How will this do for the Republican ticket? Taft for president and Roosevelt for vice-president.

Now is the time to register. But don't register as belonging to one political party and then on the day of election vote for some other party. If you are a Republican, Democrat, Socialist or Prohi, stay with your party on the day of election and don't be a flopper.

We think that Assessor Hare would have made a better job of assessing the 30 miles of railroad in Tillamook County than the Railroad Commissioners did, for they only assessed it at $8,280 miles and at a valuation of $248,400. It is claimed that it cost up nearly $3,000,000 to build the 30 miles of road.

Buying a high priced dairy farm with comparatively little money is a good thing for those who sell, but it means a hard struggle and a life of servitude in a number of cases to those who buy. Neither does it help the county. The person who sells moves away and it is a scratch the whole year to make up the interest, etc., all of which goes out of the county.

There is not going to be a great deal of money for road work this year after the outstanding warrants are paid, but, anyway, whether it is large or a small amount, an advisory board of five prominent citizens to advise with the judge or the commissioners in their respective districts would be a good idea, so as to expend the money on roads where it was needed the most.

Republicans who would not allow themselves to be swayed by those who styled themselves insurgents or progressives have nothing to be ashamed of, even if they were called standpatters. If more republicans had stood pat in recent elections it is safe to say that the State tax would not have grown so rapidly, but with the politicians they will take up any slogan with the object of landing themselves into office.

Some of the Fairview Grangers have received information from the Secretary of the State Grange to this effect: "A man by the name of Watterbury, representing himself as selling telephone stock, is a bill. He worked Marion County and bled the people out of between five and six thousand dollars." We publish this to put people next, and it is to be hoped if the fellow visits Tillamook they will not bite as readily as they did Marion County.

The Port of Tillamook won its case in the Circuit Court, and, no doubt, a like result will be obtained if the case is taken to the Supreme Court. The only thing gained in this litigation is big fees for the attorneys, and those who were instrumental in bringing suit and raising a "pot" for their attorney, will be taxed to pay the attorney on the other side, for the Port levy was raised to meet the unnecessary expense of the litigation. This may not be considered high finance, but it is just the same.

The question of a county fair the coming summer appears to be meeting with general favor. But who is going to take charge of it, the County Court, the Commercial Clubs, the Grangers or the Booster Editors? Perhaps they could all take a lively interest in it, but who will set the ball rolling? It takes time to prepare exhibits, and it is none too soon to make preparations. Should the bulls clover turn out a success, and we believe it will, a big exhibit of that would be a drawing card as well as a splendid advertisement, for we predict that there will be a great demand for this peculiar and valuable plant which produces such a large quantity of green feed the year round.

We want to welcome to our city two ministers who commenced their pastoral work on Sunday—Rev. Dr. Bleakney, the scholarly pastor of the Presbyterian Church, and Rev. R. E. Jope, minister of the Christian church. And in doing so we hope that each will be broad minded and not allow sectarian strife to retard their usefulness. Nor should they think or teach that their church is the only church. Success will attend their efforts by the ministers getting together and working together. In welcoming them amongst us we hope they will be instrumental in doing much good, for this is a splendid field to show their ability and to build up strong church organizations.

The Prohis are going to hold a convention in this city. They surely must know what a wicked, unpardonable sin it is for the Republican party to hold a convention or an assembly and how some of our citizens shouted their heads off in opposition to candidates who received nominations by that awfully wicked and corrupt method. And each of the four political parties are going to hold State and National conventions to nominate presidential candidates, but we don't hear anyone howling their heads off the same as they did two years ago when the Republicans held a State convention for the purpose of nominating a ticket. It seems to us we are living in a strange political age when people in Oregon are about as politically inconsistent as they possibly can be.

We want to put our Bay City contemporary right. The Bay City News was published when the Examiner butted in, and as Editor Miller was looking well after the interest of Bay City and turning out a nice little sheet for the patronage he was receiving, there was no sense in starting another newspaper there. But Bay City only went through the same experience as this city went through several times, that is in factions wanting to control newspapers. In every case they have proved financial failures. It has taken years of struggle to throw off the system of certain persons owning and controlling newspapers for their own political or private interests. We want to see the Examiner prosper, and we hope that it will be free and independent to express itself without fear or favor, and above all whatever factional feeling there may exist at Bay City to bring it together for the purposes of pulling together.

The editor was asked why he opposed bonding the county for road work and favored bonding for harbor improvements. It does look a little inconsistent on our part, but not so, however. We have always contended that good water ways are just as important—if not more so—than good highways. The timber men have paid 75 per cent of the taxes for good roads for a number of years, and as there is no other way to raise money to help improve the bar so that they can manufacture and market their lumber, they are justly entitled to a share of the benefits derived from taxation. They have an enormous amount of wealth in the county which is unmarketable on account of the need of harbor improvements. That is the reason why we are in favor of bonding for bar and harbor improvements, and as we have been doing some good road work in this county in recent years it is not necessary to bond for that purpose with a good sum of money expended annually. Here in this city we have water bonds, school bonds, and contemplating bonding for sewers, streets and pavement as well as the Port, and we consider that enough without having to chew off more.

