Dr. Oliver, who is now holding a Great Revival Meeting in Tillamook City.

Editorial Snap Shots.

Probably the fair at Seattle had something to do with so few visitors into this county this year. A cog must have slipped in the weather clock this year, for it was nearly as cold this week as in the dead of winter in this county.

Tillamook is now the county of opportunities. It has just commenced to grow and development—and to score and give the mossbacks the nightmare. Get into the habit of saying Tillamook Beach. The beach between Tillamook bay and Nehalem bay is sometimes called Garibaldi beach and at other times Nehalem beach. Let it be known and called 'Tillamook Beach' in future, for that is the more appropriate name.

The knockers who kept croaking about "Concrete Lake" will soon be able to gaze upon the finest business building in the city and which will become the business center of the city before long. But no thanks is due the knockers for the progress the city is making, for they will keep on knocking and croaking.

Tillamook City is an ideal location for a condense milk factory, for there is no town in Oregon where there is such a large quantity of milk produced as there is in the vicinity of Tillamook City. The county is famous for its butter and cheese, and it should also become famous for its condensed milk. Here is another opportunity for local enterprise and capital to get together and build a milk condensing plant.

The accident on the Netarts road on Monday is another strong argument in favor of building iron bridges in future. Wood bridges have done good service in this county, but with the changed conditions and with heavy travel something more substantial and which will not rot out in a few years is required. As a matter of economy we believe it is time to discard building any more wood bridges, and that concrete and iron take the place.

There is not much doubt but what the election to create a new Port of Tillamook will be carried by a large majority, since it is conceded that if government aid is to be obtained in straightening and deepening Hoquarton slough the people must show a disposition to help themselves. This is what the people intend to do. Also to give the center of the county a good harbor, making it one of the best shipping ports between the Columbia and San Francisco.

Theodore Parks has passed away and Garibaldi has lost a well known character. Gradually the old timers are passing away one after another, and their places are being taken by younger men. Theodore, however, was a man who was well respected, with a kindly, generous disposition in his make up which called for admiration, especially amongst the fishermen whom he was ever ready to help out and assist. He leaves a large number of friends and no enemies, and it can truthfully be said of him that he was a good, generous, kind hearted old man.

Boost every seaside resort, whether it is at Nehalem, Garibaldi, Bayocean, Netarts, Sandlake, Nestucca or Woods. Tillamook County is making a bid for the beach and summer travel, and will get it as soon as these splendid beaches are improved and made attractive and with hotel and other accommodations. There is no doubt in this point. In the next few years, the beaches, like the county, will undergo a transformation, and it would not surprise us much to see all the beaches thronged with people every summer as soon as the railroad is completed.

A petition will be circulated to create a Port of Nehalem under the new law passed by the State legislature. As the Nehalem country is destined to become an important part of Tillamook county we think that the people there are taking the right move in having a Port of Nehalem to look after the improvement of the rivers and bay. Public sentiment for more public improvements is growing quite rapidly, and we are glad to see that the people of Nehalem are getting the right ideas to boost and boom that end of the county, and the Headlight is in sympathy with the movement to give Nehalem a Port. With a few conservative, yet wide-awake and progressive citizens on the commission, they will do a great deal in the development of the county.

Dr. Oliver, the celebrated evangelist, is holding meetings in this city, but as a class, Tillamook people are not church goers. There may be several causes to account for that—the lawless spirit that predominated for so many years, bringing with it a low moral, demoralizing atmosphere. Happily, there is a great change taking place for the better, for public sentiment have been aroused so many times against the lawless class that they do not openly defy the law with impunity. Social purity, too, is a matter which also needs attention in this city, especially amongst the younger class, for if all the accounts of frequent debauchery of young men and women are true, something should be done to stop this curse in the social life of this city. Anything that Dr. Oliver can do to create a spirit of social purity, which will improve the moral atmosphere, will be appreciated by those who believe in the sanctity and purity of the home. As a large number of people in this county have not been inside of a church for a number of years, by way of a change it might interest them to hear Dr. Oliver speak in the tabernacle.

