

Tillamook City the Place to Trade.

A serious question will soon come up that will effect all our business people to a great extent if the hauling of freight from Tillamook continues to increase at the present rate.

As it is, purchasers make a saving of ten to fifteen per cent on the goods hauled up by wagon from Tillamook City over the prevailing prices in Nehalem and also have the satisfaction of having it delivered at their homes. This saving is made on flour, feed and sugar as well as other staple articles which are generally sold at the lowest prices consistent with successful business methods and therefore it is to be expected that other goods are proportionately cheaper as the margin of profit is greater.

The cause of this is that our merchants pay from three to five dollars more for freight per ton than Tillamook merchants. For this reason they are at a serious disadvantage in trying to meet Tillamook prices and pay Nehalem freight rates. Of course we must admit that our bar is not always good under present conditions and for this reason it is unsafe to cross at times with the Vosburg and the barge Nehalem in tow.—Nehalem Enterprise.

Church of Christ.

Evangelists Olson and Moss, now in a meeting at Dallas, made a flying trip in here Monday, returning to their work Tuesday morning. They reported over forty additions in their first week at Dallas.

The Bible school here has undertaken to reach the "Front Rank" standard. Come and we will tell you about it next Lord's day morning at 10 o'clock. Always something special.

The C. E. had a business meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Harrison last Tuesday evening. The attendance was large and a most splendid social time, with "eats," was enjoyed. They have undertaken missionary work in Japan.

Sermon subjects for next Lord's day as follows: A.M., "The Fruit of the Spirit—Faithfulness;" P.M., "Class Prophecy of the Twelve." At these services you will get a Christian handshake and a message of hope, if you come.

The Base Ball Games.

The series of baseball games which were played Saturday, Sunday and Monday between the Tillamook Commercial Club and Columbus Grays' was neither a success for the home teams financially nor in regard to the games won.

The first game was marked by rotten playing throughout on the part of the club team, possibly because of the lack of team work. Nothing brilliant was done by either side and the final score was 8-4 Grays.

The Sunday game was the best of all. Clint King, the high school pitcher, occupied the box for Tillamook and proved himself a good clean, clear headed twister. At the beginning of the seventh innings the score was 2-2, and King held down the Portland team to that score until the eleventh, when the club boys made a run which finished the game with the score of 3-2 Tillamook. Portland worked two of their pitchers against Tillamook, but to no avail.

Lake, who was on the slab during the first game for Tillamook, occupied that position in the last game, and although he is considered an exceptionally good pitcher he seemed to lack the power of winning the game for the home team. Numerous errors were made, both in the in and in the out fields, which probably caused the score to be as it was in the end.

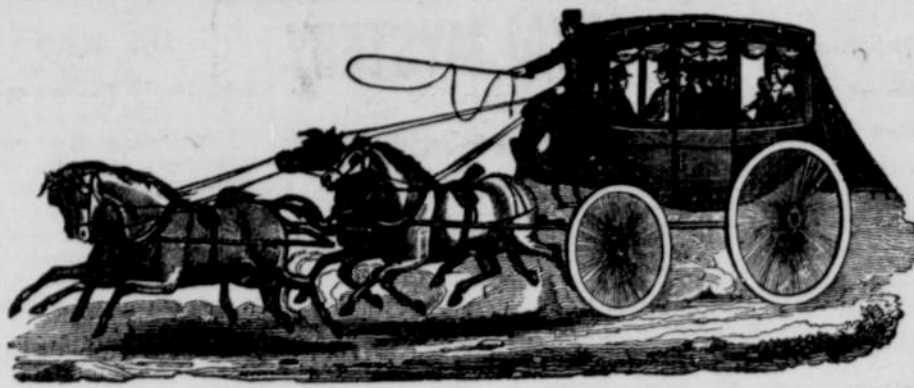

The score was 12-3 Grays, which allowed the visitors two of the games out of three. Had the home team been playing together longer so that they would have been accustomed to each other the games would have been closer and possibly Tillamook would have come out victorious.

