Commissioner Edner Resigns and then Withdraws.

Some surprise was caused on Monday when it became known that County Commissioner G. R. Edner had handed in his resignation, and a good deal of speculation was indulged in as to whom the County Court would appoint to fill the vacancy. Some of the voters in the north part of the county wanted Mr. Edner to withdraw his resignation, as he has his work planned for this year, but he does not feel inclined to do this. The reasons given for his resignation are set forth in his letter to the County Court:

March 12, 1914.
To The Honorable County Court of Tillamook County Oregon:
I hereby tender my resignation as Commissioner of Tillamook County.

The worry and strain is too great for the small compensation allowed a commissioner. I have held the office for the past 15 months and if I attend to the county business as it should be attended to the salary will hardly pay my expenses, so I feel it a duty I owe my family to resign. Thanking your honorable body and the people of Tillamook County for past favors.

I remain yours sincerely,
G. R. EDNER.

County Clerk Holden received a telegram from Mr. Edner on Wednesday withdrawing the resignation.

P.R. & N. Loose $900,000.

The Hill interests have not extended their United Railways line to Tillamook, as originally intended and promised, for the economic reason that if one railroad already built can lose $900,000 in three years two roads tapping the same country could and probably would lose twice that amount in the same length of time. Hence the United Railways ends out at a railroad somewhere near Wilkesboro, with no further extension in sight.

This interesting information, brought out for the first time since the Hill and Harriman forces began their battle for Western Oregon supremacy, came to light in the Linnton rate case before the Railroad Commission this morning. The Hill people called on their husky rivals of the Southern Pacific to furnish proof that it would be bad business to string another railroad to Tillamook.

W. M. Nelson, auditor of the Pacific Railway & Navigation Co., was placed on the witness stand by Judge C. H. Carey, attorney for the Hill lines, and Nelson gave the following resume of the financial fortunes of the Tillamook line. In the last seven months, beginning July 1, 1913, the company had lost $30,000 on operating expenses, for the calendar year 1913 the operating loss was $170,000, and for the three years since the line was opened the loss, including interest charges, has been over $900,000.

The digression in the line of testimony in the Linnton rate case came after the attorneys for the Linnton people had persisted in trying to show in cross examination that the United Railways would be a good money-maker if it had been extended to the coast, as intended. These attorneys insisted that the present "red ink" showing of the company was not a result of non-representative operation of the line between here and Linnton, but on the section of the road beyond that point, but which the company was seeking to charge against the Portland-Linnton link.—Telegram.

The Registration.

The registration when made up on Saturday, showed that 244 persons had registered that week. The republicans increased their number 142, the democrats 43, and the prohibitionists 12. The socialists more than doubled their registration in one week, with a gain of 28 and 2 more were added to the Progressive-bull moose combination, with 17 added to the independent and miscellaneous columns.

	Men	Women	Total
Republicans	491	153	644
Democrats	176	41	217
Prohibitionists	23	48	71

It will be noticed that the women are not taking the same interest in the registration as the men, and from present indications there appears to be some truth in the statement that a portion of the women did not want the privilege of voting the same as men.

What Shall I Wear This Spring?

You will be asking yourself about now, "What shall I wear this Spring?" You will probably stroll along the streets, peer into shop windows, look critically at your best dressed friends, read articles on fashions, and even ask your wife or sweetheart. Why follow in the old way this Spring? The old way was only good until a better way came in. And the better way came in with the

G.A.R. FAIR A SUCCESS.

With Plenty of Fun, Pleasure and Laughter.

The Carnival and Fair of the W. R. C. at the Skating Rink last week deserved the grand success that it proved to be. The large rink was full of happy, satisfied people each night. The net receipts, about $150, will go towards entertaining the State G.A.R. and W.R.C. encampment in this city in June. The street parade was in charge of Capt. Frank Severance and C. E. Reynolds, led by City Marshal Myers, and the Military Band in charge of Prof. Kemple. It showed that much care had been used in the make-ups of the different characters, while a number of the leading business firms were represented in it, it would do credit to a much larger city.

Mrs. Berenice Lucas, president of the W.R.C., ably directed the carnival, well assisted by Mesdames Eva Ruzer, chairman executive committee, Rhea Anthes, Alma Schultz, Rose Williams, Lillie Hill and Bessie Stillwell who worked night and day for two weeks to make it a success. The Electric Light Co. and Mr. Geo. Chaphe, electrician, kindly donated their services free to make the rink a blaze of light. Conetti was thrown everywhere and everyone had the carnival spirit of fun.

