

Tillamook Jottings.

A Savings Pass Book with a deposit of one dollar or more makes an acceptable Xmas present.—Tillamook County Bank.

The Ladies' Guild of the Presbyterian church will have a sale of useful and fancy articles in Miss Hilma Johnson's millinery store on Saturday afternoon.

Floyd Woolfe received quite a scare last Thursday while setting traps with Neil Hiner on the logs in the mill pond. It seems that while he was setting a trap he became overbalanced and fell into the water with a bunch of traps which he had with him, and as he could not swim he was in a fair way to drown. After he had sunk the second time, Neil Hiner, who is an expert swimmer, jumped into the water, dived and got hold of the top of Floyd's head, and after pulling him to the surface succeeded in getting him ashore where he worked the water out of his lungs.

Julius Kruttschnitt, director of operation and maintenance of the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific systems, was in Portland on Monday, and amongst the things that he discussed was the completion of railroads now under construction. What was of most interest to this county was the announcement that the road to Tillamook would be pushed through to completion as rapidly as possible. This should put a stop to the report which is being peddled around that it would be another year before trains are operated over the P. R. & N. Co.'s road. With the announcement from President Lytle that the road would be completed and in operation by the 1st May, and the statement of Mr. Kruttschnitt that it will be pushed through to completion as rapidly as possible, is a good indication that there is to be no further delays and disappointments in the time for this road to be in operation. It will be remembered that it was Mr. Kruttschnitt who came to Tillamook on an official inspection of the road, and it was his favorable report to Mr. Harriman which caused work to be resumed after the work on the road had been suspended for twelve months.

Social at the Club.

Last Thursday the Commercial Club, with the help of the ladies of the town, gave one of the best programs ever given in this city besides receiving $125.85 from the sale of baskets.

The program consisted of a large number of selections by the Club orchestra, songs by Mrs. Fred Poorman, Mrs. Frank Rhodes, and Jas. Vernon; a short talk by President Holmes which was full of the progressive spirit, and a debate by four representatives of the High School which seemed to be enjoyed by all. According to the decision of the judges, the affirmative, which was handled by Oscar Aschim and Elbert Ginn, was defeated by the negative, Elsie Lamb and Benly Stam.

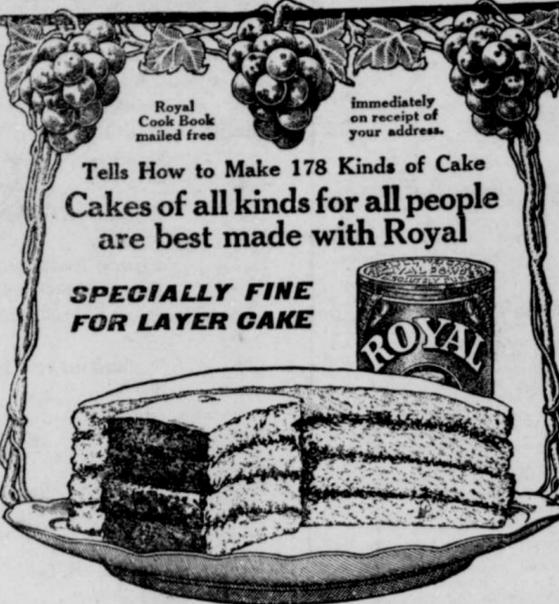

After the program those who did not care to spend money for a basket went home while the others stayed and from all appearances everyone was well pleased with this feature. The highest bid received for a basket was one by Morris Leach of $7.00 for a basket made by Mrs. John Aschim. Altogether the thirty eight baskets brought in an average of $3.32 a piece. Much credit is due not only the ladies but also Sheriff Crenshaw for the high prices received for baskets.

High School Flashes.

The Debators are trying out at present for a place on the team which meets Nehalem the 23rd of this month. The choosing of the team will not be done until Friday, after which the ones who are lucky enough to get a place will start work for the opening of the Inter-scholastic Debate Season.

A great amount of excitement has been caused in school among the class who are more desirous of having pleasure than of securing an education, by the announcement that there will be only one week of vacation. There have been a number of petitions circulated through the school this week to see if two weeks could not be had, but no one seems to know whether they care enough for the extra vacation to run the risk of receiving the ill will of the school board. Some have already had their names erased.

