TRIP AROUND THE WORLD

Was a Successful Social Feature in This City.

Availing themselves of the various means of rapid transportation, it was possible for about two hundred persons to take a trip around the world last Friday night. In order to avoid confusion it was arranged that parties of fifteen or twenty should leave the Presbyterian church every twenty minutes. Ticket agent Bales saw that all passengers were provided with the necessary passport and at seven o'clock the first party started on board the S. S. America, bound for Japan. Arriving safely, the passengers were delighted to find a number of old friends who were making their homes in this delightful land. Mrs. Lamar was hostess to the visitors, assisted by Mrs. Sarchet, Mrs. McGee, Miss Lenore Sarchet and the Misses Hazel, Pauline and Mary Lamar and Miss Avis Wolfe. The house was beautiful with its Japanese lanterns, palms and screens, a circle of cushions in the middle of the floor showing how quickly people can conform to the customs of a country. The guests very easily adjusted themselves to the conditions and all sat down, Japanese fashion, and partook of the rice, waters, tea and other dainties served by the hostess. A Japanese merchant, One Lung, had asked permission to exhibit some of his wares and a tastefully decorated booth contained many novelties in ivory, basketry, etc., and One Lung did a thriving business among the American tourists. Leaving Japan in one of Wright Bros. flying machines, the journey to Germany was quickly made. The home of Herr and Madam Haberland was opened to the visitors and a most cordial welcome extended. Refreshments were served by Mesdames Shrode, Haberland, and Fraulien Tinnerstet and Burge; and the delicious saur kraut, weiner wurst, rye bread, cheese and coffee was heartily enjoyed by the guests. During the serving Madam MacKenzie delighted the company with a number of German ballads and the sojourn at this hospitable home was all too short, but the conductor gave the warning whistle and the party was off to England via the German Lloyd S. S. Dutchland. After an uneventful voyage, the party landed and was taken at once to the home of Mrs. Campbell, who was assisted by Mesdames Baker, Groat and Martiny and the Misses Helen Cae and Nellie Gaylord. Roast beef, real English plum pudding tea and sandwiches were served. Piano selections by Mrs. Campbell added pleasure to the visit. While Mrs. Parkhurst found it impossible to be present, she sent her representative, and a vote was taken on Equal Suffrage to see how far advanced the American people seem to be toward the Emancipation of women. Result of ballot still in doubt. Hurrying along as was necessary in order to complete the trip as per schedule, the party took a fast express of the London and Tillamook R. R. across the border to Scotland. They were taken to the home of Sandy McNair and his guide wife, and after hearty greetings were directed to the dining room, where the Misses Gladys Snodgrass, Lotie Crane and Edna Mills served the wholesome oat bread, Scotch sweet bread and other delicacies. Passing on to the drawing room to a table where Mrs. Percy was presiding, the guests were regaled with a dainty glass of mountain dew, as harmless as its name implies, yet delightfully refreshing to a weary traveller. Mrs. Percy, Mrs. Hill, Misses Crawford and Gaylord added a charm to the entertainment by singing beautiful Scotch songs and playing characteristic instrumental music. A gypsy fortune teller had the foresight to station herself in a convenient place and her palm was many times crossed with silver, by the young people especially, who were eager to know what fate had in store for them. Mrs. McNair was further assisted by Mesdames Jones, Oliver and Whitehouse. The only fear manifested at any time during the trip was shown on the way to Ireland, inasmuch as a journey by the Tube under the Irish Sea was a new experience and not without the attendant dangers. However, as per advice of the conductor that the breath must be held during transit, no fatalities resulted and the party landed safely at the home of Mrs. Bales, whose husband was in America. Long before reaching the house the strains of music could be heard and hearty Irish welcome greeted the visitors. As at the former places of entertainment refreshments were served at once. The guest took their places around a table which had for a centre piece a miniature Lake Killarney, numbers of beautiful little green snakes, which evidently had stolen a march on St. Patrick, finding their way in and out among the green which skirted the lake. Mulligan stew, a meal in itself, was served with tea and sandwiches, and the guests were, unanimous in their praise of Irish cookery. An opportunity was given to kiss the Blarney Stone, a real stone of course from Blarney Castle. Only a few, however, seemed to feel the necessity for acquiring the trait which is sure to result from kissing the aforesaid stone. Pat Smith with his violin and Mrs. Christenson piano, furnished lively music throughout the evening, and not all found it possible to resist tripping a few steps of the light fantastic. Mesdames Williams, Severance and Hoskins assisted Mrs. Bales in caring for her guests. A jolly crowd bade a reluctant farewell to Ireland and started homeward on board the S.S. Lusitania. Washington, D.C., was the first stop and Mrs. Alderman had invited the travellers to her home. Here they received a hearty welcome home. Mrs. Alderman being assisted in receiving by Mrs. Mason. The national colors were everywhere in evidence and a small American flag was given each guest as a souvenir. Cake and frappe were served by the Misses Lelia Drew, Allegra Mason and Areta Everson. A fitting close for the evening entertainment was the singing of The Star Spangled Banner, beautifully pantomimed by Miss Edith Allger. To the conductors, Messrs. Clausen, Hoskins, Harrison, McGee, Watt, Ginn and Honey, is due the credit of piloting such a large party on so important a journey. The ladies of the Guild are to be congratulated on the manner in which the costumes, decorations and refreshments were arranged, being true in each instance to the country represented. It is their intention to make the "Trip Around the World" an annual event and the hope for as good success next year as they had this, assuring their friends of many new features in 1919.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

