

REVIVAL MEETINGS AT THE CHURCH OF CHRIST.

A year of unprecedented prosperity in material things is just closing. Tillamook County has had its share. Our own city has gone forward by leaps and bounds. In our undertaking to make a greater Tillamook, we must not forget the foundation upon which rests all that is good, great and enduring. "Righteousness exalteth a nation (also a city); but sin is reproach to any people," says the Divinely inspired writer. The leading minds of the world in all ages declare Christianity to be the foundation upon which rests all that is permanent. Our present undertaking is to lift this town to a higher plane of moral and spiritual life. To this end evangelist J. B. Holmes, and singer H. K. Shields, have been secured. They will begin Lord's day, Jan. 2.

They come to us highly recommended as Christian gentlemen of the highest type. The Official Board of the great church at Beaumont, Texas, here Mr. Holmes has served as minister for the past 5 years, say this of him: "Br. Holmes is a great leader and a mighty man of God. As a true Christian and one whose work is all in Christ's name, we commend him." Pres. E. C. Sanderson, of Eugene Bible University, speaks as recommended him as a Christian gentleman of the highest type. He is among our most successful pastors and preachers. Mr. Shields comes equally well recommended. He has served many of our strongest churches as chorus director and soloist. He possesses a rich musical tenor voice, is practical and uses common sense methods in his work.

I take pleasure in extending a cordial invitation to the whole community to come out and hear these able men.

V. E. HOVEN.

EVANGELIST J. B. HOLMES.

BOULDER CREEK.

John Borba made two trips to the city last week to haul away his cheese. He thinks he will not have to visit the county seat again very soon. At least not for a week or two.

U. N. Bays returned from the Valley Friday, bringing home his wife who has been at Dalles the past month, nursing their daughter. Mrs. McIntyre's many friends in the neighborhood will be very glad to learn that she was on the road to recovery when Mrs. Bays left.

Louis and Eldee Krake are enjoying a visit from two of their younger brothers who came out from Tillamook last Sunday with Mr. Borba.

We understand that the mail route has been permanently changed from the old road north of the river to the new road on the south side.

R. Y. Blalock, W. D. Gladwill and H. L. Jensen were Beaver visitors last Monday.

Manuel Borba is staying with his Uncle M. T. Suarez at Battle Lake, for a while.

Two young men from Nebraska, old friends of Mr. Sandoz, have been visiting him for the past two weeks. They talk of spending a year in Tillamook Co., and if they like the country, they will probably locate here.

C. A. Smith and wife, of Cloverdale, recently visited friends and relatives in this neighborhood.

H. A. Chopard has been busy tearing down his old house and getting it into the woodshed while the dry weather lasts. He thinks he will have enough kindling now to last him all winter. It's a mighty poor house, you know, that won't even make good kindling.

Elder and Louis Krake helped H. A. Chopard build a wash house one day last week. He put in a sink and drainage pipe, also which makes his wife smile almost as sweetly as in days gone by.

The toot, toot of the donkey engine at the saw mill is heard again these fine warm days.

Mrs. Grace Chopard has a part of the Beaver Traveling Library at her home. These books comprise some of the most popular of the new works of fiction, a number of classics, and a few good children's books. Mrs. Chopard has several blank application cards yet, and will be pleased to take your name and thereby give you the privilege of reading any or all of these books. There is nothing to pay unless the books are damaged or kept over the time limit. As soon as these books are read by all who care to do so, another lot will be brought up.

Have you patronized the new Boulder Creek eating house, yet? At the sign of the Biscuit, Eldee Krake, Chef.

L. N. Sandoz and O. W. Kinnaman were working on the road last week, taking out a large tree that had fallen during the storm.

More Danville Proof.

Jacob Schrahl, 432 South St., Danville, Ill., writes: "For over eighteen months I was a sufferer from kidney and bladder trouble. During the whole time was treated by several doctors and tried several different kidney pills. Seven weeks ago I commenced taking Foley's Kidney Pills, and am feeling better every day and will be glad to tell anyone interested just what Foley's Kidney Pills did for me.—C. I. Clough.

Mrs. S. Joyce, Claremont, N. H., writes: "About a year ago I bought two bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy. It cured me of a severe case of kidney trouble of several years standing. It certainly is a grand, good medicine, and I heartily recommend it."—Chas. I. Clough.

For that Dull Feeling After Eating.

