Editorial Snap Shots.

Watch the Tillamook cheese makers pack off the prizes next week.

If you are a friend of the public school turn out November 4 and vote "Yes" for the University appropriation, for it is in need of funds for necessary improvements.

Just a little snap shot to show how absurd the "inspired" editorial writers make Bro. Trombley appear. Another column of dope appeared in the Herald which says that we do not own a foot of property in the city and is in no wise effected by the pavement, and for that reason we should keep quiet.

Tillamook City will extend a cordial welcome to the Oregon Butter and Cheese Maker's Association and the Oregon Dairy-men's Association next week, and it is hoped that the cheese makers and the dairymen of the county will turn out and participate in the proceedings, for it will be a get together meeting for the purpose of hearing interesting addresses on dairying and other important subjects.

Those who own agricultural land and valuable city property and hold it for speculation will have to pay more taxes in the future, for the assessor will have to assess all property at its full value hereafter.

that is cleared. Of course, the change is going to bring about considerable complaint, as most changes do when it touches a person's pocket book.

The effort to deprive the State University of funds for maintenance and up-building purposes is to be deplored, but the "knockers" have succeeded for several years, through the new double system of legislation, to stunt the progressive of the State University.

it requires a vote of the people, will they vote favorably or unfavorably if it was submitted to them? What seems to be discouraging in building a new road or properly surveying and rebuilding a former road is the time it takes to finish it when the cost exceeds a certain sum, which entails a large amount of money being tied up in a road with no benefit to be derived.

The Sterilization Law.

(TO EDITOR TILLAMOOK HEADLIGHT) Portland, Oregon, October 16th, 1913.

We believe that Sterilization Law should be rejected because it does not sufficiently guard the safety of the insane and feeble-minded and all prisoners in the State Institutions.

If this law is approved by the people and is constitutional, it will be possible for only two men, one a superintendent of a State Asylum, without an oath or affidavit, without a trial or hearing, without a notice to the insane person or prisoner, or to any friend, relative or guardian, to cause any insane person in the State institutions to be sterilized, spayed, castrated or otherwise mutilated by any "surgical operation" the State Board of Health may be pleased to order.

There is nothing in the law to prevent all of this being done before any of the work is made public. We do not think any two men or any combination of men should have this power over the bodies of insane persons or prisoners.

We recommend that this law be rejected by voting 305 X No. We do not say the present officers would abuse the authority granted them by this law, but we believe the history of mankind proves that such secret power is too great to be given any body of men over other men, women, and most of all over the helpless insane persons and prisoners.

I disapprove of the law because it accomplishes nothing, may be an engine of tyranny and oppression and is rot.

Home-Keeping Women Need Health and Strength.

The work of a home-keeping woman makes a constant call in her strength and vitality, and sickness comes through her kidneys and bladder oftener than she knows.

Chronic Dyspepsia. The following unsolicited testimonial should certainly be sufficient to give hope and courage to persons afflicted with chronic dyspepsia.

Quick Help to Backache and Rheumatism.

The man or woman who wants quick help from backache and rheumatism, will find it in Foley Kidney Pills. They act so quickly and with such good effect that weak, inactive kidneys that do not keep the blood clean and free of impurities, are toned up and strengthened to healthy vigorous action.

FOOD SUPERSTITIONS.

Dyak Warriors Won't Eat Deer For Fear of Becoming Timid.

In rural Germany one still meets with a superstition that he who eats during a thunderstorm will be struck by lightning.

Among the Dyaks warriors must not eat venison because it would make them as timid as the deer. Fowls and eggs are forbidden to women of a Bantu tribe because on eating either a woman would certainly fly into the brush and never again be seen.

BAD FOR PRONUNCIATION.

Silent Reading and Neglect of Conversation Are Harmful.

Perhaps the most potent of influences toward diverse pronunciation, especially difference in accent, is the fact that we seldom or never hear in conversation a vast number of words which nevertheless constitute an important and indispensable part of our vocabulary.

"By silent reading and neglect of conversation language itself," declares Richard Grant White, "is coming into disuse." The result of this practice is not only that we are always mentally registering pronunciations peculiar to ourselves, which we have no means of ascertaining to be uncommon or ridiculous, but also that the natural tendencies of our language, unrestrained by the conservative force which occasional use in conversation might exert, rapidly foster new pronunciations and produce a diversity of pronunciation even among the most careful speakers.

All these influences obviously supplement each other in resisting any trend toward uniform pronunciation and facilitate the progress of the tendencies of speech peculiar to our English tongue.

A Fleet Street Story.

Henry Arthur Broome, in "The Log of a Rolling Stone," says that in 1871 he was engaged in wood engraving for Punch when one day, at the end of the week, short of money, he stood gazing longingly at the cherries on a costermonger's barrow which stood abreast of the offices of the London Telegraph.

Then a kindly deed was done. The gentleman, averting his gaze from me a moment, purchased two paper bags of this fruit. Then, placing one of them in the pocket of his capacious dust coat, he turned to me with the sweetest smile imaginable and without a word offered the other one to me, which I gratefully accepted.

A Limit to His Power. A curious historical anecdote is handed down from the time of James I. James, being in want of £20,000, applied to the corporation for a loan. The corporation refused. The king insisted. "But, sire, you cannot compel us," said the lord mayor. "No," exclaimed James, "but I'll ruin you and the city forever. I'll remove my courts of law, my court itself and my parliament to Winchester or to Oxford and make a desert of Westminster, and then think what will become of you!"

True Kindergarten Spirit. Master Harold had returned after his first day at a kindergarten school, says the Manchester Guardian.

As Far as He Could Go. "I," she said proudly, "can trace my ancestry back to armor and shirts of mail."

Good Names and Riches. "A good name is better than great riches," quoted the sage. "But that's not the reason why most of us are poor," replied the fool.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Why You Need a New Range

Some housewives who display a remarkable amount of broad, sound, common sense along other lines, persist in the delusion—and it is a delusion—that they are really practicing economy by clinging to an old, worn-out range merely to save the price of a new one.

Great Majestic Malleable and Charcoal Iron Range

Outwears Three Ordinary Ranges. It is the only range made entirely of malleable iron and charcoal iron. Charcoal iron won't treat like steel—malleable iron can't break, and while the first cost of a Great Majestic may be more than some other ranges, it outwears 3 ordinary ranges.

Half The Fuel. The Majestic is put together with rivets (not bolts and stove putty) making it absolutely air tight, like an engine boiler.

Pure Asbestos Lining. In addition, it is lined with pure asbestos board, covered with an...

Lisle Ross Killed by Tree.

Lisle Ross, of this city, who was working for the Sunset Timber Co. near Timber, was killed last Friday evening, Oct. 17th, by a tree falling on him, a limb of the tree penetrated near the hip severing an artery, causing a hemorrhage from which he died.

The body was brought to Tillamook on Sunday and on Monday morning at 10:30 the funeral services were held at the M. E. Church, Rev. Weber, pastor, officiating. Interment took place at the I. O. O. F. cemetery.

Lisle Melville Ross was born in The Dalles, Jan. 23, 1890. He was one of four children born to Margaret and John Even Ross. A sister, Jessie Evelyn Ross, now in Vancouver, B.C., a brother, Bruce Wallace Ross of the U. S. Navy, and a sister, Morna Clark Parkhurst, and his mother survive him.

Babies will grow and while they are growing, you should have them photographed often enough to get a record of each interesting stage of their childhood. You will prize the collection of baby's pictures more and more as the years go by.
