YOU Probably dont give much thought to the way your clothes are made; the kind of surroundings in which the work is done, the class of workers employed, the care taken in designing the garments, the quality of the fabrics; the chances are you dont think much about these things.

That's one reason why so much cheap stuff gets on the market, and on the bodies of so many men who dont want it; makers count on your indifference.

Hart Schaffner & Marx
