Willis H. Jenkins, traveling passenger agent of the Southern Pacific, was in the city on Wednesday. He looks for a large amount of summer travel into Tillamook this year, and as there will be more accommodations this year this will enable the railroad to bring in more people.

Oscar Aschim must have thought he had about obtained all the credit he could get and made up his mind to leave suddenly on Sunday, which he did, and those who trusted him are kicking themselves for doing so. He had also obtained some advance payment on suits of clothes.

Married, on Sunday, in this city, I. F. Larsen and Mrs. Sarah Ann Richardson. The wedding took place in the evening at the home of Mr. Larsen, and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. I. E. Meese, pastor of the U. B. church. There were a few intimate friends present to witness the wedding and to extend their best wishes to the happy couple.

Another meeting of the Tillamook Commercial Club was held on Monday evening, when it was decided to continue the campaign for new members and re-instating those who had dropped out. It was decided that the basket social to be given on St. Patrick's day be open and free to all those who want to participate in this event, which will also include a dance.

Postmaster Baker has received a letter from Albert S. Rand, chief clerk of the Railway Mail Service, in answer to a petition that Bay City, Garibaldi, Nehalem, Wheeler and Rockaway be given mail service on Sundays. Mr. Rand advised the postmaster that it would be given due consideration. At present letters mailed here Saturdays for those places are held until Monday.

A special car, with S. P. railroad officials, came in on Tuesday, with Acting Supt. C. W. Martyn, Chief Engineer C. E. Seiter, Supt. Bridges N. Ross, Traveling Passenger Agent Willis H. Jenkins, and a few others on board. While coming in the gas tank, which is under the car, took fire and caused some delay, as they were unable to extinguish it, and had to wait until all gas had burned up.

J. M. Edwards and J. Angell, who live on Sutton Creek, took a trip to Sandlake last week, and on their way back they located a six hundred pound brown bear in his den. After sending a dog in and getting jabbed with a sharp stick his majesty poked his head out and Edwards put a bullet through it. They were five hours skinning and cutting it up and three days getting home with the skin and load of meat.

A divorce suit was filed in the circuit court by Rose Marshall against her husband, Elmer G. Marshall. These parties were married in Tillamook County on April 11, 1910, and a few months after the marriage the defendant committed cruel and inhuman treatment towards his wife, rendering her life burdensome. She left her husband last June. The plaintiff's maiden name was Rose Baker.

George W. Bodyfelt returned last week from Portland where he had served on the Federal jury since last November. He informs us that a large number of white slave cases were tried while he was on the jury. The jury was highly complimented by the judge on being discharged. For the March jury list three Tillamookers have been drawn, Dave Fitzpatrick, E. E. Cross and Gus Wicklund. George went to Salem while the legislature was in session.

There was a party, Thursday evening at Mr. Weston's, as Laurel Hurlburt has made up his mind to return to Wisconsin. Sixteen were present. He likes the climate and work here better than in Wisconsin, but his friends are writing for him to come back so he has concluded to go. He will be greatly missed here. There was also a party at the same place on Saturday evening, when fifteen persons were present, Laurel Hurlburt having returned from Wheeler.

Died, at Everett, Wash., L. J. Johnson, and the remains were brought to Garibaldi on Monday to be buried in this county, his son, Malphus Johnson, residing on the Miami.

The deceased was quite a conspicuous figure in Tillamook City some years ago, being the editor of the Watchtower, which was published in what is known as the Watchtower building. It engaged in one of the factional fights which took place in this city, but was absorbed by the Headlight. The funeral services were held at Bay City on Tuesday, conducted by the Rev. W. H. Kuhlman, pastor of the M. E. church of this city.

The Kill Kare Klub.

The members of the Kill Kare Klub were delightfully entertained on Thursday afternoon, by Mrs. Homer Masoa.

During the study hour Mrs. J. R. Harter read a very interesting paper on "Our National Park." Mrs. B. E. Severance continued the reading of "The Mystic Mid-regions." The games the hostess had prepared were most interesting as well as instructive.

A most tempting luncheon was served, during which Misses Alegra Mason, Alice Todd, Helen and Pauline Beals, favored the guests with musical selections, both vocal and instrumental.

The Pavement Ruction.

The city council met on Wednesday evening, it being an adjourned meeting, when Mayor Harter and Councilmen Sappington, Leach, Bales, Harrison and Dick, were present. The city hall was packed, and there was an array of legal and scientific individuals present who were ready to talk on the merits and demerits of the pavement.

It seems, however, that the city council had agreed to have Engineer Richardson, who drew the plans and was the expert adviser of the city council when the contract was let, come in and see whether the pavement had been laid according to contract, and to cover the expense the city council passed a resolution to that effect. As Mr. Richardson will not arrive in the city until today it was decided to adjourn the meeting until Friday afternoon at the court house, the city council going into executive session this morning to consider any reports which may be handed in so that the councilmen could discuss and study them.

There were a few other matters attended to, such as the assessment of side walks and the inspection of a sewer, Councilmen Sappington, Harrison and Dick being appointed a committee to attend to the latter.

Bay City's "Crazy Bill"

To the Editor:

The Headlight is always up to date, in fact right up to Now, even if it did publish "How To Kill a Town."

However, it was not a reproduction from the Examiner, but from copy furnished by a gentleman who visited Bay City and saw the card and looked the town over and held the truth heralded by Dr. Harter's card. Interviewed a few people of this city, including the Examiner people, and went back to the doctor and asked for one of the cards.

