Deputy District Attorney Willett was called up soon affer one o'clock on Tuesday morning by a man named Larsen, who was employed by Mas. Jennie Cone on the farm at Netarts. It seems that M. J. Cone, who was divorced from his wife at the circuit court, suddenly returned on Monday afternoon and with a shot gun threatened Larsen, who became so scared that he came to the city to swear out a complaint against Cone. Sheriff Crenehaw went to Netarts early Tuesday morning to investigate the trouble. He found that Larsen had taken extraordinary long strides in his hurry to get away from Cone, and that Mr. and Mrs. Cone had decided to live together again, and will go to Vancouver and be re-married. Cone turned all his money over to his wife, declaring he could not live without her.

EGYPT'S GREEN SUN.

Morn and Eve.

In Egypt, where the atmosphere is very clear, the green tints of the sunset light are peculiarly distinct. As the sun descends nearer and nearer to the horizon and is immensely enlarged its rays suddenly become for an instant of a brilliant green. Then a succession of green rays suffuses the sky well nigh to the zenith.

The same phenomenon occurs at sunrise, but less conspicuously. Someof the sun's disk vanishes, its color changes from green to blue, and so also the horizon is green, while toward the dled. zenith it is blue.

The fact was, of course, observed by the ancient Egyptians, and references thereto are found in their sacred writings. Day was the symbol of life and night that of death. The setting sun being identified with Osiris, that god became king of the dead. The setting sun was green; therefore Osiris as the nocturnal deity of the dead was painted greeu.

The splendid coffins of the high priests of Ammon frequently depict the green sun, and the funeral deities are all colored green. This association of death with green was undoubtedly due to the green tints of the Egyptian sun at sunset .- Youth's Compan

COFFEE WITH AN ARAB.

It Protects Even Murderers Where th Cup Has Been Shared.

Describing the hospitality of an Arabian home, the "Last Journal of Bishop Hannington" says:

The great event of the visit is the coffee. The host has a kind of brazen shovel brought, in which he roasts the beans; then he takes a pestle and mortar of the oak of Bashan, and with his own hands he pounds it to powder, making the hard oak ring forth a song of welcome to the guest. Many of these pestles and mortars are beirlooms and are richly ornamented and beautifully black and polished by age Such was the one in question. Having drunk coffee (for the honored guest the cup is filled three times), you are quite safe in the hands of the most murderous.

So far do they carry this superstition that a man who had murdered another fled to the dead man's father and be fore he knew what had happened drank coffee. Presently friends came in and as they were relating the news to the bereaved father recognized the mur derer crouching beside the fire. They instantly demanded vengeance. said the father, "it cannot be. He has drunk coffee and has thus become to me as my son."

Had he not drunk coffee the father would never have rested until he had dyed his hands in his blood.

Drug Store Signs. Every one has noticed the beautiful colors in the large glass jars that stand in the drug store windows, but every one does not know why drug stores use that sign. In the old days apothecaries and alchemists were the only druggists, and they made up their own nostrums, the composition of which was supposed to be a great secret. They used to memorable day of the "whiff of grapeleave their retorts and fars and stills and bottles in the window to impress upon the passersby the mystery and importance of their business. The modern drug store has no use for retorts and stills, all the processes being handled by the big chemical factories, but the large jars full of bright colored liquids are still left in the window, just as they were hundreds of years ago .-New York Sun.

This latter figure includes every variety of the redman in all parts of the earth, the actual number of Indians in North America being much less than a million. The white race is increasing much faster than the others, owing probably to its superior intelligence and scientific knowledge of medicine and sanitation.—New York American.

WHEN BUYING STOCKS.

Brilliant Emerald Hues Tint the Sky at | Do as the Successful Wall Street Speculator Does.

If you want to speculate buy stocks that Wall street speculators buy. Don't buy things offered by smooth tongued agents working for a handsome commission. Don't buy stocks that are guaranteed to have a big advance.

The successful Wall street speculator never tries to make money in these sort of things. He buys stocks that have passed muster and been listed on the exchange. Before they can be listed the company must make a report times at sunset, just as the last portion | that will justify listing. While this report is not as complete as it should be. it bars out all the wildcat propositions after it has disappeared the sky near by which the people are being swin-

It is just as easy to buy listed stocks as any other. Brokers of good standing in the stock exchange are advertising in reputable publications, and one can always open up a correspondence with a broker and have his questions freely and fully answered. The broker likes nothing better than to answer letters from a customer or from a prospective customer.

If any one is timid about dealing with a broker he can always deal through his bank or get a reference to some broker from his banker.-Jasper. in Leslie's.

SALT AND ICE.

The Process That Begins When the Two Are Mixed.

It is not correct to say that sait dissolves ice, since real solution only takes place when a solid. liquid or gas is dissolved in a liquid.