William Campbell Killed by Freight Train.

On Monday afternoon at about 3:30 a fatal accident befel William Campbell, at Wheeler, when he was knocked down and run over by a freight train which was switching at that place. Campbell was a fireman on the tug Geo. K. Vosburg. He went to the Wheeler post office to mail a letter, and after doing so started along the railroad track and walked on the ties, outside the rails. A freight engine was switching cars at the time. As Campbell stepped on the track he appeared to be in deep thought and took no notice of the cars-being switched and notwithstanding this the train crew shouted to him to warn him of his danger, he paid no attention to it. When the caboose struck him he was walking with one foot on either side of the rail. As soon as the car struck him a brakeman jumped off for the purpose of pulling out and save his life, if possible. Campbell was knocked down and the cars passed over him, amputating his left leg and causing other serious injuries. Campbell was conscious when picked up and exclaimed: "My God, you have got me this time boys. I did not hear you." The injured man was at once put on the train and brought to this city. On his way here he became unconscious and did not recover. He died at Dr. Beals' hospital about five minutes after he reached there. The unfortunate man was well known here. He was a son-in-law of Frank Long, whose wife died about 12 months since. He leaves a son and daughter, Willie, aged seven years, and Robert aged eight years. Also a sister who resides at Astoria. "There could be no better medicine than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My children were all sick with whooping cough. One of them was in bed, had a high fever and was coughing up blood. Our doctor gave them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy eased them, and three bottles cured them," says Mrs. R. A. Donaldson, of Lexington, Miss. For sale by all dealers.

"It is a pleasure to tell you that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best cough medicine I have ever used," writes Mrs. Hugh Campbell, of Lavana, Ga. "I have used it with all my children and the results have been highly satisfactory." For sale by all dealers.

Death of George Bertram.

George Bertram accompanied by his seventeen-year-old son, Noah Robinson and Ed Hadaway of Dayton, were on a hunting trip near Sand Lake, Tillamook County. Mr. Bertram was taken suddenly ill of stomach trouble and died on Tuesday in his tent. It is not known whether his ailment was ptomaine poisoning, but it is surmised that this was the cause of death. He was a man about 40 years of age and leaves a wife and three children. The body was brought to this city on Thursday evening, and was taken at once to his home, where the funeral services will be held today at 2 p.m. He was the son of a pioneer family of Dayton, and leaves a number of brothers.—McMinnville Ex.

BITULITHIC AWARD FOR LEBANON.

Follows Example of Other Progressive Cities of Pacific Northwest.

Miles of bitulithic paving throughout the Northwest attest the popularity of this economical paving. The recent award made by the city authorities of Lebanon, Ore., places that city in the list of up-to-date cities which recognize and appreciate the fact that "the best is cheapest" and that durability and economy in paving is a combination that means satisfaction to the taxpayers. The steady increase in area of bitulithic paving is proof of the fact that claims of the company for this paving have been proven true, as it withstands the hardest test of climatic and traffic conditions.