There are a good many foolish and misleading statements being published in some of the local newspapers about the Tillamook Development League, while, in fact, there is no organization, for when the annual meeting was called only the president and secretary were present. It takes general interest and money to run a development league, and when this is lacking an organization of that character soon goes to pieces. Invariably it is but a few men who put up the money and give the time for development work, while others, equally as much interested, never give a dollar or take part in boosting the city. They simply stay in the background and expect the other fellows to do the work, and when this is not done, they commence "knocking" and, unfortunately, there are too many "knockers" in the city. We are sorry to see this lack of interest in development work, and at a time in the history of the city and county when live, energetic work should be prosecuted with a vim. And in this connection we want to say this: To carry on development work, if it is to be done effectively, then it is necessary to pay a person a monthly or yearly salary. There is too much work connected with it to ask any person to do it without remuneration. When the business men realize this and act accordingly, then a boosting system will be inaugurated—not before. We need, right now, boosters and a spirit of boosting all over the county, and the Headlight will do its level best to create that sentiment. Somehow it is easy to raise large sums of money in this city for fairs and celebrations, yet when it comes to raising money for boosting purposes there is a lack of interest. New settlers and new industries are more important than fairs and celebrations, that is, we think so. The city needs a commercial club and a live, wide awake secretary to carry on the development work of the city and county, with every business and professional man backing them. Money talks in development work, and a liberal supply of that and with more boosting and less "knocking" by the chronic "knockers," probably, before very long, the matter of organized, persistent and determined boosting will right itself.

Tillamook Jottings.

The large amount of lumber that is being hauled away every day from the new saw mill in this city is the best kind of indication that there is something doing in the building line in the center of the county. New business houses, new residences, new barns, new bridges and new improvements can be seen in most places, showing more activity in that business line than for many years. How long this will last we cannot tell, but the indications are that a large number of new business houses and new residences will be erected in Tillamook City from now on, as first class lumber can readily be obtained.

Dr. Percy E. Wiley is in from Portland with his bride spending his honeymoon in the county, having been married to Miss Marcella Flood on the 3rd inst., and his numerous friends in this county have been congratulating him upon the happy event, for the young doctor is quite popular with a large number of people in Tillamook county. They will remain in the county until the 24th, when they will return to Portland, where they will make their home and where Dr. Percy Wiley has been practicing his profession for several years. Mrs. Wiley is a most affable young lady, and we extend our best wishes to the happy couple in their matrimonial career.

Theodore Parks is Dead. Word was received in this city the first of the week that Theodore Parks had died at the hospital at Astoria on Sunday evening, where he had gone several weeks ago on account of poor health. The deceased had conducted a general store at Garibaldi for about 30 years, and was well known by Tillamook people and the campers who visited the beach every year. Heart trouble was the cause of death. He was 68 years of age and was a native of Germany. The remains were buried at Astoria.

SERIOUS BRIDGE ACCIDENT. Close Call for Two Women—Two Horses are Killed. It was only by good luck that a fatal accident was averted on Monday evening in the collapse of a bridge near Sam Daley's place on the Netarts road which crosses a gulch. Mrs. Ella Blanchard, of this city, and Mrs. Davis, of Netarts, were returning in a buggy owned by W. G. Harris, and without the least warning the two lower stringers broke, when the bridge, team, buggy and women fell about a dozen feet into the small creek below. Everything was tangled up, and Mrs. Blanchard was pinned down and under the horses and unable to move, the animals laying cross ways on top of her. Mrs. Davis was shaken up, but was able to go for assistance, and while she was doing so one of the horses, unable to extricate itself, was drowned. This relieved the situation some as far as Mrs. Blanchard was concerned, but she was still in danger of being kicked by the other horse, and to prevent this the animal had to be shot, when Mrs. Blanchard was dragged from beneath the dead horses, and, fortunately, she was not hurt. The buggy and harness was damaged, and the horses which were killed were the small black team belonging to Mr. Harris.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy Never Known to Fail. "I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy since it was first introduced to the public in 1872, and have never found one instance where a cure was not speedily effected by its use. I have been a commercial traveler for eighteen years, and never start out on a trip without this, my faithful friend," says H. S. Nichols, of Oakland, Ind. Ter. For sale by Lamar's Drug Store.

Granulated Sore Eyes Cured. "For twenty years I suffered from a bad case of granulated sore eyes, says Martin Boyd of Henrietta, Ky. "In February, 1908, a gentleman asked me to try Chamberlain's Salve. I bought one box and used about two-thirds of it and my eyes have not given me any trouble since. This salve is for sale by Lamar's Drug Store.

