It is reported that the price of meat is to come down. That ought to please the beef eaters.

It's generally customary, in civilized countries, to invite the Press to such events as a banquet to a prominent jurist. But if the attorneys of this city prefer being that exclusive, why, it's their privilege.

What a muddle the state is getting into in trying to do away with representative government. We suppose that the new-fangled ideas of legislation will have to run their course before the people will get next to themselves, for it is only another form of populism that is misleading the people.

J. C. Bewley claims that he did not vote "wet." It seems that how the joke got started he did not deny the report, but thought it was a little fun the "wets" were having at his expense, he participated in the joke as well, in the spirit of a little pleasanter that was indulged in, and in this way, we were lead to believe that Mr. Bewley had made a mistake.

Our contemporary has quit publishing the price of cheese in Wisconsin. C. B. Wiley paid a visit to his old home in that state, and being interested in dairying in this county, he naturally inquired into conditions there, and it surprised him to hear that the best the dairymen could obtain was $.15 per 100 lbs. milk. The average price paid this year in Tillamook is $1.50. Why not keep on quoting Wisconsin prices, Bro. Trombley? Tillamook is the banner dairy county of Oregon, and, as far as we can ascertain, no place is receiving more for milk.

Wanted, in Tillamook City, a mayor, city council, marshal, recorder and city attorney with enough grit and moral backbone to sustain the peace and dignity and reputation of the city and to be public spirited in preparing for its future growth and development. Every city official elected next month should be a live booster for the city, not a puppet put up and elected to protect the liquor interests or any other interests. The city's interests should be the first consideration. There is no reason why we cannot have a clean, respectable and well governed city, like other progressive and up-to-date business towns. Let's all try and make it so, anyway.

A good many candidates for political favor made it a point to say that they were supporters of the registration and primary laws. As far as the registration law is concerned it is a delusion in regard to preventing illegal voting. Thousands of illegal voters were railroaded to the polls before the State had a registration law, and the same thing was carried on in the recent election. Most every "boater" in this city was "fixed" with the necessary blank so that he could vote, and it is reported that at Eugene 1000 persons voted who had not registered. Our idea of a registration law, and to prevent, if possible, some of the illegal voting, would be to require a person to register 90 days before an election, and failure to do that should deprive a person from voting. Our present registration law needs amending in this respect.

The liquor interests found that there was a political sentiment about "the people" ruling in this state, introduced the home rule bill, and "the people," not realizing what they were doing, "bit." "The people" must now give the liquor interests credit for being smart politicians and in knowing the whims of "the people," but the contradictory manner in which the bill was drawn up is certainly laughable after the barrel of money used in persuading "the people" to vote for it. And another instance in which "the people" have been fooled was in voting for the county taxation amendment, which, unfortunately for "the people," carried by a small majority. "The people" were tricked into voting for it because it abolished the poll tax, not knowing that the bill can be used to revolutionize the taxation system of Tillamook or any county in the state. The aim of the politicians was to talk about the "overgrown will of "the people" in recent elections, and at the same time to get them to vote for deceptive bills. It is evidently a move to make the farmers and land owners pay the taxes.

Every once in a while there is talk of a milk condensing plant being established in Tillamook City, and at the same time the assertion is made that a condensing plant can pay more for milk than the cheese factories. As the proof of the pudding is in the eating, this cannot be ascertained before it is given a trial. There are a whole raft of dairymen who are ready to take their milk to a condenser, provided they can get more for it than at the cheese factories, but they do not want to be tied up with contracts until they are assured of receiving more money for milk. The average price paid for 100 lbs. of milk in Tillamook this year was a little over $1.50. So it is "show me" with dairymen before they are ready to switch from a good thing. The Headlight would like to see a milk condensing plant established in this city and the field is still open to those to make good their assertions that they can pay more for milk. There is no question as to the amount of milk, for there is more milk produced in the vicinity of Tillamook City than any place in Oregon.

