Republican opponents of this measure have shown is unexampled in Republican tariff making.

These ten Republican senators, led by Beveridge, Cummins and La Follette, favored the House bill, as distinguished from that which was shaped in their chamber. They would, indeed have gone a little farther in the way of reducing duties from the Dingley level than the majority of the republicans in the House felt willing to go, but perhaps not any farther than the House would have gone later on, if it had been free to frame the bill over again. From the praise which the House has received from the Republican press of the country in the past few weeks, that chamber must be exceedingly gratified at the record which it has made. That feeling will be strengthened by the fight which a powerful element of the Republicans in the Senate made for the House scale of duties.

One of the good points in the tariff bill which passed the Senate is the section which provides for the selection of a board of tariff experts, to report occasionally to Congress, and to advise Congress and the President in matters pertaining to the administration of the tariff act. This provision was incorporated in the bill at the suggestion of Mr. Aldrich. It was not in the House draft of the bill. But as the republican press of the country has given the proposition strong support, it will probably be accepted by the House conferees. Several years have passed since the National Association of Manufacturers began urging the selection of a permanent, non-partisan board of broadminded business men to make inquiries into wages and prices of materials at home and abroad, and make reports to Congress from time to time on which that body could base such changes in the schedules as would be necessary. The leading republican newspapers of the country gave the idea their support from the beginning. The necessity for such a board of capable, unbiased men to make such an investigation was so apparent that it won the favor of many persons in Congress immediately. Bills providing for a commission were introduced in the Congress which expired last March by Senators Beveridge, LaFollette and others. They gave their hearty support to the Aldrich proposition, although they believed, and still believe, that it does not go far enough to meet the necessities of the situation.

Proper Treatment for Dysentery and Diarrhoea. The great mortality from dysentery and diarrhoea is due to a lack of proper treatment at the first stages of the disease. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is a reliable and effective medicine, and when given in reasonable time will prevent any dangerous consequences. It has been in use for many years and has always met with unvarying success. For sale by Lamar's Drug Store.

It stopped the hemorrhages and pain in my lungs and they are now as sound as a bullet."—J. S. Lamar, Tillamook; Hawk & Miller, Bay City.

The New International Language Esperanto.

TO EDITOR OF TILLAMOOK HEADLIGHT. Have you heard of Esperanto? Some answers "No," others have heard of it, but know not what it means. Others have read a little about it, while others say they have often read articles about it.

Esperanto is the international auxiliary language created by Dr. L. L. Zamenhof, a doctor of medicine, residing at Warsaw, Poland. Not many years ago many people thought that Esperanto was a patent medicine, or new kind of soap, or most anything but a language. It is not the aim of Esperanto to displace any language, but to be a second language for the world, and its merits are now recognized by many eminent men of all nationalities.

Esperanto is the easiest of all languages to learn. However, do not be deceived by the idea advanced by some that it can be learned in a few weeks time. But compared to learning English, German, French or any of the standard languages, it is like child's play: All nouns end in o, all adjectives in a, all infinitive verb in i, present tense verbs in as, past in is, future tense in us, imperative mode ends in u, conditional mode in us.

The Esperanto dictionary is small, because it is not necessary to have all of the words in it, for this reason. There are about fifty prefixes and suffixes which one must learn and by means of these you can build up hundreds and hundreds of words not found in the Esperanto vocabulary. Now some one may ask, how can I know I have built the words right when they are not in the vocabulary? In this way; for instance, one of the prefixes is mal, which denotes the direct opposite of any idea. If we know the word "good," which is bona, we can immediately form the word for bad mal-bona and hence the necessity of a special word for bad is obviated. In like manner alta "high," "tall," mal-alta, "low," "short," estimi "to respect," malestimi "to despise," etc. So if one has learned this single prefix, mal he is relieved of learning a long string of words such as "hard" (assuming that he knows "soft"), "cold," "old," "dirty," "distant," "darkness," "shame," "to hate," etc. To love is ami; now you know that to hate is malami. The suffix in (pronounced en), marks the feminine gender, and thus if we know the word "brother," frato we can also say "sister," fratino.

Always sound "a" as in father, "i" as ee in seen, e as "e" in they o as "o" in so; always accent the penultimate (the last syllable by one). Every letter must be sounded (there are no silent letters) and each letter has always the same sound. When you have studied Esperanto an hour or two each day for a few months you can correspond by letter or post card with people nearly all over the world who do not know the language which you already speak. It is interesting to receive cards from Russia, Germany, France, Holland, and in fact nearly every country in the world and read them in this wonderful language. I received one a few days ago from Rotterdam, Holland, and the writer wished me to rejoice with him about the new born princess. The last card I received was from Montevideo, Uruguay. There is held annually an International Esperanto Congress. Last year it was held in Germany; this year it is to be in Spain, and most likely next year in the United States. There is to be some kind of an Esperanto convention next month in Chataqua, N.Y. Courses in Esperanto can be taken by mail, or you can buy the text book and dictionary and learn it without a teacher. One must have some knowledge of English grammar, but you can study that, if needful along with the Esperanto.

"En la mondon venis nova sento, Tra la mondo iras forta voko." The English translation of the above is: Into the world has come a new sense. Through the world goes a strong call. Yours truly, F. L. BUELL.

Sees Mother Grow Young. It could be hard to overstate the wonderful change in my mother since she began to use Electric Bitters," writes Mrs. W. L. Gilpatrick, of Danforth, Me. "Although past 70 she seems really to be growing young again. She suffered untold misery from dyspepsia for 20 years. At last she could neither eat, drink nor sleep. Doctors gave her up and all remedies failed till Electric Bitters worked such wonders for her health." They invigorate all vital organs, cure Liver and Kidney troubles, induce sleep, impart strength and appetite. Only 50c. at Clas. I. Clough.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy the Best and Surest. It affords me pleasure to state that I consider the preparation known as Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy the best and surest of good results of any I have ever used in my family," says P. E. Herrington, of Mount Aerial, Ky. This is the universal verdict of all who use this remedy. Its cures are so prompt and effectual that people take pleasure in recommending it. The Bible. All men are accountable to the influence of the Spirit, for all men are redeemed. We enjoy a clear conscience, when we are at peace with the Spirit. The remorse of conscience is the condemning of the Spirit. The penalty for not heeding the conscience is slow but sure. There is no man that can withstand the consequences for it is bound to overtake him, and he becomes convinced with his own self of his error. The bible teaches that we are at peace with God through the Redeemer. It is satisfied. If there is any sin, it is within our own selves, following the voice of right. The bible does not teach that redemption was conditioned for the man that redeemed one man redeemed.
