The Tillamook Headlight.

Editorial Snap Shots.

The beautiful warm rain this week made every dairyman wear a contented smile, for the grass is making great growth.

Send a copy of this week's issue of the Headlight to your friends in the East and Middle West and help boost Tillamook County.

Help boost the county. The P. R. & N. Co. will be running trains in a few months and the United Railways will be rushing work as soon as the weather permits.

The bridge across Hoquarton slough needs a little attention, in fact, a new bridge is needed. Far better spend a little money on it now than have an expensive damage suit later.

Come to Tillamook City on Saturday, for the merchants are going to make it a bargain day. Drop into the Headlight office and give the editor the address of a person in the East or Middle West and he will send a copy of this week's issue free of charge.

It transpired in the case of Cone vs. Bozorth that instead of the United Railways closing a deal for about 60 acres of property at Bay City, $10 is all the money that was put up by the railroad company. Tillamook City, notwithstanding reports to the contrary, is the goal to which the United Railways is aiming to reach.

It seems to be the opinion of those who are in a position to know, that the money is available for the United Railways to extend its line to Tillamook. That is good news. And we are reliably informed that as soon as weather conditions are favorable construction will be started at both ends and several camps will be operating in the mountains.

Is Portland politically corrupt to the core? By the look of things it is politically rotten, for the "grafters" appear to be far more numerous than the land grabbers were a few years ago. Another visit of Francis J. Heney as a public prosecutor would uncover the "grafters." And what a jolt and a surprise it would be to see some of the city officials clothed with penitentiary duds.

In the death of Einbert Marcell on Wednesday, this county lost a sturdy settler who had reached the ripe age of 90 years, and who was respected and honored by all who knew him. As these old settlers pass away one after another, it is well to reverence their memory, for they labored hard and endured many privations in their efforts to open up and develop this isolated section of Oregon. As the county in a few months will have railroad connections, a large number of the old settlers have passed away before the railroad was completed.

The City Council is to be commended for turning down the efforts of the saloon keepers to nullify the Home Rule ordinance. It was only last fall that the saloon keepers were fighting for Home Rule, and no sooner is a model saloon ordinance passed than they want to overthrow it. It is gratifying to know that some of the city duds see the trend of public sentiment against this city becoming run by saloon keepers. The sooner the saloon keepers realize, that if they expect to remain in business, that they must keep out of city politics they must allow the progressive citizens to run the city administration, and the saloon keepers who act white will have no fear of getting a square deal.

We feel sorry if we ruffled Bro Trombley's temper, and we tender him our humble apologies. We did not know before that our respected brother was trying to "skin" us, but we will admit that he has got us "skinned" and beaten to a frazzle for swiping the cream of the news from the Nehalem, Cloverdale and Bay City newspapers. We do not know of another instance in Oregon where a newspaper published at a county seat is swiping the news from all the country newspapers of the same county, making it that much harder for them to exist. Say, dear brother, don't get the reputation of being a "skinner" and second hand newspaper publisher. However, as Bro. Trombley claims that he's got us "skinned," we'd like to divvy up with him when he disposes of the snap shot man's hide.

It is generally conceded that a large amount of money have been wasted by the government in bay improvements in Tillamook bay, and although the engineers may not be inclined to admit it, it is a fact, nevertheless. Now that it is proposed by the different Ports to expend large sums of money on harbor improvements, we do not want to see any mislicks in expending large sums of money experimenting, the same as some of the government engineers have done, such as the Trask cut-off and other experiments which have done more harm than good. Had the engineers consulted with those who were familiar with local condition, probably better results might have been attained. Admitting that the bay will become a great lumbering center, now is the time to plan for it, so that the most suitable parts of the bay for manufacturing purposes can obtain channels. It is not the correct thing to cut off one part of the bay to benefit some other part of the bay. But before any money of the Ports is expended upon harbor improvements, let competent engineers be employed to plan out a practical project for the permanent improvement of the bay.

What Is Sabbath Desecration?

TO EDITOR TILLAMOOK HEADLIGHT. Since there is considerable discussion going on regarding this subject I felt moved to speak a word for the purpose of learning something myself, and perhaps lead some one else into the light, as well. We were told not long ago, by a very able speaker, and by the way, a conscious Christian gentleman, that it was not so much the things we do on Sunday that makes it wrong, but it is due to the fact that we stay away from church and spend the day elsewhere, thereby allowing our minds to be filled with worldly things which lead us to forget God. Now the majority of the Christian young people of this community attend Sunday-school and church in the morning, league and endeavor and church in the evening.

That leaves about three hours in the afternoon for a little harmless recreation. The time is too short for any very great amount of mischief, even if they were so inclined. To hear some people talk, one would infer that the young people of our community were not capable or responsible beings. That they are even lacking in intellectual ability to carry out their Christian principles. Why not give them a little credit at least for ordinary judgment as to what is right and wrong?

Is it wrong for them to meet at the home of some friend and pass the time in social chat and a general mingling together?

Surely it is just as legitimate and proper as it is for older ones.

Most of them are in school, either as pupils or teachers, and a little innocent, reviving, emanating, out door airing is going to do them good, morally, mentally and physically, at least it seems so to me.

What would you rather have them do?

Perhaps it would be wise to pump them down on a straight backed chair, or possibly a backless stool, and say to them "Now sit there and don't you dare to bat your eye, or move a muscle, or so much as allow your face to relax into the very faintest shadow of a smile."