I have used Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets for some time, and can testify that they have done me more good than any tablets I have ever used. My trouble was a heavy dull feeling after eating.—DAVID FREEMAN, Kemp, Nova Scotia. These tablets strengthen the stomach and improve the digestion. They also regulate the liver and bowels. They are far superior to pills but cost no more. Get a free sample at Lamar's Drug Store and see what splendid medicine it is.

For a Lame Back.

When you have pains or lameness in the back bathe the parts with Chamberlain's Liniment twice a day, massaging with the palm of the hand for five minutes at each application. Then dampen a piece of bannel slightly with this liniment and bind it on over the seat of pain, and you may be surprised to see how quickly the lameness disappears. For sale by Lamar's Drug Store.

Eich Men's Gifts Are Poor

beside this; "I want to go on record as saying that I regard Electric Bitters as one of the greatest gifts that God has made to woman, writes, Mrs. O. Rhinevault, of Vestal Center, N. Y., "I can never forget what it has done for me. This glorious medicine gives a woman buoyant spirits, vigor of body and jubilant health. It quickly cures Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Melancholy, Headache, Backache, Fainting and Dizzy Spells; soon builds up the weak, ailing and sickly. Try them. 30c. at Chas. I. Clough's.

A QUESTION OF BAIT.

Should the Beggar Leave Few or Many Cents in His Hat?

"One thing that I've never been able to settle in my mind to my own satisfaction," said a street beggar whose specialty is sitting on a step and holding out his hat to passersby, "is the question of how many pennies it is wise to have in the hat for people to see as they go by. Of course you understand there are two theories on this. Working on one you leave there only a few, just three or four pennies scattered around irregular, but pretty far apart, and on the other you leave in the hat a lot of pennies.

"Of course the idea of the first plan is to make people when they see how little you've got want to chip in and help, and the idea of the other plan is to stir people up to generosity by showing them how generous others have been, and there's a heap to be said for that. There's lots of people that give because other people have given—because they like to go with the crowd.

"I've tried both plans and had good days with lean bait and had days with a full bait in the hat, and then I've had good days with a full bait and had days with a lean bait. All you can do is, if one plan doesn't work well, try the other. You never can tell."—New York Sun.

AVIATION.

The Dangers Involved in Three Dimensional Steering.

The navigation of the air is a form of locomotion that differs from all the others to which men have resorted in that it involves three dimensional steering.

It is in the three dimensional nature of aviation that the real wonder of it lies. Its demands upon the aviator's attention are almost appalling in number and constancy. The automobilist has to mind what he is about not a little, and a woman's carelessness means disaster, but his divagations from safety are all horizontal. The road and gravity take care of the others for him, while the aeroplane can make mistakes all the way around a sphere; hence, in addition to leading an attentive ear to every sound from a complicated and delicate engine, he must manipulate one rudder for up and down, another for right and left and two more at the ends of his wings. And all these must be combined and co-ordinated. Water is stability itself in comparison with the medium through which he moves. When in flight, therefore, the aviator is probably the busiest man alive, and there is not an instant of rest for him till after he has made his perilous descent.—New York Times.

He Put the Brake On.

In his autobiography the late Professor Shaler of Harvard tells this story: Once he was present at a dinner in England where Tyndall, the renowned scientist, started to tell about experiences in America. His descriptions were, to say the least, exaggerated. Just as he was telling about a thrilling escape from drowning which he had had while viewing Niagara falls—describing it with bursts of hyperbole—his eye happened to catch that of Shaler, whom he had not noticed before.

For a moment Tyndall stopped, alabashed—then, with wink of the eye, as if begging Shaler not to "give him away," he continued the tale, but in a noticeably subdued vein.

At its conclusion Tyndall sought Shaler.

"I fear that yarn of mine was rather highly colored," he confessed to the American, "but it is sometimes necessary to touch up the truth a bit."

More Than One Trafalgar Square.

The Scotland Yard examination which would be taxicab drivers have to undergo in the knowledge of London is no mere matter of form. "If," asked the inquisitor recently of a candidate, "a fare hails you in Trafalgar square and asks to be driven to Trafalgar square what would you do?" "I should drive him around a bit and drop him on the other side of the square," replied the candidate. And he was turned down, for he did not know that London has three Trafalgar squares besides the finest one in Europe—one in Camberwell, one in Chelsea and one in Stepney.—London Chronicle.

The Truly Reticent Woman.