The debate which the High School had last Thursday night at the Commercial Club was enjoyed greatly by the High School students. The club certainly is getting ready to do a good work and we only wish that we were old enough to join.

HANDICAPPED

The boy or girl with any defect of vision is greatly handicapped in the pursuit of knowledge in the school room. If your boy or girl does not show a high percentage of average in the school report the probabilities are that there is something the matter with the eyes. To find out costs you nothing if you will bring them to me for examination. It doesn't pay to guess about the eyesight of your child—it is better to see that the eyes are right. If glasses are needed I am prepared to furnish the exact thing that will meet the needs of the case. Remember that they are guaranteed for one year, and I am here to make them good. A RUSSIAN SPY.

Trepoff's Ruse to Get at the Plans of the Nihilists.

When the famous General Trepoff was only at the beginning of his career Vera Sassulitch was his invaluable assistant.

Trepoff was the detested enemy of the nihilists, and he was very anxious to obtain inside information as to their doings and plans. Suddenly one day in 1878 he was fired at while driving through the streets of St. Petersburg by no other than Vera Sassulitch. She was at once seized by the soldiery and was charged with the attempted murder of Trepoff, being tried in the ordinary manner; but, to the amazement of the public, she was acquitted!

On her release the nihilists gathered about her, desiring to admit such a friend of the people to their closest acquaintance. In this way she was admitted to all their private circles and was made acquainted with their secrets. These she at once communicated to the Russian government. The truth was that the whole business, including the attempt on his life, was faked by Trepoff himself, and it was simply a clever ruse to get from the nihilists what could not be got in any other way. Thereafter Vera Sassulitch played the part of government spy on innumerable occasions.

ANSWERED BACK.

Ready Reply of a Ragged Turk to a Scot in Kilts.

During the troubles at Crete in 1897 the Seaforth highlanders were landed to help to restore order. Their advent, dressed in the familiar kilts, created a great sensation, as the natives, who themselves wear a kind of kilt, had never seen British soldiers in such a costume.

An amusing incident occurred one day when a party of Seaforths were marching through a small, wretched looking village. As usual, the inhabitants turned out to stare at the soldiers, and one of the highlanders with a view to raising a laugh among his comrades shouted out to a group of Turks, "Gae hame, ye dirty blackguards, an' scrub yersels."

Imagine his astonishment as well as that of the remainder of the highlanders when a ragged and evil looking Turk shouted back in reply, "Go home yourself, Scottish dog, and cover yourself up!" This Mohammedan had spent several years in London and so learned the language. — From "Anecdotes of Soldiers in Peace and War," by J. H. Settle.

Oratorical Effects.

I once heard Everett, whose platform oratory was the acme of American art. His language was unimpeachable. But his every word, and not only his every word, but his every gesture, was unmistakably prepared. He seemed to gesture not only with his hands, but with his legs. He even planned scenic effects beforehand. Having to deliver a Fourth of July oration, he introduced a veteran of 1812, put him in a conspicuous place and told the old man to rise to him at his entrance into the hall. The old man did as he had been bidden. Everett apostrophized him with "Venerable old man, sit down! It is not for you to rise to us, but for us to rise to you." The veteran said afterward: "Mr. Everett is a strange man. He told me to rise when he came into the hall, and when I did rise he told me to sit down." — From Goldwin Smith's Reminiscences in McClure's.

The Lightning Rod.

Though Franklin will continue to receive the honor that is his due as the inventor of the first practical lightning rod, the study of atmospheric electricity goes back at least to the time of Thales of Miletus, who persisted in an attempt to "draw fire from the sky." A learned priest of the name of Divisch is said to have erected the first lightning conductor in Europe. He set it up at Prenzitz, Bohemia, in 1754, and it was 130 feet high. Though the Emperor Stephen and the Empress Maria Theresa publicly proclaimed their confidence in the inventor, a most disastrous drought that afflicted the country a year later was ascribed by the superstitious populace to the newfangled device, and Divisch was compelled to take it down. It is not probable that Franklin was acquainted with Divisch's experiment.

Wrong End of the Milk.

