

Commercial Club Meets.

The monthly meeting of the Tillamook Commercial Club was held on Monday evening, with President Webster Holmes in the chair.

The first business of public importance was a resolution offered by Fred C. Baker, on account of the repeated complaints reaching the Executive Board in regard to Yamhill County Court allowing a toll road to be established at the boundary line in Yamhill county.

The Tillamook Commercial Club desires the co-operation of the McMinnville Commercial Club to exercise its influence with the Yamhill County Court to make the toll road at Dolph, in Yamhill County, a free public road, as the toll road retards the growth and progress of both Yamhill and Tillamook Counties.

The Tillamook Commercial Club enters its protest at the action of the Yamhill County Court in allowing a toll road to be established at Dolph, in Yamhill County, at the boundary line of Tillamook County, as being unjust and unfair to this progressive county in the good roads movement.

An invitation from the Potter Realty Co. to the people of the city and county to spend the Fourth at Bay-ocean was accepted.

President Holmes took up the matter of the financial standing of the club, and stated that owing to so much money being expended in improvements they were in need of a few hundred dollars, and the Executive Board had decided to circulate a subscription amongst those who felt like helping. F. R. Beals headed the list with $25.00 and most of the Board subscribed $10 each.

The Port of Tillamook Cases.

In the case of W. H. Leach and Eva M. Leach vs. the Port of Tillamook, which was to enjoin the defendants from levying and collecting taxes to pay bonds, a demurrer on the grounds that the plaintiffs have not legal capacity to sue; that there is a defect of parties defendant herein in that the sheriff is the only person authorized by law to make a sale of any property for taxes, and he is not made a party defendant herein; and that the plaintiff does not state facts sufficient to constitute a course of suit.

In the case of S. V. Anderson and Lillian Anderson vs. the Port of Tillamook, the defendants have made a motion to strike out from the plaintiff's complaint certain matter, and requires them to make the complaint more definite and certain by setting out therein the respective boundaries of the Ho-quarant, South Prairie, Tillamook and Fairview precincts so that it may appear therein and be shown what portion or portions if any, of said precincts are contained within the alleged original Port of Tillamook referred to by the plaintiffs.

It is understood that District Attorney McNary will file a motion to have the cases transferred to the Supreme Court so as to expedite the cases.

Another Daughter of C. A. Swenson's Dies Suddenly.

Sunday evening a sad misfortune befell the family of C. A. Swenson, who resides north of town about one half-mile. Jennie, next to the youngest girl of the family, who had been comparatively well during the day, complained of feeling unwell at about six in the evening. Upon her condition growing worse one of her older sisters took her upstairs and put her to bed. However, her sister had no more than reached the lower part of the house, when Jennie came running down stairs and throwing her arms about her father's neck she cried, "Oh, papa, I'm smothering to death."

The doctor knew that no time could be lost and by hurrying as fast as possible he was at the side of the young girl within six minutes from the time he received word of her danger, but he saw immediately that nothing could be done but give medicine to relieve the smothering sensation. Life ebbed 1740. 1911. The Coffee Pot Bank. The Up to the Minute Bank.

The savings idea is just as worthy, just as necessary to business success to-day as it was in 1740, but the methods have advanced during that time.

We now have the most modern savings convenience invented and respectfully invite the people of Tillamook County to call and see them.

In brief, let us tell you that it is a small HOME SAVINGS BANK which registers, or indicates, at all times, THE EXACT AMOUNT OF MONEY which has been placed in it.

The amount of money is plainly shown at all times, the amount of each kind of coin—Nickles, dimes, quarters and so on.

The thing that stimulates saving is to see the amount grow, to see it every day, right before your eyes. With one of our new banks this feature is the big thing and these banks have proven very popular wherever they have been placed.

GET ONE THE FIRST TIME YOU ARE IN TOWN, especially if you have children, for you know the adage, "as the twig is bent, so is the tree inclined," and the children will take unusual interest in these banks because THEY ARE SOMETHING NEW AND UNIQUE.

THEY ARE to be had FREE for we loan them to anyone who starts an account of $1 or more.

away slowly for two hours, death coming at nine o'clock.

The cause of death was chronic heart trouble, the death of one of Mr. Swenson's older daughters about one year ago.

Jennie was 11 years, 4 months and 19 days old at the time of death. She was a girl of very lovable temperment, kind and affectionate to all whom she came in contact, and was like a ray of sunlight in the home, always trying to make things cheerful.

The funeral, which was held from the Methodist Church Tuesday at one o'clock, was one of the largest attended in the history of Tillamook.

Immense quantities of flowers were placed on the coffin and about it.

The community as a whole join in mourning the untimely death of this flower in the home and extend their sympathy to the bereaved parents.

THE CHEESE SITUATION.

Make Not Heavy but Prices Rule Low.

That production is not altogether the cause of lower prices in all lines of farm produce is somewhat shown by the cheese situation in the local market. Production does explain the depressed situation in butter and eggs, but in case of cheese the theory that we are in a stage of lower values is well born out. Taking the receipts in the local market we find that for the 24 weeks that have passed during the present year, they reached the total of 4,150,000 pounds. For the same period of last year they amounted to 3,887,000 pounds, making a gain of 263,000 per cent in receipts of butter and 40 per cent in case of eggs, as given in the last two issues of the Review.

