Editorial Snap Shots.

We suppose nothing short of a wide open town will satisfy the whiskey element.

How funny. Yet it is a fact, that a number of prohibitionists voted the same way on Wednesday as the whiskey element and bootleggers.

Talk about a non-partisan judiciary. It's all humbug and a scheme to humbug the dear people. Anyone can see that all the non-partisan candidates are amongst the biggest politicians these days.

The floating population, as usual, was rounded up again by the joints to vote against the new city charter. So what about the sovereign will of "the people"? The joints and the floating population must be "the people" in Tillamook City.

The Pacific City Outlook, it seems, has gone the same road as Turner's Leaflet. They are both dead. They were both high strung organs, with socialistic and anarchistic tendencies. It is a good riddance to bad rubbish, anyway. But the snap shot man, who was given a good deal of notoriety in those sheets, is still plugging along and is doing business at the old stand.

We hear, these days, something about conservation. One feature of Pinchot conservation policy is to tax the land and not the standing timber. What does the taxpayers of Tillamook county think of that kind of conservation? And how would it effect this county if Pinchotism had its sway, seeing that the timber owners pay 75 per cent of the taxes?

Wouldn't it jar a lot of us in Tillamook if the water wagon advocates carry the state for prohibition, not that we consider that there is much danger, for forcing up public sentiment, it looks altogether too premature to attempt to force prohibition upon the state before there is a healthy and strong sentiment in favor of it. But the point we want to call attention to in the bill is that if prohibition carries it will be unlawful to traffic in or have possession of liquor, or, as the bill intends, it is a strict prohibitive measure.

Amend the proposed new city charter so that there shall be no screens, no seats, no games, no side or back rooms and no loafing around saloons or soft drink places, and close them up at a decent hour. Let all good, law abiding citizens put their shoulders to the wheel for a decent, well conducted city. It is now plain enough so that any one can see it, that the saloon people wouldn't obey the law when the county was "wet" and they won't obey the law when the county is "dry." It is time for "the people" to demand that it be made tropical for these lawless individuals. But have "the people" of Tillamook City the backbone and the moral courage to cope with the rotten conditions which existed under the "wet" regime as well as the "dry"?

The proposed new city charter was defeated on Wednesday by the small majority of seven votes, and the reason that it failed to carry was on account of the united efforts of the bootleggers, thus showing that the city is still dominated by that lawless element. And in consequence they have created a strong public sentiment against themselves, for all fair minded citizens, who want to see the city well governed and its reputation upheld, will now stand together to bring about better results. It is true that quite a few voted against the charter because they objected to a few features, and with these amended, it will not be difficult for the law abiding citizens to carry the charter at another election, which will be held right away, for all will admit that the city needs, and needs it badly, a charter that is able to cope with lawlessness and the changed conditions which are taking place. The city has been dominated too long by the whiskey element, and the result of the election on Wednesday have made a good many voters, who previously lined up with them, hostile. Now is the time for the business men to get together and decided on a few changes in the bill and then work to pass the charter. It may require a little moral courage on the part of the business men to come out flat footed that the dignity and reputation of the city is to be maintained in the future, but no business man ever lost a dollar's worth of trade in endeavoring to make a respectable, well governed city where people could come and trade. It may be a good thing, after all, that the charter was defeated, for the conservative people of this city can see that the saloon element does not propose to be controlled and want a wide open town again.

TILLAMOOK JOTTINGS.

I. H. Van Winkle, of Salem has had experience especially fitting him for circuit judge while serving as assistant to Attorney General Crawford. He respectfully asks your vote. (Paid adv.)

W. T. Kimball was circulating a petition, Saturday, to see if money enough could be raised to clean Main Street from the Allen House to Lamar's corner and from there down 2nd Ave. East to the Tyler Building. It seems that the majority of the business men are willing to clean up around their own places of business but don't care to donate to others.

A number of the members and friends of the United Brethren Church ran into the parsonage last Saturday night, surprising their pastor and his wife on the occasion of their fifteenth wedding anniversary. They were loaded with all kinds of fancy and staple eatables, and after having a pleasant evening and eating some of the "fancies," they left the balance with a grateful pastor.

About 60 of the business men met at the Tillamook Commercial Club, at the invitation of the entertainment committee, on Monday evening, which took the form of a "smoker." The object of the meeting was to discuss the proposed new city charter. Apart from a few features in the bill, after discussion and some of the provisions better understood, most all agreed that it was a good charter.

United Brethren Church—Bible School 10 a.m. Preaching 11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m. Rev. H. C. Shaffer, of Portland, the Presiding Elder of the Oregon Conference, United Brethren in Christ, will be present and preach both morning and evening. There will be the Communion of the Lord's Supper in the morning, also the ordinance of baptism will be administered. All are welcomed.—B. E. EMERICK, Pastor.

Powder goes up. On and after Nov. 1st the price of powder will advance 1/2 c per pound in all grades. The Powder Company advise us that Glycerin, which is the base of their powder, costs them double of what it cost in 1909. They say that they held off on making the raise, thinking that the price would go down but instead the market is looking up. Price of Stumping Powder will be $7.00 per box or $6.75 per box in ton lots. No. 2 Powder will be $8.00 per box or $7.75 per box in ton lots.—KING & SMITH Co.

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Sylvester Davis, who committed an assault with a dangerous weapon upon H. I. Sheldon. Sheldon was trucking from the Golden Gate, when Davis went up to him, and without the least provocation, struck him a vicious blow across the mouth with an ax handle, inflicting a serious wound, which, had it struck him in the head, might have killed him. Davis skipped the country immediately and is still at large. There appears to have been some trouble between the men in Yamhill county.