Speak of a reticent woman and most people picture to themselves a woman who doesn't talk much. But the truly reticent woman—the woman who makes reticence an art—is not at all silent. She talks with what is apparently the greatest candor, so that people go away from her saying what a frank, genial woman she is. And no one ever suspects, unless he or she is phenomenally clever, that the genial conversationalist had all sorts of unspoken things in her mind.—Exchange.

Father's Real Role.

"Fathers have been much maligned." "As to how?" "About using their boots on suitors. On four different occasions I have been referred by a young lady to her father, and every time I found it was for the purpose of letting me down easy."—Pittsburg Post.

Intrinsically.

Constituent—What do you suppose Graphiter is worth? Senator Lotsumma—I don't know what he's worth now. I bought him once when he was just starting out for $75 and a railway pass.—Chicago Tribune.

A CHANGE OF HEADS.

The Trick a Dusky Ruler Wanted a Magician to Perform.

Thurston, the magician, had many interesting experiences during his professional tour of the globe several years ago. He went to all sorts of outlandish places and appeared before rulers of many strange lands and communities. On one occasion his manager had arranged that Thurston should give an exhibition before the ruler of a province called Pagopago. In the Fiji Islands. In the crowd that saw the exhibition were many of the black and yellow slaves of the chieftain. All the spectators were amazed at the many strange manifestations of the black art that Thurston offered, but no trick appealed so strongly to the assembled retinue and to the chieftain as that in which a white duck was made to appear with a black head and a black duck, after a moment's manipulation, with the head of the white duck. The trick had to be repeated, and then the chieftain engaged in a long whispered conversation with the interpreter.

"What is desired?" queried the obliging trick player.

The interpreter coughed apologetically and then responded: "Respected sir, our honored sire wishes you to take two of his slaves and put a yellow head on a black man and the black head on the body of a yellow servant. Our honored sire thinks it would be very funny."

"Tell his royal highness," Thurston replied, "that I could give a yellow man a black eye, but I would not like to attempt to make his entire head black."—Philadelphia Record.

MONEY IN JUNK.

The Stuff is Always in Demand, and the Profits Are Large.

Up and down the dirty back alleys drives the junkman, singing his mournful, nasal cry, loading his rickety wagon with broken scraps and pieces of old iron, an object of pity or of ridicule to most of the uninformed public.

Let him be admired or envied, rather, for if not he himself, at least his employer, is probably making more money than nine out of ten professional men.

Few things are more depressing and unsightly than a little pile of junk as high as a two story building. One may see such piles in every city, and so far as the casual observer can determine, none of the stuff is ever moved. The piles increase apparently from month to month and grow rustier and rustier, but the men in the business keep on buying.

How are they able to keep so much money tied up? Where do they get the large amount of capital which seems to be necessary?

They borrow from the banks, like any other business man, on the security of their stock in trade.

"No better security," the president of almost any bank will declare. "It can neither burn nor blow away. It can't be damaged by water or smoke. Where is there a collateral like that? It is absolutely safe. The foundries and the nut and bolt works and the stove factories can't get along without it. It pays the largest profits of any business to which we lend money, and these profits fluctuate very little. Junk is always in demand. The men in that business are excellent customers."—Technical World Magazine.

Almost Insulted.

Amid the lace bargains in one of the large department stores the other day a shopper engrossed in thought set her little Japanese spaniel on the counter. One of the salesgirls, not seeing the little dog, threw a remnant of reduced lace over him and entirely submerged him. When the woman went to look for her pet he was not to be found, but several shrill yelps, accompanied by an upheaval of the lace, betrayed his presence. He was quickly rescued from his predicament, and the woman, showering kisses upon his moist, upturned nose, said, "Did they cover mamma's precious with cheap fifty cent lace?"

The salesgirl, who evidently had cultivated diplomacy, assured the dog's mistress that the lace had been reduced from $1 to 50 cents, and the woman took her pet away mollified.—Philadelphia Record

Foiled Them.

Every instructor at Chautauqua is required to fill out a paper answering a number of necessary and unnecessary questions. One year there was a remarkably handsome male member of the faculty in whom all the girl students were much interested. "Is he married or unmarried?" became an all absorbing question. Finally some of them had the courage to approach the college secretary and ask if the files might be looked over. And there the handsome professor, anticipating perhaps some such investigation, had recorded his matrimonial pretensions as follows: "Married or single? Yes."

Sweet Revenge.

"It must be fine to be under contract to write exclusively for a big magazine."

"And to have all the other magazines clamoring for your work, eh?"

"Just so. Think of the satisfaction of sending 'em a printed refusal slip."—Louisville Courier-Journal.