The liquor interests see that it is highly important that something must be done, and done immediately, to "reform" the saloons, for they are aware that if they are allowed to run in the manner in which they have done in the past, there is every reason to believe there will be a revulsion of public sentiment which is liable to make the state "dry" in a few years. To ward this off, a movement is on foot to put the saloons under rigid regulations, and cities which want money from saloons to run the city government are also waking up to the fact that they, too, must co-operate and pass such laws and enforce them. Below is the kind of regulations which La Grande is about to adopt, and that is the kind of ordinance that the "wets" in this city should insist on passing for the regulation of saloons in Tillamook City, that is if they are sincere in wanting saloons regulated. Time will tell. A large number of our citizens have advocated an ordinance similar to that which is to regulate saloons at La Grande, and we submit this for their consideration:

La Grande's ordinance provides that an applicant for a saloon license must first pay $120, the license fee for the year, into the City Treasury, and present a bond of $1000, backed by a responsible surety company, before it will be considered by the Council. The applicant's personal character will also be considered as well as the proposed location of the saloon. Upon conviction before the City Recorder of any violation of the criminal laws of the state or provisions of the ordinance governing the sale of liquor, the offender loses his license, forfeits his bond and may also be punished by fine and imprisonment. The ordinance provides that there shall be no dice, cards, slot machines, or music in the saloons and that there shall be no frosted windows or screens. Women are prohibited from entering a saloon. Gambling is also barred.

CIRCUIT COURT ENDS.

Tillamook Bar Association Paid Judge Burnett a Well Earned Compliment.

The November term of the Circuit Court came to a close on Monday afternoon, and this is the last time that Judge G. H. Burnett will preside, after being on the bench for 18 years, for he was one of the Supreme Judges elected at the general election. The Tillamook Bar Association submitted a motion to the court to have the following resolutions spread upon the court journal and that a certified copy be forwarded to Judge Burnett:

We, the undersigned members of the Tillamook County Bar, realize to the fullest extent, that the only true safeguard of personal liberty, and the rights of property, security of peace and happiness rests with a pure, dignified and incorruptible judiciary;

That such a judiciary is only possible by the support of a Bar that respects purity of ability and fearlessness in the members of the Bench, and that condemns and discourages weakness, ignorance and lack of courage to perform the judicial functions without fear, hope of reward or favor;

That Judge George H. Burnett, who has presided over this court for more than eighteen years, has proven that he is a man pre-eminently by nature, stability of character and learning, to be a man and a lawyer, of these invaluable characteristics and attainments, to make him an ideal judge, which he is;

His home life has always been pure and happy; his private life without a single blot; his moral life has no stain; his public career has been incorruptible, and his decisions rendered fearlessly, conscientiously, and without favor or partiality, and with rare ability, his sentences always tempered with mercy and sympathy for the unfortunate, but with firmness.

Resolved, therefore, that, as words are inadequate to express our unstinted love and esteem for him, we do thus express to him our deep regrets in losing him from our Circuit Bench, and at the same time convey to him in this genuine but homely manner, our individual rejoicing of his elevation to the Supreme Bench.

That he will ornament, we all know; that he has earned this distinction and honor, is his own reward, and our fond desire, hope fulfilled.

We hereby assure him of our everlasting love and respect:

May his health, and services as a judge be spared us for many years to come, and may God bless him and his own.

Signed by—H. T. Botts, President Tillamook Bar Association, S. S.

High School Flashes.

Those who had charge of the work to raise money for the Gilford Stillwell Park Fund seems to have had little success convincing our merchants of the good they would receive from such a source. Our city would be a great deal better off if those who have money could see that by improving the educational life of the city that there would be larger numbers come to live with us and in this way the lands would be of more value, and we would have a city to be proud of.

The football squad has been working the past week trying to get in condition for the game with the Dramatics Thanksgiving day. Carl Dawson claims that his team has a formation which can go through any team. We make no boast, but only do our best, and are not saying that we will defeat our opponents, but will at least try to do something to make them relish their Thanksgiving dinner.

There will be no school Thursday and Friday of this week, it being thought best by the school board to let the students have an extra day to get over the effects of the Thanksgiving dinners.

Because of the holidays this week the Emersonian program will be given Wednesday afternoon in place of Friday. At this time there will be an inter society debate which promises to be very interesting. The High school orchestra will also make its first appearance at this time.

Last Friday evening the members of the eighth grade gave a social at the Todd's hall, to which the faculty and students of the High school and also a number of town people were invited. Among the games, the obstacle race was the most interesting. There were sticks and chairs put in the way of those to run, then blind folds were placed over their eyes and obstacles taken from before them. Those who ran would imagine that they were going to step on something which was not there. Refreshments were served after the games.