Jack Latimer and Chas. Murrey have been making some needed improvements in their barber shop which speaks well for them. They have had the front painted having their business name printed, at the top, and have also placed modern glass fittings in their shop, making it one of the most up-to-date barber shops in town. Last week Jack left a can of wood stain near the stove when he left and upon returning an hour or so later he found it emitting a flame of about two feet in height. If it had not been for his returning when he did the fire company would have had work to do.

P. S. Brumby, representing the Blodgett Co., was in the city this week looking after the timber interests of that company. Mr. Brumby is in favor of the county employing an engineer to look after the road work, paying a good salary to a competent man. He estimates that 25 per cent of the road money is wasted in most of the counties on account of the lose, unsystematic methods of road building. He came in over the Wilson river road, and had there been some practical head to have planned out the road work there it would have resulted in some good road work being done, but as it is the road is in worse shape for travel.

H. H. Hayes, who fell dead in this city last week, was 74 years of age and was born in West Virginia. He was a soldier in the war of the rebellion. He was married in 1867 to Mary Skipton, in Livingston Co., Ill. Five children came of this union, viz., Nellie Newberg of Hemlock, Ore.; Annie Sprague, of Silverton, Ore.; Otis Hayes, of Kelson, Wash.; Edward Hayes, of Sandlake, Ore.; Gene Tohl, of Hemlock, Ore. Mr. Hayes was a member of the Universalist Church. He was a model husband and father, a good neighbor and a splendid citizen.

The bereaved family, and especially the aged wife, have the sympathy of all their many friends.

I. H. Van Winkle, of Salem, for circuit judge will give equal justice to all and special favors to none. Qualifications based on experience and preparation. (Paid adv.)

"Ten Nights in a Bar-Room."

Opera House, two nights, Friday and Saturday, Oct. 23th and 29th. The people of Tillamook will have a chance to witness a performance by the Dramatic Club, of this famous play. Coming as it does, immediately before the elections. This play presents the much disputed question in a manner that may be understood by everybody. See for yourself, a play that has looked upon as the means of deciding a remedy for the evil of intemperance. See the play and tell if you can suggest a remedy. "Ten Nights in a Bar-Room" presents both sides of the story. You see both, depicted in a manner, that impresses you with the situation. No sermon is more forcibly impressed upon the minds of young and old, alike. No seeker for a remedy could find the exact conditions more forcibly told. Don't miss seeing it when you can.

The Revival Meetings.

The most inspiring event of the revival thus far took place Tuesday evening, when at the invitation eleven young people stepped down the aisle and took their stand for Christ. The large audience was deeply stirred, and many gave expression to their feelings in tears.

The largest audiences of the meeting have been in attendance last week. Interest in the meeting is increasing remarkably. Evangelists Olson and Moss and their assistants have thoroughly gained the confidence and good will of the entire community. On all hands is heard praise unqualified for the preaching of Mr. Olson and the singing of the Moss Family. On Monday evening Evangelist Olson gave his popular lecture on "How to be happy though married." The lecture was full of wit and wholesome advice, sound sense, wisdom and pathetic incidents. The crowning thought of the lecture was the counsel to take Christ Jesus and his religion into the home and set up his altar there. With Jesus ruling in every home there would be nothing else present but happiness. With Christ with one in the hearts of father and mother and children there would be constant joy and peace and love.

Already in the meetings forty-five have stepped out for Christ. Of these thirty-seven have come by confession and baptism and eight by statement or letter. Judging by the results, the meeting is already one of the greatest ever held in Tillamook.

It is conceded by the best authority, that men in other professions, of the same intelligence as the popular minister who receives from $600.00 to $1000.00 a year, get from $2500.00 to $4000.00. If only those who are confirmed total abstainers contributed to the support of the ministry they would receive less, yet no matter how conscientious, sober and industrious a man is, if he does not uphold prohibition he is classed with the damned. J. C. GOVE.

The Stoddard Entertainment.

The benefits of travel—who can doubt them? What is the whole world but an open book, whose author is Almighty God, and on the pages of which have been written, more or less distinctly, stories of the various races of humanity? Whatever be their language, nationality or faith, all students of the past are heirs together in the heritage of history.

A tourist may return from travel penniless, yet be a mental millionaire; while some illiterate Croesus, who has never visited the shrines of Nature, Art and History, is, in the realms of memory, a bankrupt.

If this be true, may not each and every one of us be millionaires, and as the long winter evenings are closing in upon us, and little Tillamook is shut off from the rest of the world, with John L. Stoddard, the world's greatest traveler as our companion and guide, visit every part of this wonderful world and its many people, see how they live and the structures they erect, as though we had been among them?

The opportunity to obtain the Stoddard Entertainment has never presented itself to the good people of Tillamook until now and we sincerely hope a large number will avail themselves of this chance, as Benjamin Wheeler says "to make good their loss of wide-range travel through the world by enjoying the readable pages and wonderful illustrations of these books."

Judge Richards, of the Superior Court, says, "I wish to commend unreservedly the lecture of John L. Stoddard as they appear in the latest editions. To my mind there is nothing in the way of descriptive eloquence in English which equals Mr. Stoddard's portrayal of sights and scenes on both sides of the Atlantic. His lectures upon France, the Rhine and Florence are alone worth the price of the entire series. To students especially, these lectures form a delightful supplement to history. They should be in every library and especially upon the shelves of every school library, where history, literature and art are the subjects of instruction."