ESAW WOOD.

And the Story of the Saw Esaw Wood Saw Wood. Esaw Wood sawed Wood. Esaw Wood would saw wood! All the wood Esaw Wood saw Esaw Wood would saw. In other words, all the wood Esaw saw to saw Esaw sought to saw.

Oh, the wood Wood would saw! And oh, the wood saw with which Wood would saw wood. But one day Wood's wood saw would saw no wood, and thus the wood Wood sawed was not the wood Wood would saw if Wood's wood saw would saw wood. Now, Wood would saw wood with a wood saw that would saw wood, so Esaw sought a saw that would saw wood.

One day Esaw saw a saw saw wood as no other wood saw Wood saw would saw wood. In fact, of all the wood saws Wood ever saw saw wood Wood never saw a wood saw that would saw wood as the wood saw Wood saw saw wood would saw wood, and I never saw a wood saw that would saw as the wood saw Wood saw would saw until I saw Esaw Wood saw wood with the wood saw Wood saw saw wood. Now Wood saws wood with the wood saw Wood saw saw wood. Oh, the wood the wood saw Wood saw would saw! Oh, the wood Wood's woodshed would shed when Wood would saw wood with the wood saw Wood saw saw wood!

Finally, no man may ever know how much wood the wood saw Wood saw would saw if the wood saw Wood saw would saw all the wood the wood saw Wood saw would saw.—Woman's Home Companion.

A PLUCKY LAWYER. The Way Stewart Returned a Desperado's Threat. "The late Senator Stewart believed in muscular Christianity, and many a rough and tumble fight did he have in the old days in California and Nevada," said a California congressman. "He was not quarrelsome, but he was never known to run away from an encounter, and as he was a powerful man physically there were not many who were keen to tackle him. On one occasion a noted desperado was interested in a mining suit and sent word to Stewart, who was attorney for the other side, that if he appeared to argue the case he might count on being killed. The fellow had slain half a dozen men, but his threat in nowise intimidated the plucky young lawyer. The desperado had a well known system of hiding a pistol in his coat pocket and shooting his man without openly drawing the weapon. This Stewart knew, and so when he walked into the courtroom the first thing he did was to lay down a bowie knife about a foot and a half long and a six shooter as big as a young cannon on the table directly in front of him. Then, sternly eyeing the bad man, he said: 'I hear you mean to kill me if I argue this case. That's a game two can play at. That pistol you have in your coat isn't worth a cent against this layout. The minute you put your right hand in your pocket I'll send a bullet into you, and if that doesn't finish you this knife will.' "An old miner who was present and told me the story said the fellow turned white as a sheet and slunk out of the courtroom to appear no more."—Baltimore American.

To Improve Flight. During a big Presbyterian convention in 1865 a rhetorical Scotchman from Ohio got the floor. His speech was replete with mingled humor and sarcasm. In the course of it, says the Rev. Galusha Anderson in a book entitled "A Border City During the Civil War," he made this remark about his own eloquence: "The speech of the brother from this city brought to my mind an experience of my school days. I wrote an oration and handed it to my teacher. "When he had examined it he called me to him and said: "Taylor, if you would only pluck a few feathers from the wings of your imagination and stick them into the tail of your judgment you would write a good deal better."

The Best Part of the Speech. Young James had never heard his papa speak in public, and it was thought time to take him to hear his father deliver a lecture. During the evening a stray dog which ventured upon the platform was disposed of as gracefully as possible. On the way home James was asked how he liked his father's lecture and gave the answer, "It was all right, papa, but I liked the part where you put the dog out the best."—Dellmeator.

When Real Knowledge Comes. "Mamma," asked a little girl, "how long did you know papa before you married him?" "My dear," replied the mother, "I was acquainted with your father for several years, but I really didn't know him until after we were married!"

The Boy and the Professor. "I was mimicking Professor Bore yesterday, and he caught me." "What did he say?" "Told me to stop making a fool of myself." Hope. "Hope," said Uncle Eben, "is a blessing when you're willin' to back it with a little hard work, 'stid of lettin' it play itself out on a policy ticket."—Washington Star. Enjoyment stops where indignation begins.—Pollock.
