

Scientist Denies Human Progress.

Alfred Russell Wallace, the "grand old man of science" in England, who last month celebrated his 90th birthday, in a notable interview for the London Daily News took an extremely severe view of the present status of the so-called civilization. He said he had come to the general conclusion that there had been "no advance either in intellect or morals from the days of the earliest Egyptians and Syrians down to the keel laying of the latest dreadnaught."

Lewis, Milaca, Minn., writes: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been a needed and welcome guest in our home for a number of years. I highly recommend it to my fellows as being a medicine worthy of trial in cases of colds, coughs and croup."

Three Men in a Boat.

Gentle reader, did you ever go deep sea fishing? Did you ever cross out over a harbor bar where the waters of the mighty Pacific were calm like the surface of a plate mirror? Did you ever dance merrily in a little boat out to where the Groupers group and fish and catch, and fish and in your feishish greed for "finny fortune" and fun until you'd clear forgotten the bar was getting rough? Well the Henrietta and her crew and passengers did.

The log shows that the passengers were Mr. Frank Hanenkratt, Doc Monk, Mr. Stevens and two ladies who were so seaisick the writer will not mention their names, Captain Jenkins on the bridge and "Big" Sutton before the mast.

proved to be the light ship off Columbia bar and the Henrietta slipped along aside and laid to while the little stars twinkled and blinked and kept watch over the cruiser until the dawn of another day.

President Ripley asserts that the railroads are still in their infancy. The farmers claim that farming is in its infancy. When these two youngsters attain their growth there will be something doing.

It takes five different aged whiskies to make Cyrus Noble—each one good in itself. But it takes blending and re-ageing to bring out the best in each—to "round out" the flavor.

Why punish yourself with rough, high-proof, strong whiskey when you can get Cyrus Noble everywhere? W. J. Van Schuyver Co., Portland, Or.
