THE TILLAMOOK HEADLIGHT.

Editorial Snap Shots.

We want to congratulate Freddie for evacuating that dirty old shack which we evacuated nearly five years ago on account of the microbes that filled the premises.

We are not very much interested in revivals, but why wouldn't it be a good idea to have a revival, get together meeting of the business men at the Tillamook Commercial Club?

One of our subscribers in renewing his subscription, wrote: "I had intended attending to this matter but kept putting it off from time to time as there was some doubt in my mind if your need is greater now than it would be later, when we would have a greater importation of pig-tail eggs and Kangaroo butter, and by the way, for the same reason I was debating whether I could spare the amount better now than I could a year from now."

Remember that "Clean-up" Day in Tillamook City is Thursday, June 11. Start in at once and then there won't be as much to do on the date set for cleaning up.

It looks as though some of the Portland jobbers are endeavoring to reduce the price of Tillamook cheese, so that they can buy it at a low price and then place it in cold storage, to be held there until they can manipulate the price.

Some pointed and timely remarks were made at the Tillamook Commercial Club on Monday, which, we hope will prove of some benefit. It was the lack of interest in the business sessions of the club by the business men of this city.

An illustration of getting off on the wrong foot occurred at the Commercial Club the other evening. A letter was read from a party who wanted to know whether 400 acres of land could be obtained for the purpose of establishing a model dairy farm.

one person owning that amount of land in this county. Say, boys, don't get a wrong conception of things and throw cold water on such inquiries. There are thousands of acres of unproductive land in this county waiting for some enterprising person to improve and make it productive.

OREGON'S INJURY.

That this year's prices on dairy products have been forced lower by the removal of the tariff seems to be beyond dispute. The Oregon farmer may conservatively check up a loss of $2,500,000 against the Underwood bill as representing the depression in price on his butterfat.

Of course there are more consumers than producers of butterfat in Oregon, so it is well to inquire also whether they will attain a corresponding benefit. The consumer may observe a slight reduction in what is charged for butter in the time of flush production, but there is not much promise for the winter months.

The few cents the consumer notes in his bills here and there are offset by a reduction in the price of his own product. In the case of the workman the saving is counteracted by failure to sell all the labor he is capable of performing.

REMOVING THE MYSTERY.

Mr. Abbott of Chicago, in an address to the Missouri Bankers' Association in session in St. Louis, expressed the opinion that the bankers of the country should remove the mystery that has too long enveloped banking.

The day of mystery has passed. Railway presidents have discovered it. The public made up its mind to find out things about railways. Sometimes its surmises were worse than the facts. The leading railways of the country now maintain departments of publicity and the facts are no longer "doctored."

While there are many old-fashioned folks who are often annoyed by some of the aspects of the changed condition of affairs, the change as a whole will prove beneficial. There is nothing more healthful than light. No more significant dying words were ever uttered than those attributed to Goethe, when he wrote with his hand in the air: "Light, More Light!"

TROUBLES OF MR. FORD.

The fact that Mr. Ford is to gradually lay off factory hands until the number of 6000 will be without employment for a time has attracted several times as much attention as similar action by numerous employers of the country.

A Billion Bushels of Wheat.

Figures that can be made on the bases of the farm conditions exhibited in yesterday's government crop report read like a fairy tale. Never has the agricultural year made such a start in America.

That may look like immigration running riot, but if the present promise of winter wheat is born out and nature is as kind in the next few months as she has been so far this year, and the spring wheat does proportionately as well as the winter crop, this stupendous wheat yield of bright fancy will be sober fact.

Every figure in the May crop report told of unusually favorable auspices for agricultural effort. The condition of meadow and pasture lands at the beginning of the month was almost 3 per cent above the ten-year average.

An almost perfect crop of wheat is growing over 35,387,000 acres, which is fully 4,000,000 acres more than ever yielded a harvest. Assuming only average deterioration, the harvest of the winter wheat may be as much as 630,000,000 bushels. This would be 107,000,000 bushels in excess of last year's record yield.

A saloon man has explained how he can sell a certain kind of whiskey for 2 cents a drink. Now let some customer explain how he can drink it.

The other Wilson girl should not get discouraged and become a magazine editor. There is plenty of time for the fifteenth White House wedding between now and March 4, 1917.
