Editorial Snap Shots.

Doff your hat to the winning candidates.

It is reported that a young fellow on the way to the polls fell into the river and then voted "dry".

The "wets" have some comfort in the fact that they have until January 1916, in which to sober up and lay in supplies.

And the Bull Moose again went down to ignominious defeat. Will someone, please pray for the leader of that mushroom party.

The "drys" had a big advantage on election day. Who wouldn't vote dry when the rain persisted in pouring down and wouldn't let up?

Wouldn't that jar you. Only two of the measures passed. That shows that the people are about tired of that kind of legislation.

The people of Oregon seem to prefer a good politician to a good business man to represent them at Washington. But they made a bad mistake.

There is one good thing in future elections, the saloon vote will not "knife" Republican candidates. It is a good thing for the Republican party that the state went dry.

When a dentist can work our dual system of legislation for an advertising stunt it is not surprising that so few measures succeeded in getting through.

We wish to call the Deputy District Attorney's attention to the corrupt practices law. Mr. Hawkins is not the only sinner. The Portland printers are equally liable, and they should be prosecuted.

Surely U'Renism got a good trouncing on Tuesday. The people of Oregon are sick and tired of it. If ever a man met with a frost it was W. S. U'Ren. Well, he knows now what the people of Oregon think of his fallacies.

Isn't this funny! The snap shot man thought he was doing Russell Hawkins a favor when he declined to publish a letter which violated the corrupt practices act and would have made him liable for a damage suit as well, also the snap shot man. The latter did not propose to be made a "nut" of and allow F. L. Sappington to "come back" at him for violating the corrupt practices act and a damage suit for $10,000. But this is the funniest thing we have run across in a great while. Mr. Hawkins is now wanting the snap shot man arrested for violating the corrupt practices act. It came about in this way: Mr. Hawkins asked Mr. Sappington to answer numerous questions in a letter addressed to him which he did in a circular printed at the Headlight office. Because Mr. Hawkins for the port of Bay City, he contends that Mr. Sappington and the snap shot man also violated the corrupt practices act. Funny isn't it, when one candidate for office can flood the county with libelous matter and another candidate cannot answer it? If Mr. Hawkins has got into serious trouble it is his own fault. We kept him out of one trouble, anyway—and the snap shot man from being made a "nut" of.

Germany and Canada.

There is so much of futile discussion of topics unrelated to actualities or possibilities, that the flutter of talk about the German ambassador's saying that Germany now holds itself free to make a conquest of Canada need not, perhaps, be too severely criticized. We are reminded by it, however, of that juvenile story ending by the boy with the apple saying: "Dere ain't a goin' to be no core." The conquest of Canada by Germany is neither going to be made nor attempted, now or at any time. The German militarists have demonstrated that their system is one of the highest intelligence. We need nothing more to assure us that they would not, even were there an open ocean track, and their navy in position to convey a fleet of transport ships, with Canada an independent nationality, without any claim to British naval protection, undertake such a hopeless task. The silly question, "Is the kaiser mad?" which is not worth discussing now, would then have to be answered.

At the utmost, no transport fleet carrying men and supplies could land more than 200,000 men on Canadian shores. Once landed there, they would be 3000 miles from their base. Canada has now a population of at least 8,000,000. A large majority of these are males and the males of military age are of a peculiarly strong, virile, warlike type. Canada could put 2,000,000 fighting men against the 200,000, every one of whom, it is not too much to say, has been trained in the use of firearms from early youth. There would be such deadly "sniping" from 10,000 points that the sniping in Belgium by men and women hardly knowing how to pull a trigger would be forgotten. It would be such deadly sniping as was once done between Boston and Lexington, Mass. on two sides of an old bridge "where once the embattled farmers stood and fired the shot heard 'round the world." When a second army of 200,000 men could be got across sea they would be unable to find any trace of the first one.

