

Editorial Snap Shots.

The proposed new city charter exterminates the present Water Commission. Get ready, gentlemen, to have your heads decapitated.

Quite a number of persons coincide with the snap shot man that the county's outstanding indebtedness should be paid off the next few years. That is a matter for the next county court to tackle, and we hope it will do so, for it would be a nice thing to say and boast about, that the county was out of debt.

Bro. Hofer is wanting to be governor awfully bad, but people do not look seriously upon his candidacy. Somehow it does not look exactly the thing to us to see an editor trotting all over the state tooting his own horn. It does beat the band to what extremes some men will go to when they get a political bee buzzing in their bonnets.

We think that the proposed city charter should be amended in regard to bonded indebtedness. There is a tendency of running municipal corporations headlong into debt, and the proposed charter will have the effect of hastening that in Tillamook City. Besides the present bonded indebtedness for the water system, it will be able to bond itself in the sum of $1,200,000!!! Isn't that a big enough sum to stagger the average taxpayer, especially when it will be those who own little or no property who can put this bondage yoke on this city and the payers.

It was the hope of a number of citizens that in revising the city charter that the committee would prohibit all games, seats and screens from saloons, as well as side and back rooms, for in that way it would not be as congenial places for saloon bums and the riff raff to congregate. It is true that this can be done, but it would have been far better to have it distinctly incorporated in the new city charter, for it would have prevented a good deal of squabbles in city elections, for this is how quite a number of persons desire to see saloons run in this city whenever the county goes dry again.

It will be noticed that the proposed new city charter imposes upon the mayor the responsibility of running city affairs. He is made the boss, as it were, of the city, and the business affairs of the city will be run by commissions appointed by the chief executive. The mayor will have the power to appoint a chief of police and the power also to retire any member on the commissions and the chief of police as well, which is probably a good move, for many mayors of Tillamook City have had to bear the odium resulting from the city marshal's failure to do his duty.

"I feel that it would be proper to call an assembly of Democrats, both in the several counties and in the state, to adopt a declaration of principles and to suggest to voters capable and careful men to be voted for at the general election. I think that such action would be salutary and would arouse enthusiasm among our friends everywhere."—Extract from letter written by Governor George E. Chamberlain to A. E. Stillman, of Umatilla County, in 1906.

If it is considered proper for Democrats to hold an assembly to "adopt a declaration of principles and to suggest to voters careful men to be voted for at the general election" why all the hubbub and protests because the Republicans have done the same.

One thing also in connection with the proposed city charter which should not be overlooked, and that is the amount to which the citizens can be taxed. The maximum is 25 mills, made up as follows: 6 mills for general purposes; 10 mills for roads and streets; 6 mills for water systems; 5 mills for sewer systems, and 1 mill for parks. Nothing for public library. It will be noticed that it seems to be still necessary to provide for funds for water systems, notwithstanding the assertions which were made some years ago that the revenue from the water system would pay the running expenses of the city.

Weather conditions in Tillamook last week were ideal for the county to be swept from one end to the other by the fire fiend, but, fortunately, the danger was averted, simply because the wind changed, although while the East wind lasted it caused a great deal of anxiety. Now that the danger is over for the time being, it is too soon to say that the danger is over this year. What we want to remind our readers is the fact that whenever a fire gets started it is the settlers, to a large extent, who suffer, and not the timber owners. And we want to say this, that it was the timber owners who paid the bills for those who fought fire last week and they were instrumental in saving a large amount of the settlers' property. All will admit that the fire wardens did excellent work, yet we must say that the settlers have not used the best of judgment in setting out fire, not only endangering their own property, but that of their neighbors and the timber as well. We consider that the county had a close call last week, and it is to be hoped that it will have the effect of making the settlers more careful about setting out fire at this season of the year. We believe we are giving good advice to all concerned when we say that no logs, brush or slashing should be set on fire from the early part of August until the fall rains.

Vosburg Crew Claims Race.
Members of the crew of the tug George R. Vosburg are elated over their version of a race from Tillamook to Astoria, in which they assert their craft, towing the barge Nehalem, arrived two hours in advance of the steamer Golden Gate. The tug and steamer sailed from Hobsonville in company, but once outside the former hugged the shore and on reaching the Columbia made time by steaming close to the jetty.

The Vosburg will be inspected while in Portland and leaves out with a shipment of steel for the Pacific Railroad & Navigation Company, a number of ballast cars for use on the Nehalem jetty and smaller cargo. Later box cars are to be transported with the remainder of the rail shipment.

All Records Broken.
For some time there has been a running fire of friendly joshing between the officials of the County Clerk's office and some of the patrons of the office regarding the length of time it took to have an instrument recorded and returned from the office. Previous to the acquisition of extra deputies and owing to the heavy volume of business occasioned by the sea beach industry, the recording department of the office was several months behind with their recording and had to take, in patience, a lot of jollying and do a lot of explaining.

The worm has now turned and the Clerk's office has had its revenge, and a good hearty laugh, at the expense of one its tormentors. Friday last, Mr. James Walton, Jr., at about the hour of four thirty p.m., left an instrument for record, and put in this usual josh about hoping to have same returned within six months.

With blood in their eyes every official in the office exerted his and her best efforts and the result was the instrument was recorded, compared and ready for delivery within an hour. To make their revenge complete, the method of delivery decided upon was by mail, special delivery, and in consequence a messenger from the post office rushed to the Walton residence just as dinner was being served and handed Mr. Walton an enclosure containing his instrument, making the time in which this instrument had been handed and delivered by the Clerk's office only one hour and thirty minutes, which will probably stand as a record for some time. It has not been learned whether the County or the office force defrayed the expense of the special delivery stamp, nor the extent to which Mr. Walton enjoyed his dinner that evening, for the shock probably unnerved him.