Do you suppose they are so short of good common sense, or horse sense as to indulge in all sorts of rowdiness, hoodlumism, or any other "isms" that are in any way unbecoming young ladies and young gentlemen?

Trust them, by all means, trust them and let them know that you do trust them, and feel sure that they intend to do the right thing under any and all circumstances.

If you are going to draw a fine bead on everything, the next thing anyone knows, there won't be anything left for them to do.

If conditions would permit I would have a group of young people in my home every Sunday afternoon, and I'd give them the premises and say, "here's to you, now have a good time and enjoy yourselves to the fullest, and come again next Sunday."

Do you suppose for one instant that those young people would be careless or indifferent enough to do anything that would bring any semblance of reproach on me or themselves? I'm sure they would not.

Don't try to make them old before their time. Cares and "life in earnest" will come soon enough, and then they will know without being told that the time has come for them to settle down to "stern realities," but give them some privileges now that they can look back upon and say, "Well, I surely did have a good time when I was young, and that helps to make life more pleasant now, even with all the hardships and trials that are bound to come."

We as older people should not forget that we were young once, even tho' it was long ago with some of us, and we should also remember how utterly impossible it was for us to understand some things, that we can see clearly enough now.

It would be better to not see the "little mole hills," which if let alone will never be anything else except harmless "little mole hills," and don't try to catch every "gnat" that comes one way, lest by the time we are through with it, it has grown to the size and magnitude of a camel.

By all means let the young people have your hearty co-operation in any and all kinds of innocent recreation, thereby making life pleasant for them, and keeping wrinkles from our own face.

A SINCERE FRIEND OF YOUNG PEOPLE.

High School Flashes.

The Emersonians are working hard on their program this week as undoubtedly the one which they render next Friday will be their last one and they want to have a good impression with the students.

A number of the students are talking of taking a trip to Munson Falls in the near future. According to present calculation those who go will get a wagon and hay rack if possible and take the trip one week from Saturday. It seems that there has been a good deal of trouble in getting the students to feel the need of an excursion.

At last the Gilford Park has been fenced. The committee which was appointed by the High School to improve the park has had a hard time getting the work completed and they are glad to get the fence built. The Board of Trustees seem to be an undecided lot, as they were at the school house one afternoon last fall and told the members of the High School to see about getting lumber and to go ahead and get the work completed. We have now finished the work and it seems that the Board are of the opinion that they should pay for it also. We do not know what they intend to do with the three hundred dollars which they have in their treasury but think that they might afford to use some of it after the boys have gone to the trouble of helping them. High School students are the same as other people and can see things as well as any see, and when people promise them that they will back them up in anything, if they go ahead with it, and then those people go back on their promise, they certainly do not need to expect the students to trust them again. Although it may pay them at the present, we wish to say that those in school now will someday be men of business of whom trust will be desired.

We understand that Prof. L. L. Baker has again been contracted with to superintend the city schools for the next year. The students are delighted beyond measure, as all of them have a warm place in their hearts for him. The school has been in the most flourishing condition that it ever was in since Prof. Baker took charge of affairs last fall. He is a man strict in discipline, thorough in every point, and capable of getting the most good from the student that is attainable.

Ruby McGee, of the senior class expects to go to Portland next week to be gone about ten days.

The High School Base-ball team played two games of ball with the team from Astoria, one on Saturday of last week and the other one on Sunday of this week.

The Astoria boys together with one of the instructors in the Astoria High School, Prof. Murrill, started from Astoria last Thursday, stopped one night in Seaside and made it over the Necarney trail Friday to Nehalem. There they were met with cars, which were furnished by Art Case, Henry Deihl and Leslie Harrison. They reached this city about five thirty in the evening.

Much credit is due Art Case for the help which he gave the school by making two trips to Nehalem and back, one of which was entirely after dark.

A large parade was formed at one forty-five Saturday under the direction of Rollie W. Watson in which was the Tillamook Concert Band and over 20 of Tillamook's automobiles. At two p.m. the game was called and the eager crowd which had gathered, witnessed one of the cleanest games that Tillamook High has ever played, at the close of which was found to be Tillamook 7, Astoria 1. On Sunday the Astoria boys, not being allowed to play on Sunday under the name of their High School, had to play as the "Centennial Amateurs" and our boys played under the name of "Tillamook Athletic Club." Again the High School played a good game, only three errors being found against them at the close of the game. The score was Tillamook 13, Astoria 0. Much credit is due the pitcher, Clent King, who pitched all of the first game and most of the second. 'Sco' the coach is also to be complimented on his good work.

A reception was given the Astoria boys at the I. O. O. I. Hall Saturday night which was attended by about 90 persons.

Do Ghosts Haunt Swamps.

No, Never. Its foolish to fear a fancied evil, when there are real and deadly perils to guard against the swamps and marshes, bayous and lowlands. These are the malarial germs that cause ague, chills and fever, weakness, aches in the bones and muscles and may induce deadly typhoid. But Electric Filters destroys and casts out these vicious germs from the blood. "Three bottles drove all the malaria from my system," wrote Wm. Fretwell, of Lucama, N. C., "and I've had fine health ever since." Use this safe, sure remedy only. 50c at Chas. I. Clough's.
