The Tillamook Headlight,

Editorial Snap Shots.

We move for a vote of thanks to the directors of the Tillamook County Fair Association.

The election in Maine is giving Democrats and Progressives the cold shivers, for the G. O. P. is on top in that state again.

The summer travel is practically over and it was a great surprise to most of us that so many visitors came to Tillamook this year. But it will be a hummer next year.

The Herald continues to rub it in on Carl Knudson, one of the most respectable business men in the county; no doubt, because he let the public know about the dirty detective business.

The Senate passed the Democratic free trade tariff bill, which gives protection to the manufacturer and places most everything raised on the farm, on the free list. Milk and cream, the most important product of this county, is on the free list.

Say, Bro. Trombley, wasn't it the same individuals who inspired the editorial in Tuesday's issue who sent the detectives to Uncle Cone of Bay City? And, say, Bro. Trombley, as you do not know Mr. Eddy, how do you know his opinions years before you came to Tillamook?

Having incorporated, it is up to Wheeler to improve its own streets. Go after the city dads, Bro. Effenberger, and advocate a hard surfaced street from one end of Wheeler to the other. It is none too soon to commence this improvement, that is if that city is to be numbered with those who are up-to-date and don't have to wade through mud hub deep.

There is a good deal of Western grit amongst Tillamookers. The heavy rain and wind storm was certainly discouraging to those who had the fair arrangement in hand, but one must admire their grit and perseverance, for no sooner had the storm passed when they went to work with renewed energy and come out on top with smiling countenances.

A visitor who had not been in Tillamook for two years could hardly believe that he was in the same town when he came here again this week. Truly it was a transformation in two years, and no one wants to go back to muddy streets and rotten side walks, and those in brick or concrete buildings are not as scared about fire as when they had valuable stocks in frame buildings. If the city makes the same progress the next two years—and we don't see why it shouldn't—it will make the metropolis of Tillamook one of the most progressive cities in Oregon.

One word of kindly advice to those who patronize mail order houses in Eastern State. It is a well known fact that there are different grades of goods, and it is the cheap, shoddy kind that the mail order houses are dealing in, and people are deceived in buying. This makes it hard on local merchants who handle the best grades of goods and refuse to handle the poor grades. But it is hard to convince people that they can obtain the best grades of goods from the home merchants for the same money they pay for shoddy goods. We make an appeal in behalf of our home merchants, who aim to do the right thing with those who patronize them.

The land speculators have done a great deal in retarding the growth of Tillamook county by placing inflated values on farm land and placing a burden on those who bought farms on time and with very little money passing in the transaction. It is no wonder that people are scared away by the high price and fictitious values placed on farm lands by land speculators in this county. That is not all, the heavy taxation on farms is caused by inflated values placed in farm lands, which are taxed too high and loaded down too heavily with taxation—thanks to the land speculators.

One regrettable feature about the storm which demoralized the fair arrangements was the lectures to be given by the professors from the Agricultural College. We are somewhat in doubt whether it is the proper time to hold a farmer's institute during a fair, for outside attractions will always draw the most people. We believe more benefit would be derived by the Fair Association holding a farmer's institute annually at a different date to holding the fair, which would make two interesting gatherings—one to talk over the problems and best methods in dairying and the other to exhibit and demonstrate what can be accomplished.

It is gratifying to know that steps are to be taken to give Bayocean a road and a way out, for if any taxpayers are entitled to a road the Bayocean people are. It cannot, of course, be constructed in one year, but by assistance of the property owners and the county it should be completed in three years. Two years would be much better, for the success of Bayocean depends entirely upon having a road. The people of this city have boosted for this road, and the business men have shown by their liberal donations that they favor it, for it would be an injustice to deprive Bayocean of a way out after paying heavy taxation. It probably never occurred to some of our readers that auto travel to Oregon beach resorts is exceedingly limited on account of lack of roads to them, and this is the reason we are boosting for roads to Tillamook beach resorts, for if this county is the first to provide them the travel will be enormous. We make this prediction about the road to Bayocean, that it will not only benefit that place, but when the lumber industry opens up and the upper part of the bay becomes a second Grays Harbor, it will be one of the most important roads in the county.

Henry Lane Wilson—full name given as identification in this age of Wilsons—talks more like a man who is sure he is right than a diplomat anxious to hold onto the last shreds of his job.

The Japanese in California have engaged a press agent to manage a campaign of education in this country and Japan. There is a better way to gain international knowledge than to listen to the vaporing of jingoes.

Cattle raising conditions in Argentine and other countries of South America, as reported by Robert E. Conway, who has just returned from a tour of inspection, are such as to give consumers of beef hope that their butcher bill will not much increase during the next few years. Were we to be independent upon the home supply the prices of meat might become so altitudinous as to get beyond the reach of the man of ordinary means. The number of cattle in this country is decreasing, while the number of consumers is increasing. This is the general condition, but this year there are special causes of decrease. The dry season has made feed scarce and high, and farmers have begun to send their stock to market to get rid of it. This includes breeding stock, which means more than the normal decrease in the supply next year.

Diarrhoea Quickly Cured.
 "I was taken with diarrhoea and Mr. Yorks, the merchant here, persuaded me to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. After taking one dose of it I was cured. It also cured others that I gave it to," writes M. E. Gebhart, Ureola, Pa. That is not at all unusual. An ordinary attack of diarrhoea can almost invariably be cured by one or two doses of this remedy. For sale by all dealers.

The One Power.