Otto Hathaway Drives Big 40 H.P. Overlander Car to Crest.

A remarkable feat of hill climbing was performed yesterday morning by Otto Hathaway in a big 40 horse power Overland automobile. A party of five, composed of J. H. Harris, O. J. Blackledge, Mr. French, Mr. Blackley, and Mr. Hathaway had run out to the city reservoir to look after some matters connected with the water system. While there it was proposed to climb Old Baldy, and the party started to negotiate the lower slope in the automobile. The big car sped up the slope with such ease that the spirit of conquest soon took possession of the whole party and they went on climbing and climbing until they had scaled the steep upper reach of the hill and brought the staunch machine to the top.

It was a daring feat of automobile driving and one to test the qualities of the big machine. Messrs. French and Blackledge, who had a moving picture machine along, turned it on the climbers. It is understood that the film will be put on exhibition. It would prove an interesting and drawing attraction for the local picture shows.—The O. A. C. Barometer.

Boxing and Wrestling.

A number of men gathered at the Commercial Building, Saturday night, to watch the boxing contest and wrestling match at that place. A six round boxing match between Jim Smith and "Kid" Bacon was the first thing on the program. It was quick and snappy at all times, although in the fifth and sixth guarding was not as good as might have been.

George Steiff, the wrestler, who challenged any three men to throw him in one hour came onto the mat next. The challenge had been accepted by Jos. Baumgartner, Frank Blaser and Joseph Blaser.

The first two men were thrown without much trouble, although they both made the professional do some rather quick moving.

When Jos. Blaser came onto the mat everyone had hopes of seeing the stranger downed. After shaking hands Jos. spent a good deal of time in keeping his man from securing a hold on him, but after a few minutes of ankle work a rush was made and to the joy of the crowd Blaser was found to have thrown the big fellow. However, he was off the mat, and made the excuse that he wanted to get back on it. He was allowed the privilege of doing so, but in the next scuffle Blaser was put on his back after a hard bit of work.

Had Blaser followed up his advantage it is doubtful whether Steiff would have been victor or not.

An exhibition match was held between Steiff and his manager after the other match, which was quite interesting and appreciated by all.

Although such work is not considered as very high in this section, still this match was brought off in a very creditable manner, everything being done in a clean manner.

Foley's Kidney Pills contain just the ingredients necessary to regulate and strengthen the action of the kidneys and bladder. Try them yourself. Chas. I. Clough, Co.

The Kingdom of God vs. Competition.

If two men pull together on a rope they have double strength, but if at each end of the rope, it is mere tug-of-war, the strength of one is neutralized by the other. Competition is the basis of civilization, so long as it stimulates industry and thrift it is a benefit. The man of business finds that he is more energetic if he has a spirited competition to strive against, the race is more interesting if there are two or more to run. Competition is for the favored few, only the strongest, ablest and swiftest are benefited, the rest must loose or stay out. Competition does not afford rest, for no sooner does a competitor win than he finds another contest awaiting him in which he is liable to be subdued. Competition is always in the opposite place.

The kingdom of God considers, it is the only source of rest, peace and harmony, it is the only thing that is actually worth preaching. Whenever a man undertakes anything in the civil world he is confronted by his competitor, and is forced to abandon his undertaking or contest every inch he advances.

The opponents to the kingdom of God are the proprietary religions. The old Jewish Rabbi lost his tithe from everyone who subscribed to the kingdom of God. The man who has spent years qualifying himself for the popular ministry is naturally opposed for all he has learned belongs to and is part of the competitive system. There could be no incentive to have two places where the kingdom of God is preached in any neighborhood or town that is not too large for one audience. If two men are spending their time in doing what one ought to do they are actually wasting one man's time and if ten preachers have that many congregations that could be combined in one, nine of them are wasting their time.