But the fact that receipts have gained only slightly has not prevented the price from averaging about 20 per cent lower than last year. A factor that contributed somewhat to the lower prices this spring has been the fact that quiet a volume of last year's cheese was carried over. On the first of May there was held in storage by local merchants cheese of last year's make amounting to about 10 per cent of the entire product of the state, although not necessarily all California Cheese.

Local dealers report an unusually unsatisfactory trade in cheese this spring. Local buying has been light and the shipping business has been the poorest it has been for several years. The inactivity in the trade is partially shown by the fact that small cheeses, such as Young Americas, sell the more freely, retailers preferring not to stock up the larger sizes. Producers probably realize this dullness from the fact that there has been little hustling among dealers for shipments, whereas in past years the makers were pressed for supplies and in too many instances they were impertuned to ship their cheese before it had a chance to cure properly. Under the low prices prevailing there is also a feeling that cheese is being held back and the trade, fearing heavier arrivals in the near future, is not stocking up to any extent.

Receipts are confined mainly to the California product. The surplus that comes down from the Oregon coast does not usually materialize until summer is well on and the eastern goods come in still later.—Pacific Dairy Review.

London Club Etiquette.

The American duchess, followed by her motor, led Miss Cochon of Chicago out St. James street.

"Oh, there's the duke!" cried Miss Cochon of Chicago as they passed Brooks club, but the duchess said haughtily:

"Don't look at him, my dear, or he will cut you. Don't you understand club etiquette?"

"No; not if it differs from other etiquette."

"Well," said the duchess, "it differs altogether. The club, you see, originated in London. The club has been defined as the weapon wherewith the savage keeps the white woman at a distance. In club etiquette women are ignored. As you pass White's or the Carlton, the Junior Carlton or Brooks you will see your best friends, not hat pushed back and hands folded on stick, glaring solemnly at you from this window or from that, but your best friends won't speak to you. It isn't club etiquette. And if you spoke to them it would be a worse faux pas than if you appeared at court under the influence of liquor."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Delicate Generosity.

One of the many stories of Grant which grip the hearts and minds of the people was once told by General Simon B. Buckner at a meeting of Confederate veterans.

"Grant and I were chums at West Point," began General Buckner. "I had befriended him at one time, and it can justly be said of him that he never forgot a kindness. After the Union victories at Henry and Donelson I met Grant on the boat at the surrender, and he followed me when I went to headquarters. He left the officers of his own army and followed me with that modest manner peculiar to him into the shadow and there tendered me his purse—pressed it into my hand without a word.

"It seemed to me," concluded General Buckner, "that in the marvelous modesty of his nature he was afraid the light would witness that act of generosity and sought to hide it from the world, almost from his own soul."

Music of "The Lost Chord."

The music of "The Lost Chord" was composed under most touching conditions. Arthur Sullivan was watching by the bed of his dying brother, Frederick. One night shortly before death the invalid sank into a peaceful slumber. Arthur, who attended his brother day and night, took the opportunity to read, and it happened that his eyes fell on Adelaide Anne Procter's poem, "The Lost Chord." The verses impressed him greatly, and music appropriate to them suggested itself to his mind. Taking a sheet of music paper, he began to write, and so absorbed was he in his task that he sat hour after hour working at it until the song was completed. Probably the acute emotional conditions under which the music was composed account largely for the power to touch the emotions which undoubtedly "The Lost Chord" possesses.—George Leon Varney in National Magazine.

A Go as You Please Railway.

The Quest-Etat railway is a standing joke in Paris on account of its slipshod ways. They tell this story of an incident which happened when M. Briand was premier:

A Russian prince was in Brittany and wanted to come up to Paris. He telegraphed to his secretary: "Shall arrive in Paris tomorrow 8 a. m. Don't want accident to train. See Briand about it." The secretary called on the prime minister, who was most affable. "It is not the general custom on the Quest-Etat to avoid accidents," he said, "but I will ask the director to see what can be done." The express arrived safely without the smallest mishap, but six hours and a half late, during all which time the Russian prince's secretary had been waiting on the platform.

His Three Questions.

"I'll just bet you cigars for the crowd," said one of a party of prominent men to one of the number who was bragging of what he could do, "that you can't answer 'yes' to any three questions I ask you." "Done," said the boasting one. "Well, were you ever in jail?" "Yes." "Were you ever electrocuted?" "Yes." "Will you pay for the cigars if I lose?" Curtain.—New York World.

Cause For Thanks.

Small Elmer, who had just received a severe scolding, said, "Am I really so bad, mamma?" "Yes, Elmer," she replied, "you have been a very, very bad boy." "Well," rejoined the youngster after a moment's reflection, "you ought to be thankful that I ain't twins."—Chicago News.

Beyond the Husband Stage.

"You say you are your wife's third husband?" said one man to another during a talk. "No; I am her fourth husband," was the reply. "Heavens, man," said the first man, "you are not a husband; you're a habit!"—Ladies' Home Journal.
