one in crossing from Bay City to Bay Ocean had been capsized, but upon further investigation it was found that a couple of men had crossed the bay, and upon landing on the Bay Ocean side failed to make their boat fast which allowed the tide to wash it to the opposite shore.

In response to a cablegram sent Adrian Tinner, in Switzerland, yesterday from the Fairview Dairy Association, Carl Haberlach this morning received a cablegram saying he would accept the position as cheesemaker and would be here in March.

The Elmore arrived in port Friday afternoon with:—Mrs. J. M. Maddux, Neva Maddux, Liland Maddux, W. Hoskins, A. McNary, T. E. Epplett, C. E. Himes, R. C. Ney, E. Williams, J. McClellan, B. Drew, Mrs. Simmondson, E. H. Daley, Ira Smith and wife, W. A. Galloway, J. J. McCormick, H. Parker and Clark Hadley as passengers. She carried a full cargo of freight and mdse. for our farmers and merchants.

The Golden Gate was disabled last night in Tillamook bay. It is supposed that she rested on something which injured her shoe, and this locking her propeller, she was unable to move. She was towed as far as oxbolt bend by the Oshkosh, and succeed in reaching the bend in the slough from this city with the aid of a launch, where she went aground. As the vessel was leaking in the stern, Captain Groat was appealed to and the government scow was towed down, which will be used to help pump the water out. She will probably reach her dock on to-morrow morning's tide.

The following named applicants, at the examinations January 19-20, were awarded diplomas by the Board of Examiners:

- Daisy B. Tomlinson, Dist. No. 54.—Teacher, Miss Winnie Spencer.
- Grace Edmunds, Dist. No. 55.—Mrs. J. H. Dunstan.

Mrs. Lucas, wife J. D. Lucas who has charge of the Godspsed ranch east of town, left last Thursday, accompanied by her son Leslie, in response to a telegram stating that her sister, Josephine Burch, who has had poor health for about two years, was not expected to live. Miss Burch breathed her last Tuesday morning, the cause of death being pulmonary tuberculosis. She was a daughter of Judge Burch, of Polk County, and well known and respected in that county.

The young people of the Presbyterian Church and members of the Christian Endeavor of that church were entertained Tuesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex McNair. The merry crowd gathered at about 8 p.m. and interested themselves by playing games, all of which were very appropriate and amusing. At 10:30 cake and punch were served to about fifty guests. The young people of the church have very interesting times at their Christian Endeavor services and attendance is increasing rapidly.

Last Sunday Halsey Pangborn and wife gave a dinner to their relatives in this county. Twenty-four persons sat down to a sumptuous spread which was greatly enjoyed by all. Singing and other enjoyments usual at old time reunions were indulged in. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Noyes, G. Hoover, C. W. Thomas, Harry Thomas, F. E. Norton, and W. M. Heaton and families, also Mr. F. E. Norton's father and mother. Mr. Pangborn has made arrangements to leave for his old home in Kansas about the middle of March, where he has rented his father's ranch.

Tom Johnson, who runs a saloon in this city, had a hearing in this city charged with selling liquor to an intoxicated person, John Simmons, before City Recorder T. B.

Handley. It seems there was no dispute as to Simmons being drunk, who called for a bottle of whiskey and paid for it, Frank Long taking the bottle with the intention of getting Simmons out of town, who went away and left the whiskey at the barn and Long returned it to the saloon keeper and the money was refunded. Recorder Handley held that this was not a sale and dismissed the case against Johnson, which so surprised City Attorney Willett that he doesn't know what to do in the future.

James Walton, Jr., trustee for Clyde Clements, vs. Joe Therdich was a case tried before a jury in Justice Stanley's court on Tuesday. Therdich has a lease on the building he now occupies, and Clements, a local saloon keeper and of bootleg fame, who bought the building, made an effort to deprive the old man of his lease, setting up the plea that Therdich had violated the conditions of his lease by allowing drummers and the band boys to use part of the building. The evidence proved that the old man had not sublet the building nor violated the conditions under which he had leased it. The jury took this view and gave a verdict in favor of Therdich. This case caused a good deal of comment in the city for it was generally conceded that Clements was trying to force the old man out of the building. Attorney Botts was the attorney for Therdich and Talmage & Johnson appeared for the saloon keeper.