The "Tom Thumb" mock wedding in charge of Mesdames Lucas, Carpenter and Stranahan deserve special mention. The little ones, from 4 to 6 years old were dressed in full evening dress, the bridegroom Master Elvin Smith, his groomsmen Masters Kenneth Ruzer and Billy Stillwell, the beautiful bride, Carrine Stranahan, her maids the two sweet little Miss Harris, the "Preacher," the pure little Mary Lamar, the organist, the bright little Miss Mackenzie, the guests all little ones, it was a beautiful vision of life and was repeated twice each night.

There were many booths in the Rink, the Old "Witch" with pot of boiling herbs and "love draughts" presided over by Mrs. Lowe. The Gypsy Fortune Teller's booth in charge of the charming Miss Elsie Lamb. The "Fish Pond" where Mesdames Stella Perry, Elma Schultz, Alice Wolfe and Mary Johnson placed "fish" on hooks baited with money; the elegant Japanese tea garden where the beautifully gowned Misses Fay Harris, Gladys Snodgrass, Mary White and Alice Perry served tea for all. The candy booth with Mrs. Lottie Hill in charge, ably assisted by the pretty Misses Lillian Ruzer, Faye Hill and Lillian Severance who charmed many a dime by their smiles from the boys.

The ice cream parlor with Miss Rachel Stanley in charge, well assisted by the Misses Margaret Coates, Neva Maddux and Beulah Rogers, who by their charming manners kept the booth full of happy people.

The "German Garden" in charge of Mrs. Lavinia Coates, assisted by the fascinating Misses Beulah Funk, Agnes Coates and Georgia Johnson, who made the garden popular.

The Indian Tribe, with war dances, tepee and ideal Indian customs, Braves, squaws and papooses, was well represented by Braves, Lulen Maddux, Chas. Algar, John Ashim, A. E. Ball and Albert Crummins, Squaws, some with papooses on back, Mesdames Bessie Chaffee, Susan Conover, Phoebe Snodgrass and Misses Lucille and Aves Wolf, Ruth Severance and Ruth Snodgrass, showed much care as to the costumes and actions were true to life and reflected much credit on all.

The big fat boy, by Mr. Van Patton. The Clown, by "Haysced" by Henry Crenshaw. "Foolish Liz," by Mrs. Allen Page, the jolly Dutchman by Ira Smith all were well taken and made amusement for old and young.

The "Curio" booth in charge of Mrs. Lizzie Reynolds, with its "snake charmer" by the charming Miss Mable Davis, its "speller" by Mr. Reynolds, all proved one of the best attractions. The hot lunch booth was a busy place, where all got their money's worth and kept Messrs. M. A. Olsen, Scottie Easton, Art Ruzer and Mesdames Kirk and Johnson and others busy. The "Kangaroo" Court, presided over by "Judge" D. L. Shrode and Judge Webster Holmes, ably assisted by Policemen Pate Wells and Bill Davis and Policewomen Mrs. Myers and Miss Hilma Johnson, fined old and young and produced much amusement and $20 revenue, and few indeed escaped being captured, one young lady was quite angry at her arrest until Judge Holmes fined her 10c, for being the most beautiful lady in the room, which she paid with smiles, thus showing the sound judicial acumen of the judge that has made him so popular in this district.

The "Kangaroo" court as well as the vaudeville program and specialties was in charge of Atty. C. R. Worrall who has rendered himself so justly popular by his all-round ability and courteous ever ready-ness, which make a success of all he attempts; the performers, one and all, did themselves proud, the rendering of old plantation melodies by the O'Donnell Family, sweet, always welcome singers; The vocal solo by Atty. M. J. Gersoni, a popular favorite; Singing and Clog dancing by R. N. McRae; Fancy clog and jig dances by Jim Frederick; Beautiful horn solos and bugle calls by our popular band leader Prof. Koempfe; Piano accompaniment, the talented pianist Prof. Leland Erwin; The quartette, Messrs. Chas. Thomas, Bur Beals, Jr., Verle Stanley and John Ebinger rendered some beautiful selections, with guitar accompaniment by Messrs. Thomas and Fredericks; The negro minstrels, Will Hill, Geo. Chaffee and others gave a half hour of amusement, good songs and dances that all enjoyed.

The thrilling "Slide for life" by the two and three year old sons of Mr. Herring electrified the entire audience and the cow boy horseback leaping by Mr. Herring was especially enjoyed.

The old fashioned "The Henry Ellison and Pat Smith" ed all and took us back to the days when we danced all night candle light and went home our "galls in the morning" charac/or song by "The Morris Men. Allen Page brought out house; The W. R. C. especially to thank Mesdames Knudson for the use of the tuned piano; the Electric Light and Mr. Chaphe; the City Band by Prof. Koempfe, which pride of Tillamook; Mr. Judge Worrall and all persons and others who so kindly to make a grand success of the Carnival, as well as the their generous support and
