The mills are running full time. Mine operations are at their highest. Factories are working to capacity. Commerce is thriving. The country is free of labor trouble and financial trouble.

The working man is steadily gaining better wages. The farmer is growing steadily more prosperous. The market for our products has never been so broad and generous.

The railroad reports the heaviest freight and passenger traffic in their existence. Shipping is everywhere active. Public works are going on everywhere. Trade is moving smoothly, and ever-increasing volume. The saving banks are overflowing with money.

The United States is on the threshold of the greatest boom in its history. Within six months, under present conditions, we will reach the great period that followed the Spanish war. And our prosperity will be here to stay for a generation or longer ground than we were in '98.

The trust problem has been settled—and settled right. Big Business has been put in its proper place, and the without hindering industry or disorganizing affairs. The currency question is understood and never has been so well understood as now. Some time ago, as the heat of partisan political controversy dies down, the tariff is gradually being placed on a business basis, and soon will be out of politics, as it should.

Everything is shaping to give the American people a long, unbroken, untroubled period of peace and plenty. And at this time of all others, along come the political agitators shouting for a change.

Do you want a change? Do you want to check prosperity just as you are about to pick your choicest fruits? Would you, the workers who must pay, commit the mad folly of taking your government out of tried and proven hands and turning it over to the self-seekers who are clamoring for a control?

When President Taft took over the government the country was prosperous. Industry was paralyzed. Business was chaotic, uncertain, suspicious. Millions were out of employment. Investors, wherever possible, had withdrawn their capital. Enterprise was dead.

All this was the result of the panic of 1907, the "talking panic." The "Rich Man's" Panic, it was called. But do you remember any poor man who was not hurt?

It took the Taft administration over three years to repair the damage of this panic. It required infinite patience, skillful management at home and abroad, unflinching enterprise, good judgment and vast prudence to bring the country out of the "talking panic." And now that the pit is covered, and the country is heading once more in the level sunshine of prosperity, do you want to take a chance on being thrown back?

Do you want to take a chance on being talked into another needless panic? The question is not to be settled by talk, no matter how smart. The buzzards of the hustings may make sweet music, but in the background of the future you may hear the muttering of a people unemployed.

Your family stands with you at the dividing line, which happiness and prosperity on one side and unhappiness and over- sown on the other.

If you are a tramp, without a hundred and without responsibility, by all means follow the adventurers. But if you own a stake in the country, if you have a wife or child dependent on the job you hold, weigh carefully the words and deeds of those who would lead you to a mad gamble on the precipice of experimental government.

Remember, a change at Washington would mean everything to them. But what would it mean for you? Would Mr. Taft defeat help you?

Would the threats, untried and unproven, on which the politicians are seeking to ride into office, benefit you, wife and family? Brush aside all the fine language of the orators and come straight out and answer to these questions. You will then have a reasonably safe guide on election day. For, like true charity, true politics begins at home. The intelligent man votes for the man who is best only for the other fellow. He is not misled by the shadow of the bone in the water.

The American people, for the first time in years, have the opportunity to choose between two paths. One is the path of the shadow of the bone in the water, to drop it to the other side of the road.