Some of our citizens are talking quite strongly of a hard surfaced highway through the entire county, from Dolph to Nehalem, with one branch through Cloverdale and the Big Nestucca country. They figure something like $5,000 a mile, and want to bond the county to pay for it. We all must admit that a hard surfaced highway through the county would be a splendid thing, and more we study road conditions in this wet climate more firmly are we convinced that some kind of hard surfaced, water proof material will have to be used to insure a good main road in the winter time. Another thing, it will not be long before the farmers will own small motor trucks, which could not be operated in winter with our present roads. As the promoters of the hard surfaced, trunk road through the county have not as yet done anything to arouse public sentiment, they contend that this is the only road that will last in this wet climate and give satisfaction, and with a contract to build and keep in repairs for five years after the road is constructed, this would mean a considerable saving in maintenance. We have stated as briefly as possible the ideas of those who advocate this road and it would not surprise us much if it would meet with a large number of supporters.

The Headlight has for a number of years boosted for the city and the county, and for water ways and good roads. Now we want to give the churches a little boost. The Press recognize their usefulness as a potent factor for good. They help to elevate the moral standard of any city or community, they try to impress upon the young mind the duty of right living, they do more to maintain the purity of the home than any other agency. They inspire in young men and young women the desire to live pure, virtuous and sober lives, they are always ready to lend a helping hand to humanity, to uplift in times of difficulty, sorrow and bereavement, and many other commendable things we could mention along these lines. Here, then, is an agency for good which we must all recognize and commend. It is true that the early settlers and the people of this county have not shown a great desire to attend places of worship, and the same can be said of a large number of people who have come here in recent years, the only time that they happen to attend church is at the funeral of some person who, like themselves, rarely attended a place of worship, but is given a Christian burial. We want to impress upon our citizens the importance of attending some place of worship on Sundays. The moral standing, the purity and the prosperity of this city and county would be greatly elevated if the parents, and the business and professional men were attending and supporting churches. The ministers and pastors of the churches are doing good work, and it is fitting that the Press should say a word of encouragement and commendation to these men who have devoted their lives to the upbuilding of humanity. We have a number of good men in the ministry in this city and we know that if our citizens would get into the habit of attending church it will be a good thing for them and—no matter to us which church they attend—they will be given a welcome hand. We hope this little boost for our churches will do some good, and instead of so many empty pews we hope to see them filled in future. Some people say there are too many churches in this city. We want to say that this is not correct. The trouble is that so few of the citizens are attending church.

Vote of Condolence.

Whereas, the Supreme Ruler of the Universe has called from our circle our beloved sister. Thereupon, be it resolved, that while we mourn the loss of our beloved sister, we bow to the will of the Deity. Her life has gone out and her chair vacant. Only yesterday she was with us, today we have but the memory of her work; in her passing away she was full of faith and hope, that she was going from her earthly work to our home beyond to dwell in the light and life eternal. Resolved, that we offer our heartfelt sympathy and sisterly and brotherly love to the family of our deceased sister in this their hour of bereavement. And be it further resolved, that we spread these resolutions on our minutes and make them a part of our record of this Grange; and a copy given to each of the County papers for publication.

On Post Mortem Praises.

New York Sun.
I've noticed when a fellow dies, no matter what he's been— A saintly chap or one whose life was darkly steeped in sin— His friends forget the bitter words they spoke but yesterday, And now they find a multitude of pretty things to say. I fancy when I go to rest some one will bring to light Some kindly word or goodly act long buried out of sight; But if it's all the same to you, just give to me instead The banquets while I'm living and the knocking when I'm dead. Don't save your kisses to imprint upon my marble brow, While countless maledictions are hurled upon me now; Say just one kindly word to me while I mourn here alone, And don't save all your eulogy to carve upon a stone! What do I care if when I'm dead the Bloomingdale Gazette Gives me a write-up with a cut in mourning borders set; It will not flatter me a bit, no matter what is said, So kindly throw your bouquets now and knock me when I'm dead. It may be fine, when one is dead, to have the folks talk so, To have the flowers come in loads from relatives, you know; It may be nice to have these things for those you leave behind, But just as far as I'm concerned, I'm quite alive and well to-day, and while I linger here, Lend me a helping hand at times—give me a word of cheer; Just change the game a little bit; just kindly swap the decks, For I will be no judge of flowers when I've cashed in my checks.
