

Advantages of a Checking Account

Over ninety per cent of transfers of funds in business are made through the medium of bank checks, thus avoiding the dangers incident to carrying large sums about, and the risk of making the wrong change.

This method enables the business man or individual to keep his money safely in the bank, instead of on the premises or about the person, where it would be subject to hazard.

A checking account at the bank is a great convenience and costs the depositor absolutely nothing. To obviate handling the account at a loss the bank require that reasonable average balance be maintained.

The Shakespeare Club had its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. C. I. Clough, on Friday afternoon, when there was a full attendance of members and a number of invited guests present to participate in these delightful afternoon gatherings. The decorations were red carnations, artistically arranged, and the amusement part of the afternoon was a cake romance. Mrs. Alex McNair drew the first prize and Mrs. F. S. Whitehouse the consolation. Mrs. Clough served a most dainty lunch which was served to the queen's taste.

Those interested in the erection of a new modern hotel in this city have been successful in raising a large sum of money amongst the business men, and arrangements will soon be made to push this much needed improvement to a finish. It will be a three story building, with about 60 rooms, and built so that a fourth story can be added. With the erection of this hotel, the high school building, depot and freight sheds, Masonic temple, and laying hard surfaced pavements and sewer system, Tillamook City will make some rapid and permanent improvements this year.

Anxiety for Life Savers.

Considerable anxiety was felt here on Friday morning for the safety of the Garibaldi life saving crew and boat. They left Nehalem at eleven o'clock Wednesday morning, where the crew had been at the wreck of the Vosburg, with the intention of returning to Tillamook bay. As there was a strong north west wind, it was not safe to cross in over the bar, and Captain Farley tied the boat to the whistling buoy, outside of Tillamook Bay, for the night. He cut loose from there at five o'clock Thursday morning and sought shelter behind the rocks and at Cape Lookout. As the boat was without provisions and lacked motor power it was too much of a job to row back in the face of the strong wind, so the captain decided to land at Cape Lookout. The boat was anchored off shore and the crew reached shore in their life saving suits late Friday afternoon. From there they walked to Bayocean Friday morning, which was the first word received here of their safety.

Inasmuch as the Dolorway people have been asking a price of $1.50 per square yard here it would seem that the company had not yet reached bedrock with reference to price cutting in Pendleton. Surely the paving company will not charge local property owners any more for their work than they charge the property owners at Goldendale. Local property owners are a fine lot of citizens and are entitled to the very best that's going in the way of paving prices, a fact that both the paving companies should carefully bear in mind.

Captain Jenkins, in the Henrietta, went out after the life boat and towed her in on Saturday.

There is considerable criticism of the life saving service here because the station is not provided with a motor boat, for in the face of a strong wind it is difficult to handle the boat and to get back to land when outside the breakers.

At $1.34 Per Yard.

With agitation underway in Pendleton for lower prices on street paving the East Oregonian takes pleasure today in reproducing a story from Goldendale, Wash., and published in a Portland paper last evening. It sets forth that many bids on hard surface paving have been received by the Goldendale council and that Dolorway paving has been offered the people there at a price of $1.34 per square yard.