The Headlight was inclined to let the Bay City sheet down light but, oh, fudge! What's the use? Even a dog will bite the hand that feeds him.

Where are the people who once inhabited your city, Mr. Examiner? Where are the industries you once heralded? Bah! You remind me of the last of the Cocopah Indians who were once a mighty tribe of the desert. "Crazy Bill" was their chief, is yet for that matter, but he has but a remnant left to rule.

The real man came in and took away his rights, usurped his lands, his liberties, etc., fed him on bacon rinds and bad whiskey. Built three story tepees with billiard tables in the top and hot air in the bottom.

Oh, yes, there was a time when Crazy Bill could step on into a canyon and let a yell out of him and raise enough men to whip an army as great as all Tillamook. But, now, he might whoop and yell his head off from the hill tops and mountain crests, until the cows came home and he couldn't raise enough men to carry one precinct.

Where is Crazy Bill, the once noble war chief who bestride his pinto charger and plunged his tomahawk into the phrenology of the foe?

Why, he's out back of the Olympia Cafe astride a saw horse dragging a buck-saw athwart a fir chunk for a drink.

The Examiner had best paste this in the crown of his new spring hat for future reference.

Yours truly,
A FRIEND OF THE HEADLIGHT.

Death of A. D. Case.

Died, in Tillamook City, Oregon, on Tuesday, A. D. Case, father of A. K. Case, who had attained the ripe old age of 97 years. The deceased had been a farmer most of his life and had never used liquor or tobacco. The remains were buried today at the Oddfellows' Cemetery.

Deceased was born in Williams town, New York, and resided there until he was 21 years of age when he was married previous to his leaving. He went to Oshkosh, Wis., and from there went to Nebraska in 1880, where he stayed nine years, and then went back to Racine, Wis. His wife went to England in 1891 to visit her daughter, and the deceased went to Chicago, Ill., to reside with his son while his wife was visiting in England. He came West with A. K. Case 12 years ago and settled in Tillamook, where he has since resided. There were only two children, A. K. Case and Mrs. A. W. Elam. The latter resided in England and while on her way to visit her father and brother a few years since was taken sick with appendicitis in New York and died after the operation. Mrs. Case, who is an invalid, is still in London, England. The deceased was a kind husband and affectionate father, and had the esteem of those who knew him, his declining years being made as happy as possible by the tender care of his son and daughter-in-law, who did everything possible to make the old gentlemen happy.

Blames Passing Vessel.

Refused information as to his whereabouts by a passing steamer which was seen as the fog lifted and was in sight for an hour, when but the raising of two flags in reply would have conveyed a message that there was no chance of obtaining Captain Westphal, of the German bark Mimi, complains bitterly of a lack of courtesy that would have saved his vessel.

He said the steamer was bound north; that she was a three-master and bore her funnel what appeared to be a white letter "S." For three days the skipper of the Mimi said he was unable to get any bearings and it was about four hours before the bark went on the beach that the steamer hove in sight. When about two miles away he said the signal flags were hoisted, asking for the location. Had the steamer merely replied as to the latitude or longitude, Captain Westphal said he could have worked out his position.

Landwards nothing was to be seen but a bank of fog that hung over the beach. When the bark grounded he said it was impossible to distinguish the shore and later, on seeing fires there, he thought they were lights of another vessel.

Had either of the tug-ferries, Oreonta and Wahina had a long line when they appeared next day he said the bark could have been floated. He said it would have been comparatively simple for one end of a line to have been attached to a buoy and floated through the breakers to the bark, The Oreonta, he said, came within a quarter of a mile of the Mimi and a line could easily have been sent from her.

Bids have been asked for floating the Mimi and delivering her inside the river and they will be opened today.

Pointed Remarks.

Don't "knock" the city because of some little petty, personal reasons or because things are not done according to your idea. Be a booster and broad gauged in these matters.

The city council having called for reports the editor thought he would have a "scoup" on the "detectives' report, but fell down. The investigation won't be complete without this.

More trouble brewing. The city council will be "investigated" for allowing chickens to run at large. Well, they are not enforcing the law and are liable to be accused of receiving graft from chicken owners.

Cut it out, gentlemen. The personal, factional fight over the street improvements won't be any inducement for people to invest in property, for they don't care to locate where the citizens are continually at loggerheads and where they are liable to be investigated.

You hear some of our citizens and business men talk about patronizing home industries and in that way help the city. But what about employing outside attorneys? That is not patronizing home industry, nor helping the attorneys of this city. This needs investigating.

As some of our citizens are scared for fear that the street pavement will not last more than the guaranteed time, we understand that the Warren Construction Co. was willing to guarantee and maintain it for ten years at a small extra cost when they made the contract.

Mayor Harter called for all reports to be in by ten o'clock over the pavement controversy. There is only one thing to decide, and that is whether the Warren Construction Company has complied with their contract, and to ascertain this a competent Engineer must enlighten the city council so that they can act intelligently. If there are defects then the company must make good.

We believe it, that the editor is a fat, wicked fellow for publishing a full report of the sweat box methods, and should be railroaded out of business. But I haven't been tried many times in the past with disastrous effect by those who had an idea that they owned the Press of this city? But let her rip, for we have no fear what the result will be if the old time tactics of rule or ruin are to be resorted to by some of our good christian citizens of sweat box notoriety.
