Denver forbids Japanese to bathe in its public lake. The Japanese habitually bathe every day in hot water, and will probably prefer their own system in any case.

Secretary Bryan has started another paramount issue, the insufficiency of $12,000 a year as an income, and again feels like going to bed early as the returns come in.

Secretary Bryan makes a business of lecturing others, but does not want others to make a business of lecturing him. What is sauce for the goose is not always sauce for the gander.

Drowned on Nehalem Bar. On Friday a bad accident occurred on Nehalem Bar. Clinging to a life preserver which had been carried to him after the gasoline fishboat Elinor had been partially capsized by a huge wave, George H. Stockwell, of Portland, drowned when another breaker swept over him, tearing his grip from the life preserver. S. G. Reed, of Nehalem, who with Mr. Stockwell was swept over as the boat turned on its side, was finally rescued through the efforts of Captain Olsen, and the others who were on the troubled craft.

Those in the party who are safe are: W. C. Chase, Mr. Reed, Robert Morrell, M. Christensen and son, of Portland and Captain Olsen. The Elinor, which is a 45-foot gasoline boat, with its party of six started out over Nehalem bar about 3 o'clock. The boat negotiated the trip out, and, turning around the buoy, started back, when a large breaker struck the boat broadside. The craft was turned on its side. Mr. Stockwell and Mr. Reed were swept overboard. Captain Olsen threw life preservers and Mr. Reed caught one and swam with it to where Stockwell was floundering around in the water and rapidly weakening. The sea was breaking rough and Mr. Reed succeeded in anchoring Stockwell to the life preserver.

Stockwell had hardly fixed his grip to the life preserver when another wave swept over him, filling his lungs. He was forced to release his grip and drowned before Mr. Reed could offer aid the second time. Mr. Reed, still clinging to the life preserver, attempted to reach Stockwell a second time, but the body disappeared before he was successful. Reed later was hauled to safety, where his strength was all but exhausted. The boat filled with water to the engine-room and then drifted to Rocky Point a mile south of Manhattan Beach.

In somewhat rounded sentences and indefinite expressions of purpose, Secretary Daniels has told the people of the Pacific Coast that as soon as the Panama Canal is completed a large part of the navy will be transferred to the Pacific. He calls attention to the fact that a fleet could pass through the canal from either coast to the other before any hostile fleet could reach either coast from across the fronting ocean. This is true as to the Pacific, but not the Atlantic. A German fleet for instance, could reach Long Island Sound from the North Sea much sooner than an American fleet could reach it from San Francisco, both starting at the same time. But the Pacific Ocean is wider, and a Japanese fleet could not reach our Pacific coast as soon as one of our own sent through the canal from the Atlantic. If one fleet is to protect both coasts, it follows that this is best done by keeping the fleet in the Atlantic. An Atlantic fleet could get to the Pacific before a trans-Pacific enemy could reach the coast, but a Pacific fleet could not get to the Atlantic before a trans-Atlantic enemy reached that shore.

It now develops, as we anticipated, that Nicaragua took the initiative in proposing to incorporate the Platt amendment in the pending treaty under which we are to pay her $3,000,000 for a canal right of way. Nicaragua is to cede, in compensation for the new burdens we would assume under a Platt amendment, islands off her coasts which will admirably serve as fortification posts for the defense of the Panama Canal. What Nicaragua is to deliver, cessions and concessions, is a good exchange for the amount of money we are to pay. It would not be a bad bargain in the beginning, but it involves, for us, so many future and continuing obligations, and so many possible liabilities to be set off against the only assets which are to be turned over to us, that it is surprising to find so many of the senators who will be called upon to pass upon the treaty committing themselves to it unreservedly in advance. Surprise may even be felt at this in Nicaragua, and in foreign lands more remote and more solvent.

Surprising Cure of Stomach Trouble. When you have trouble with your stomach or chronic constipation, don't imagine your case is beyond help just because your doctor fails to give you relief. Mrs. G. Stengle, Plainfield, N. J., writes, "For over a month past I have been troubled with my stomach. Everything I ate upset it terribly. One of Chamberlain's advertising books came to me. After reading a few of the letters from people who have been cured by Chamberlain's Tablets, I decided to try them. I have taken nearly three-fourths of a package of them and can now eat almost everything that I want." For sale by all dealers.

Not Feeling Just Right? Read This. Mr. Jack Maitos, Copperopolis, Calif., would not make this statement were it not absolutely true. I tried three bottles of Foley Kidney Pills and they entirely cured me, and I have had no kidney trouble since. Ask him, sold by all druggists.

Hill's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. Taft is a Happy Man. The dispatches say that Mr. Taft is happy. And why shouldn't he be? He can enjoy the happy reflection that after four years of his administration as the chief executive of the nation the people were in their zenith in happiness, peace and prosperity. At no time in the history of this or any other nation has there been an era of such progress and prosperity as the American people have enjoyed for the last four years. The results of a political upheaval will be forgotten before the march of national events; but the prosperity of this nation in the year 1912 forms a part of our history that is bound to shine the brighter as years multiply. The consciousness of a duty well done is the most self-satisfying reflection a man can harbor. Why shouldn't Mr. Taft be happy?—Fairbury, Neb., News.
