Miss Drexel of Philadelphia has married two titles in marrying one nobleman. It is not stated whether the two went for one price.

More revivals are being held this winter than ever before. High prices have apparently directed the public thought to religious channels.

A concentrated extract of the maple tree that can be greatly diluted with water is offered in the stores. But who wants maple sugar in pellets?

In order to preserve his equilibrium Uncle Sam proposes to supplement the Peary exploit by placing an American flag at the South Pole.

It is in the nature of the eternal fitness of things that Dr. Cook, after finding things too hot for him in many lands, should be discovered in a country called Chili.

There have been a good many poison mysteries in the country within the past decade, but the Swope case at Kansas City has a wholesale feature that is unique.

It will require a good deal of work on the part of the domestic science experts to convince the public that brisket and flank are just as good as the more expensive cuts of beef.

Madrid explains that a city captured by the Nicaraguan rebels was undefended. If this form of surrender is to be continued the new government should pack up to join Yelays.

The Frenchmen who have just reached South America from an Antarctic voyage refuse to talk, even to the Danes. One Cook was enough to spoil the broth for returning explorers.

Judge Hook has decided that Oklahoma's 2-cent fare law is not sufficiently remunerative to the railroads. Oklahoma will either have to drum up some more business or enact a new law.

Senator Stone thinks the senatorial investigation of high prices will not amount to anything unless the protective policy is dragged down. What is the senator's explanation for high prices in free trade England?

On returning from his wedding trip John L. Sullivan will become a farmer. The motion pictures showing the ex-champion at work in a ten-acre field or leading a husky calf, might be more remunerative than his turnips.

The second husband of Mme. Anna Gould is in trouble over an old inherited debt of $4,000,000. It is seldom that an American heir who marries a title has any fear of dying rich or can hope to escape duns in seven figures.

Four million acres will be taken from the forest reserves and opened to homestead settlement because the land is not needed in forestry work. There is no danger that common sense will be discarded in the treatment of the public domain.

Texas cattle raisers are organizing in support of the protective duty on meat. Southern cotton growers want the staple protected, and Alabama iron makers favor a duty on steel. The Southern end of the tariff question is more substantial than some of the politicians realize.

Many devices have been recommended for driving rats from premises. Some are based on superstitions, but it must be remembered that nothing is gained when they are simply driven from one place to another. Their destruction must be sure and complete. Traps are good, but the rats are so cunning that after a few are caught the others seem to understand and stay away. To destroy rats, each evening when the cows are milked place a little fresh milk in shallow pans around where the rats can get it. Keep this up for a week until they get bold and impatient for it. Then mix arsenic in the milk and await results. It will kill every rat that likes milk and that means almost every one.—Missouri Dairyman.

A method of settling the women suffrage question in New York State is proposed by Senator Brackett, who has introduced a bill providing that on the day before next November election all the women of the State be invited to go to the polls and vote the same as men, yes or no, to the proposed suffrage amendment. The election to be conducted by the regular officers of each district, polls to be open from 8 to 4. The plan is not approved by the leading suffragists, who say that if the Legislature could grant women permission to vote on this question it could do so on others, which is impossible, so that the vote of the women, if passed, would be illegal.

The Bennett "white slave" bill, regulating the traffic in immoral alien women, was passed by the Senate, practically in the same form as passed by the House. Less than half an hour's time was devoted to consideration of the measure in the Senate. When it was called up by Senator Dillingham, Senator Money found fault with one of the reenactments of the present immigration law. The Mississippi senator's objection was to the fact that alien laborers afflicted with contagious diseases were excluded while professional people and others were not. Mr. Money took exception to this discrimination, but after saying he would introduce a resolution looking to its correction, withdrew all objection to the pending bill. The bill amends the immigration laws by excluding women who come to the United States for immoral purposes, persons who bring in or attempt to bring in women for such purposes, and those who receive the proceeds of the traffic.

Gov. Shafroth and Chief Justice Steele of Colorado have issued a signed statement to contradict the assertion made by Rev. Dr. Underhill of Denver last Saturday. Underhill said he endorsed from observation an article by an unnamed woman aiming to show that suffrage had demoralized the women of Colorado and "that 10,000 women of the underworld controlled the elections in the City of Denver." The governor and the judge say these statements are untrue, and that the women of Colorado are the equal of any in refinement, education and feminine graces, none of which qualities have been damaged by their fifteen years of participation in public affairs, while the government has immeasurably improved by such participation. They say also that out of the 30,000 women who voted in Denver last fall not more than 400 were in any wise connected with the underworld.