One morning while trade was slack and he had settled himself in the store chair for a few minutes a north side grocer was interrupted by the entering of a very small daughter of Africa, who, bracing herself in the middle of the store, said, "Mam wants some scum milk," whereupon she received the asked for amount of skimmed milk.

The grocer had just settled himself for another rest when he was again interrupted by that selfsame bottle of ink: "Mam don't want this. She want that what's scummed off the top." — Indianapolis News.

Poetic Justice.

"Pa, I've just been reading about poetic justice. What does that mean?" "Listen, my child, and you shall hear. Once there was a man who swindled me out of a lot of money in an irrigation scheme. Well, he became a victim of poetic justice. I have just heard that he died of water on the brain." — Judge.

Gratitude is the fairest blossom which springs from the soul, and the heart of man knoweth none more fragrant. — Horae Balles.

MAILED LETTERS

Belong to the Sanders Until Sent to the Addressee.

Under the postal regulations of the United States a letter does not belong to the person to whom it is delivered to him. The sender has a right to reclaim and recision of it, provided he can show the satisfaction of the postmaster of the office from which it was sent. The letter has arrived at its destination and has been delivered to the person to whom it is addressed. It is called by the writer by the through the mailing office.

The regulations of the post department of course require the utmost care shall be taken by the postmaster at the office of the sender to ascertain that the person who is to withdraw the letter is the one who is entitled to do so. The postmaster is responsible for the letter if he delivers the letter to a person or an unauthorized person. The vital principle in our system lies at the bottom of the letter. In this country the servant or agent of the postmaster. It remains merely throughout the transmission of the letter. The state may provide conditions under which his duty may carry a message for the but it cannot shirk its duty to him. — New York Press.

ST. BERNARD DOGS

These Famous Life Saving Dogs Are Said to Be Womped.

Among American tourists in England there is much rivalry between "real" St. Bernards to take them. They evidently do not think that the St. Bernards are real. The original St. Bernard dog light toward the end of the last century. The mother was a shepherd dog, the sire a mongrel Great Dane and a Spanish mastiff.

In the winter of 1812 twenty dogs lost their lives in the snow. The last St. Bernard dog was a dog named St. Bernard. But a monk of Marigny named St. Bernard, and this was a dog with white sheep dogs. The dog being one in Scotland in the present race of St. Bernards, though mongrel, like the first, and stronger than the old ones said.

The railways have made St. Bernards almost unnecessary as they continue on the old stage when the snow lies high. The male dogs are used for rescues in distress. They are followed on snowshoes, who carry ropes. Each of the older dogs has several young companions, which he takes the business. — Boston Post.

Seen in a Dream.

Mr. Illprecht, professor of zoology in the University of Prague in 1893, when puzzling over objects excavated at Belz, dreamed in a dream the solution of a difficulty that confronted him. The things represented fragments of a scribed with characters. They supposed to be bits of paper being apparently of different were not closely associated with the professor. But in a dream an Assyrian priest, who had been the priests of the Temple of Belz received a rotive cylinder from their king, were ordered earrings for their god. They three by cutting up the cylinder the professor would find by the fragments together that they two of them. He did this and that they gave a continuous relation.

Helping Him Out.

For years Squire Latham, of many amusing stories are told, resident of Bridgewater, Mass., was while he was living there an incident occurred which is now low. It illustrates his habit and whimsical temper.

He was awakened one night by his wife, who told him she thought were burglars in the house. She put on his dressing gown and went downstairs. In the dark he saw a rough looking man trying to get a door that led into the back yard. The burglar had unlocked the door and was pulling it with all his might. "It doesn't open that way," he shouted the squire, taking the burglar's predicament instantly. "It will."

Not a Disease.

"I can't understand my doctor. I am afraid there is something terrible the matter with me." "What are his symptoms?" "Well, I often talk to him for an hour at a time, and when through he hasn't the least idea of what I've been saying." "Don't worry any more about your husband. I wish I had his gift."

All Depends.

"I don't like to listen to these stories. Do you?" "That depends on whether the reminiscences or the professions are a touch." — Washington Herald.

"Too many cooks spoil the broth," quoted the wise guy. "Yes, just as too many cooks spoil the appetite." — Philadelphia Record.
