The Tillamook Headlight.

A Woman to Be Pitied.

Mrs. Hetty Green is known as the richest woman in the world. Whether this is true or not, it is true that she is very wealthy, and that the unknown number of millions she possesses have been accumulated through the exercise of a poor woman, as ordinary folk estimate poverty, for she inherited a large estate from her father, but she has always lived as if she were poor.

She had undoubtedly great financial talent, and it is a talent much to be desired in a day when money means more than it ever meant in the world before, and Mrs. Green is not to be criticised for putting it to use. She had as much right to cultivate and exercise her gift for money-making as if it were a gift that would have made of her a great singer or artist or writer.

If she had denied herself that she might apply her wealth to great uses, another face would be put on the matter, but she saved simply because the dollar had become the greatest thing in life to her; she worshiped the money for what it was, not for what it could do. She lost sight of real values and became avaricious, penurious, grasping. The other day she appeared in court to fight the payment of an honest debt of a few hundred dollars, feeble, broken mentally as well as physically, childish in her wrath over the demand made upon her, the ruling passion strong to the last—a most unlovely sight.

The Cost of Living

Vague theories and pet notions about the course of the prices of articles that enter into expenditures for food and other necessities are little to the purpose, as all who undertake to investigate the subject soon find. The problem has numerous phases, and confining the examination to any one is a vain proceeding. Some of the figures offered are from interested sources and exaggerated or marked by concealments. A bureau connected with the Department of Commerce and Labor has just issued the annual government report on wholesale prices in 1909 which embraces 257 commodities and follows their changes in value and exactness. Few would guess that this list shows a decline of 2.3 per cent compared with the year 1907, or that the wholesale prices in 1907 were the highest for any period in the last nineteen years.

Wholesale prices are not those with which average consumers are best acquainted, but their study is essential to a true understanding of the case. It is proposed to make the cost of living a campaign issue, but if the point of attack is an error the ammunition will be wasted and the real question will remain untouched. A cry of "Tear down the new tariff" has been raised. But as the cost of living has advanced as much in free-trade England and other European countries the remedy proposed is plainly illogical.

If the United States should drop to a free-trade basis the cost of living would not be reduced unless the ruined means of making a living prostrated prices and everything else. Prices were lowest between 1893 and 1897 and so were wages and opportunities for employment. Unjust manipulation of prices upward ought to be stopped, but trying to reach the evil by a war on a tariff because protective would be a blind act of folly, and a national calamity in proportion to the lengths to which it could be pushed.

Mentality of Our Youth.

Returns of the examination held in the United States for admission to the Naval Academy have been received at the Bureau of Navigation. There were examined 308 candidates, and 56 per cent failed to pass the mental examination. The physical examination has not yet been held. It is not yet possible to say how many vacancies there will be, since some of the principals are to be examined in June at Annapolis, while the alternates were examined in April.

While the physical examination is yet to come, no one believes that 56 per cent of the candidates will fail to pass it. If as many as 25 per cent fail it will be surprising. There will nowhere be any disposition with the physical efficiency of American young men, but there is substantial reason for regretting such a large percentage of failure as the Annapolis officials report in the mental tests. Our schools are not to be censured for giving a prominent place in the curriculum to athletics. It is, however, to be hoped that they will not absorb attention which should properly be given to mental exercise. A sound body is both a physical and moral blessing, especially if a well-trained mind accompanies it. But we must guard against education which perfects the body at the mind's expense. By no stretch of imagination can a beefy 6-footer with bulging muscles be regarded as an educated man if he has a flabby mind. The Annapolis figures suggest there is perhaps not as high an average of mental proficiency among the young men in the schools as there ought to be. This may have been one of the evidences of wrong educational trend that President Woodrow Wilson of Princeton had in mind when he was in Pittsburg last month and made a speech which has provoked discussion in all parts of the country, and the dominate idea of which was that the process to which the college man is subjected does not render him serviceable to the country as a whole.

Prohibition Party Names Ticket.

The nominating committee of the Prohibition State Convention has named the following ticket for state offices:

For Governor—A. E. Eaton, of Union.

For Secretary of State—N. A. Davis, of Milton.

For State Treasurer—Leslie Butler, of Hood River.

For Congress, Second District—George B. Platt, of Portland.

The platform was the most interesting feature of the convention, for it covers a wide range. Cognizance is taken of the recent convention of retail liquor dealers who have determined on a higher standard of saloons, but the Prohibition platform contends that the better the saloon, the more pernicious.

A Woman's Great Idea

It is how to make herself attractive. But, without health, it is hard for her to be lovely in face, form or temper. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation and kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. But Electric Bitters always prove a Godsend to women who want health, beauty and friends. They regulate Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, purify the blood; give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth velvety skin, lovely complexion, good health. Try them. 50c. at Chas. I. Clough's.

Scared Into Sound Health.

Mr. B. F. Kelley, Springfield, Ill., writes: "A year ago I began to be troubled with my kidneys and bladder, which grew worse until I became alarmed at my condition. I suffered also with dull, heavy headaches and the action of my bladder was annoying and painful. I read of Foley's Kidney Pills and after taking them a few weeks; the headaches left me, the action of my bladder was again normal, and I was free from all distress." Sold by Chas. I. Clough.

If You are Worth $50,000 Don't Read This.

This will not interest you if you are worth fifty thousand dollars, but if you are a man of moderate means and cannot afford to employ a physician when you have an attack of diarrhoea, you will be pleased to know that one or two doses of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy will cure it. This remedy has been in use for many years and is thoroughly reliable. Price 25 cents. For sale at Lamar's drug store.

A physician claims that with the advance in medical science a man should live 120 years. This would give Bryan a chance to find an issue in twelve or fifteen more battles.

A woman worker at a mission conference denounced women who pet poodles, and said that foreign missionaries seek to save immortal souls. The poodle's soul may not be immortal, but sometimes it seems to be more soulful than some that are.

If it could be established that legislators in voting for United States senators, are not amenable to the states, the adoption of a constitutional amendment making senators elective by the people of the states direct could not long be postponed.

In the fiscal year which begins a few weeks hence the government will be able to roll up a surplus without the aid of the corporation tax. This consideration will reconcile the country to the loss of the tax if the Supreme Court should knock it out.

The postal banks bill was passed by the House by the vote of 195 to 101, not one Republican being recorded against it. Prior to that the House had rejected 196 to 113, the Democratic substitute against which 21 Democrats voted. The bill, as passed, differs in many ways from the Senate postal bill, but chiefly as to the nature of securities that may be given by banks for the deposit of postal savings funds. The House plan admits mortgages and various securities, besides government, state and municipal bonds. It permits the deposit of the postal bank funds in both state and national banks in the vicinity of the various post offices. To decide what office shall operate banks a committee or board of trustees, consisting of the postmaster general, secretary of the treasury and attorney general, is created. The limit of individual deposits in the postal banks is fixed at $100 a month, or a total of $500. An account may be opened with $1, but stamps of 10 cents' value will be issued for those desiring to save in smaller amounts. On all deposits 2 per cent interest will be paid and depositors will have the option of exchanging for government bonds bearing 2 per cent. State or national banks receiving postal bank funds must pay interest at 2 1/2 per cent. Five per cent of the funds will be retained by the treasury as cash reserve. On the passing of this bill twenty-four Democrats voted with the majority.