An interesting variety of opinions have found their way into the press in regard to the nature and influences of Halley's comet, which is due to approach nearest to the earth on May 16, and on which the eyes of the whole scientific world are now centered. Prof. Edwin B. Frost of the Yerkes Observatory in Wisconsin says: "Halley's comet is about 1,000,000 times as large as the earth, but although the earth's gravity may change the orbit of the comet, the earth's path through the sky will be unaffected by the approaching proximity of the two bodies." He points out that the comet is gaseous and its mass comparatively slight and that, therefore, its attraction will not affect the planets while the solid heavy planets are likely to effect the comet a great deal. Prof. Edwin Booth of the department of chemistry at the University of California says that if the astronomers are right in their estimation of the amount of cyanogen gas in the tail of the comet, we may have a chance to feel the sensation of the bugs and insects that are being killed by this same gas. He says we will be all snuffed out if enough of this gas unites with the oxygen of the earth's atmosphere. The Astronomical and Astrophysical Society of America is equipping an expedition under Frederic Ellerman of the Pasadena Observatory, which will take observations of the comet from the Hawaiian Islands.

A Common Cold. We claim that if catching cold could be avoided some of the most dangerous and fatal diseases would never be heard of. A cold often forms a culture bed for germs of infectious diseases. Consumption, pneumonia, diphtheria and scarlet fever, four of the most dangerous and fatal diseases, are of this class. The culture bed formed by the cold favors the development of the germs of these diseases, that would not otherwise find lodgment. There is little danger, however, of any of these diseases being contracted when a good expectorant cough medicine like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. It cleans out these culture beds that favor the development of the germs of these diseases. That is why this remedy has proved so universally successful in preventing pneumonia. It not only cures your cold quickly, but minimizes the risk of contracting these dangerous diseases. For sale by Lamar's Drug Store.

Went Need a Crutch. When Editor J. P. Sossman, of Cornelius, N. C., bruised his leg badly, it started an ugly sore. Many salves and ointments proved worthless. Then Bucklen's Arnica Salve healed it thoroughly. Nothing is so prompt and sure for Ulcers, Sores, Pimples, Eczema or Piles. 25c. at C. I. Clough.

Hiring a Hand. The hiring of a farmhand ought to be regarded as a most important act, yet many farmers are careless about the matter, for which carelessness they, as well as the hired man, are often brought to grief. In employing a hand one should not be too exacting as to his aptness and temperament. Still, we would not bind ourselves by any specific agreement to a hand till we first had the opportunity of observing his characteristics, or knew him by undeniable reputation or recommendation. So it is preferable to hire some steady, dependable farmboy of your own neighborhood. Where this cannot be done, take the stranger who is seeking employment on trial a week or two; study him from all sides; give him a chance to learn your ways, and if the trial seems satisfactory to both the risk in hiring him will not be as though he were hired during the first hour of your acquaintance. Have your agreement with a hired man down in "black and white." A written agreement never injures anybody, and no honest, fair-minded man will object to one. All points liable to cause any misunderstanding later on should be thoroughly discussed, settled and included in the articles of agreement, all of which may be the means of saving the farmer from being left in a tight place with no help, and the farm hand from being out of employment—hunting for another job of work at a season when wages are the highest.

Courage and Imprudence. Jumping into a whirlpool in the attempt to rescue a hopelessly drowning person, who has, by taking chances, got too near it, is another frequently duplicated folly ending fatally, through sheer imprudence. Even courtesy overstrained has time and again resulted in death to the driver of a horse-drawn coach or of an automobile through his going far too dangerously near a precipice or a wall just to show courtesy to a pedestrian or another driver whom he suddenly meets where the road is somewhat narrow for the two to pass one another side by side without a jolt. How much more sensible could one, with equal courtesy, carefully pull back to a wider part of the road till the other passed on? Careless and hasty swallowing of what seems to be prescribed medicine, but it is a deadly poison of the same color and contained in a bottle of same shape is over and over being repeated. Cooking and eating toadstools for mushrooms and similar acts that might be named by the thousand exemplify the same persistence in society of the habit of taking chances.

And what about the bank clerks, who begin by taking chances on horse racing or some other form of gambling, it might be investing money belonging to other people on chance of being able to pay it back honestly, fails, then goes on taking further chances by cooking his accounts to recoup his loss by sheer robbery? "Oh, he is both a fool and a rogue, and a long term in prison is what he richly deserves," is the sort of remark heard on all sides, but is the lesson laid to heart?

Some old matron nearby is heard to say, "Ah, yes, may be so, but he began by 'taking chances,' you know, just as many others do who are not yet found out." Then there is a chorus of laughter at her wise words—"so like that grandmother would say—ha! ha! ha! ha!" And the hilarious fools will madly fail to improve by the lesson.

A Few Horse Don'ts. Don't ask me to "back" with blinds on; I'm afraid to. Don't let some block head drive me that has less sense than I have. Don't run me down a steep hill, for if anything should give way I might break your neck. Don't whip me when I get frightened or I will expect it next time and may make you trouble. Don't trot me up hill, for I have you, the buggy and myself to carry. Try running up the hill with a load yourself. Don't drive me with an "over-check" on; the sun hurts my eyes and I can't see where to step. It's inhuman and cruel. Teach me to stop when you say "whoa," and this you can do without jerking my head off or tearing my mouth. It may check me if the lines should drop or break and save a runaway and smash up.—California Voice.