SHOOTING A HORSE.

The Way to Instantly End His Misery Should He Break a Leg.

When a horse falls in the harness his natural inclination is to get up again. The shock of the fall has excited him more or less, and if his efforts to arise he may further injure himself as well as the harness.

The first action should be to sit on his head, pointing his nose upward with one hand, to keep him from struggling until the traces and all other attachments to the vehicle can be unfastened. If two persons are present this can be done without difficulty.

If a horse breaks his leg the most humane as well as the most sensible action is to shoot him on the spot. It is true that cases are on record where broken legs have been successfully treated by means of suspending the horse in a sling and pulleys, but the experiments in this direction have almost invariably met with failure.

To shoot a suffering animal and kill him instantly is not so simple a matter as it at first appears, says Country Life in America. Many shots are sometimes fired before death results. How and where should a horse be shot?

In the center of every horse's forehead a little above the line of the eyes is a little swirl something like a cowlick. Three inches above this swirl is the exact spot to lodge the bullet to insure its piercing the brain. The bullet should not be of less than 38 caliber.

For sprains hot or cold bandages are recommended. Fomentations promptly applied sometimes prevent permanent lameness. Spraining of the back sinews is only too common and unless promptly and properly treated results in knuckling and other complications. Blistering, firing and even nerving are resorted to, but it should be borne in mind that these drastic measures are often unnecessarily taken. Rest, turning out where practicable under favorable conditions, and massage often effect a cure.

Not infrequently a horse will pick up a nail. It is unnecessary to say that the first aid is to remove the nail. If suppurating ensue poultice the wound and give the animal rest until well. It may be well to remove the shoe for a time. Great care should be taken that the nail be not broken off flush with the sole and left there to fester. Horses are peculiarly susceptible to tetanus, or lockjaw, and a nail often causes it.

Hypnotizing Lobsters.

"Hypnotize lobsters? Sure thing you can," said the man in South street. "See here," he said, picking up an active one by the body behind the claws. He stroked it down the tail three or four times, and the lobster became very stiff and still. He set it on the floor against the wall, standing it up. He took four or five more lobsters and treated them the same way. "Now watch 'em for a minute," he said, looking at the row of prospective chafing dish fillers. The first lobster gradually became limp and fell on the floor with a crash. This woke the third lobster in the row, for it, too, fell forward. Then two more fell. They all started to make off, but he caught them as they tried to scuttle away. "Sure thing," said the South street man; "it's as easy to hypnotize 'em here as on Broadway."—New York Sun.

Falling Up Out of a Balloon.

If a man falls out of a rising aeroplane or balloon he will not go toward the earth, but will continue rising into the air for an appreciable time. If the air machine were stopped in its ascent at the time it could catch the man as he came down. If the airship were ascending at the rate of thirty-two feet a second the man would rise sixteen feet before beginning to fall toward the earth. Thus, by reducing the speed of its ascent, the vessel might be kept by the side of the man and rescue him. The reason why the man rises is the same as the reason for a bullet's rising when shot from a gun into the air—both the man and the bullet are given a velocity upward, and it takes some time for gravity to negate that velocity.—Harper's Weekly.

Side Issues.

"Brother Hardesty, how much are you going to give for the support of the gospel this year?"

"Why, Brother Askum, if I ain't helpin' to support it when I give $15 to the organ fund, $6 to the chandelier fund, $5 to the carpet fund, donate two tons of coal, chip in for the janitor fund and furnish most of the groceries when we have a church supper of course I'll put down somethin'. How much do you want?"—Chicago Tribune.

Pa Was Right.

"Pa says you keep almost everything here," said the small son of the village editor.

"I guess your pa's about right," replied the owner of the general store. "And pa says," continued the little chap, "the reason you keep so many things is because you don't advertise."—Chicago News.

"Thirty souls," corrected the deacon. "We got two plugged nickels in the collection box."—Kansas City Journal.