The true explanation of the fact that ice melts when common sait is added to it depends upon the simple physical principle that when a salt is dissolved in water heat is absorbed and its temperature is lowered. When salt and ice are mixed together some of the salt dissolves in the small amount of water which is always present, the temperature is thereby lowered, and a new freezing point is established.

The remainder of the ice, being at a temperature higher than this new freezing point, slowly melts, and more sait is dissolved until the solution is saturated. The temperature can in this way be lowered to 22 degrees C., which is the freezing point of a definite compound of salt and water.

The salts dissolved in sea waters serve a very important purpose, as it requires a greater degree of cold to cause the formation of ice on them than on fresh water.

Bonaparte and Mile. Montansier.

The Cafe Corazza, in the Palais Roy al, had many interesting clients in its time. It was there that General Bona parte, then only a general of brigade. asked his friend Barras to find him a rich wife, and Barras suggested Mile Montansier, the proprietress of the adjacent Theatre Montansier. She was sixty-three, but she was well preserved and might have passed for forty-five. and she was believed to have accumulated a fortune of £48,000. Bonaparte asked to be introduced, and Barras presented him and assures us in his memoirs that the match would have come off if it had not been for the events of Vendemiaire. After that shot" the future emperor broke off the engagement, feeling himself too important to marry a superannuated actress. even for the sake of having the spending of her savings .- Pall Mall Gazette

Label Paste.

To make a good paste for labels mix together with cold water until they form a smooth cream four ounces of dour and an ounce and a half of brown sugar. Then pour in boiling water, stirring all the time till the right consistency is obtained. Add five or six drops of carbolic acid to keep the paste from becoming sour, and when it has been well stirred in the compound will be fit for use.

PHILIPPINE SAVAGES.

Uncouth Tingians Are Fond of Ornaments and Gay Colors. There are many strange, uncivilized people among the Asiatic Americans of the Philippine Islands.

The Tingians are a very uncouth tribe of savages. Their head women have their arms almost completely covered with strings of beads, wound so as to form beautiful and striking designs. A long, heavy string of beads also twisted around the bair and bangs down the back like a braid. The skirt of these head women is white, with a blue border, and the waist is of light yellow. They smoke pipes of solid silver, ornamented with bangles, in the bowls of which pieces of cigar are inserted.

The typical young Tingian chieftain wears a stiff collar of beads and a gayly colored calico shirt, over which is a sort of scarf trimmed with many silver coins. The members of this tribe are very fond of silver. They make a large number of finger rings from silver coins, and each man usually has from five to ten of these rings about his person, but not necessarily on his

The Tingians are fond of a peculiar dauce. The music is produced by beating with the palms of the hands on "gansas" or tomtoms. The dancers, a man and a woman, with arms outstretched, circle about each other in a apiral, the man pursuing the woman with a quick, jerky step. As they approach the center of the spiral he suddenly swoops upon her, when she always eludes him by suddenly darting out of his reach .- Forrest Clark in Les-

SLEEP AND REST.

Every Organ of the Human Body Has Its Periods of Repose.

All the organs of life rest in some way or other. The heart has an interval of rest between each combined act of contraction and expansion and the beginning of a fresh act. Between each expiration of the lungs and the succeeding inspiration there is a period of repose. Physiologists have calculated that the heart reposes during about one-fourth of the time. Certain of the other organs suspend their activity in part during sleep.

Old physiologists supposed that sleep was caused by the pressure of the blood on the brain. But modern physiology, with a tendency to regard the brain as the origin of all force and of all functions of the body, inclines to the view that sleep is caused by a withdrawal of blood from the brain.

As a rule, the larger the brain the more sleep it requires. Webster went to bed at 9 o'clock and rose at 5. General Grant used to say during his campaigns, "I can do nothing without nine hours' sleep."

A curious trait has marked men of large brain-that of sleeping at will. Bonaparte used to throw himself on the ground and go to sleep within a space of two minutes. Pitt was a sound sleeper and slept night after night in the house of commons while his colleagues watched the debate and roused him when it was necessary that he should speak .- New York Herald.

Good Business, A famous pistol shot told a shooting story at a supper in San Francisco. "There was a party of amateurs here in Frisco," he said, "who thought they would do some live pigeon shooting, so they ordered thirty birds from a suburban dealer.

"The shoot came off duly. It was a wonder. To give you a correct idea of it I must quote from a letter sent by the dealer to the amateurs the next day. The letter ran:

"Gentlemen-I thank you for your order and beg to state that I will be only too happy to supply you with birds for all future shoots. The entire thirty pigeons, for which you paid me 15 cents a head, returned home safely and, moreover, brought two strays with them. My price to you hereafter will be 1 cent per pigeon."-Los Angeles Times.