In his address upon social hygiene at the fourth international conference just held at Buffalo, Dr. Elliot, emeritus president of Harvard University, depicted many of the sad results of ignorance and vice when left unchecked or unheeded. He especially saw increased physical decay as a result of our modern crowding of population in unsanitary surroundings. Looking at the problem in its imminence, he almost despaired of a solution. He asked: "What force can now be put in play against the formidable evils which gravely threaten the very life of our race?" And he answered the question by saying that "no one force or agency can be completely relied upon," this answer but serving to intensify realization of the difficulty. But there was another speaker present who gave the answer. That was Rev. Richard J. Tierney, who said: "Knowledge is not moral power. Christ, not hygiene, will cleanse the world."

Looking back over 1900 years of the world's history, no other force than that spoken by Mr. Tierney can be pointed out as having exercised a moral, and therefore a physical, power upon mankind, and in our present-day civilization none other is apparent. Take the religions of the world as we know them, and only the one founded upon recognition of one supreme and only God, manifested in the flesh by Jesus Christ, contains in its doctrines and its spirit—and the spirit is what makes it alive, not the doctrines—those moral principles and that love of man to God and man to man which must be the firm foundation of right living, of morality and of a hygiene which embraces the welfare of others as well as of the individual. No other force conspicuously rescues men from moral degradation and mental depravity, and sets them to living pure lives and thinking clean thoughts. And it is upon these individual pure lives and clean thoughts that the efficacy of any system of moral and physical hygiene must rely for support and propagation.

The man who believes in this power has not so hopeless an outlook as that taken by Dr. Elliot, whose long years at Harvard as an educator and an exemplifier of personal moral living should have shown him the truth of what Mr. Tierney said, that knowledge is not moral power. More real moral power issues from some small college whose atmosphere is pervaded with the spirit of Christianity and where Christ is held up as the one to emulate, than from the great university where mere knowledge is the object sought and where both the restraints and the molding influence of the Christ spirit are absent. To be sure the Christ spirit has not yet conquered the world and overcome the sad results of centuries of its absence. It is not even supremely dominated the lands where it is best known. Farther than that, it does not even today completely rule those who are nominally under its inspiration. Yet, in spite of all this, it is the sufficient single power which Dr. Elliot says does not exist.

The Balkan nations have reached the aftermath. One has just ordered 2000 artificial legs.

If the price of Broker's seats in Wall street continues to fall they will be classed as Democratic souvenirs instead of assets.

Japan spends nearly $50,000,000 a year on public education. That country evidently intends to hold on to place among the leading powers.

President Wilson says he "will not pander to any selfish spirit in the Philippines." Then the Republican policy can go forward unchanged.

A Western town relates how a refreshing shower sent the temperature down to 102 in the shade. One way to keep cool is to be thankful for small favors.

After a few years as the Democratic leader in Massachusetts Gov. Foss proposes to become a Republican again. A Democratic convert who sticks is a curiosity.

Col. Watterson says the people of New York are incapable of self-government. The colonel should confine his comment to Democratic periods. At other times New York lives up to its high position.

Peace in the Balkans is again declared, with the Turk back in several strategic points from which he was lately driven out. Turkey is still in Europe and roosting only a little lower than before.

The president has made sure, says a Washington dispatch, that "for a time, at least, no ill-considered speeches on Mexico will be delivered in the Senate." This sense of personal responsibility for what is said in Congress has never before been so strongly developed in the White House.

PRIZE ORCHARD,
 Non-Irrigated,
 FOR SALE OR TRADE FOR DAIRY.
 15 Acres, Half Mile from White Salmon, Wash.

Best orchard and country home in the Famous White Salmon Valley—Strictly commercial varieties—10 acres apples with peach fillers and 5 acres solid apples. Eight room modern concrete bungalow, new 26 by 40 barn, carpenter shop and chicken house, well and elevated tank (also spring water), piped to all buildings, electric lighted throughout.

This orchard has an immense growth of trees, they being the largest of their age in the valley. Peaches are bearing now and apples will bear after next year. This property has a very gentle south slope, with the best of water and air drainage. Elevation 800 feet. Soils: Volcanic ash and red soil.

This place will make an ideal location for anyone wishing to retire from active farming and still have a fine income. The buildings are very homelike and convenient.

The improvements are easily worth $4000, and the orchard $10,500.00, making an actual valuation of $14,000. I own 15 acres adjoining this and so can match a trade up to $28,000.00. Property is free of encumbrance. Will assume a reasonable amount.

This proposition will bear inspection and if you are interested write what you have and I will send photographs.

Uses 1/3 Less Coal
 The best Baker ever built
 Built like a locomotive boiler
 Riveted, not bolted together. No stove putty
 Easy to keep clean. Saves work and money

ARCADIAN
 AMERICA'S BEST RANGE

The Arcadian is a perfect baking range, and stays a perfect baker for a lifetime because it is built like a locomotive boiler. Built of malleable iron and charcoal iron riveted together instead of being bolted together. Made airtight without the use of stove putty to crumble and fall out, as happens in cast iron and so-called steel ranges, allowing false drafts to fan the fire or deaden it.

The Arcadian Range will never have false drafts—it will always do perfect baking, using a third less fuel than common ranges.

Never need to use blackening—a rub with an old cloth makes it appear like new. It prevents rust over and over in the fuel it saves. In any nothing of the way it makes a woman's work easier and allows her to do perfect baking.

THE ARCADIAN IS SOLD BY US.
 We invite you to call as we wish to demonstrate the value of this range to you.