Once a Roman emperor, when Rome was in the full flower of her warlike glory, sent a mighty army of highly trained legionaries against raw and untrained but undaunted Germans, waiting for them in the forest around Teutoburger. The result of that adventure is told in all histories of Rome, but nowhere else so well as by the Tacitus, saying that when the Roman emperor learned of the almost total destruction of his mighty force, he cried to his general: "Varus, Varus, give me back my legions." It would be strange if a German emperor could repeat such a mistake, as one certainly would do who would attempt the conquest of such a country as Canada, 3000 miles away, and two-thirds of the distance by water. Such a thing would be so strange that it will never happen. Nevertheless, there is much ponderous talking "about it and about," as Omar says.

The war has hit the trans-Atlantic passenger business hard. Europeans can not get away and Americans are glad to remain at home.

The report of the assistant secretary of the navy that we have plenty of battleships and guns without enough trained men to handle them would indicate that Uncle Sam is in the same predicament as the man who buys a piano but has nobody in the house to play it.

ASKING QUESTIONS.

Are the Timbermen in Favor of these Improvements next Year?

Russell Hawkins addressed a number of questions to two of the candidates for county commissioner. There is nothing wrong about that if the questions are not to boost one candidate and "knock" the others. But why select just two of the candidates for county commissioner and not propound the same things to other aspirants for commissioner? We will not take time at present to answer, but probably will refer to it later.

We think it is proper at this time to ask Mr. Hawkins some questions.

We are informed by representatives of the timber owners that they are not opposed to improvements in the county, provided the money is economically and carefully expended. We will accept this as gospel truth and believe they are sincere in this. Well and good.

1. Is Mr. Hawkins in favor of improving the Necanic Mountain road? As the timber interests pay 80 per cent of the taxes wouldn't this be a good way for the citizens who are interested in this proposed improvement to obtain it?

2. Is Mr. Hawkins in favor of the proposed road from Nehalem to Wheeler? As the timber interests pay 80 per cent of the taxes, wouldn't this be a good way for the citizens who are interested in this proposed improvement to obtain it?

3. Is Mr. Hawkins in favor of a road from Wheeler to Garibaldi, which is greatly needed during the summer months? As the timber interests pay 80 per cent of the taxes wouldn't this be a good way for the citizens who are interested in this proposed improvement to obtain it?

4. Is Mr. Hawkins in favor of a road to Bayocean, which the county court have neglected to build? As the timber interests pay 80 per cent of the taxes wouldn't this be a good way for the citizens who are interested in this proposed improvement to obtain it?

5. Is Mr. Hawkins in favor of a hard surfaced road to Fairview? As the timber interests pay 80 per cent of the taxes wouldn't this be a good way for the citizens who are interested in this proposed improvement to obtain it?

6. Is Mr. Hawkins in favor of the early completion of the road to Sandlake? As the timber interests pay 80 per cent of the taxes wouldn't this be a good way for the citizens who are interested in this proposed improvement to obtain it?

7. Is Mr. Hawkins in favor of the contemplated improvement of the road at Dolph? As the timber interests pay 80 per cent of the taxes wouldn't this be a good way for the citizens who are interested in this proposed improvement to obtain it?

8. Is Mr. Hawkins in favor of connecting Tillamook County with the Columbia Highway? As the timber interests pay 80 per cent of the taxes wouldn't this be a good way for the citizens who are interested in this proposed improvement to obtain it?

9. Is Mr. Hawkins in favor of bonding the county for $500,000 for a hard surfaced highway through the length of the county? It will not be long before every dairyman in the county will be driving autos and those who are now driving them want this kind of a road. As the timber interests pay 80 per cent of the taxes wouldn't this be a good way for the citizens who are interested in this proposed improvement to obtain it?

10. Is Mr. Hawkins in favor of a hard surfaced road from Three River to Cloverdale? As the timber interests pay 80 per cent of the taxes wouldn't this be a good way for the citizens who are interested in this proposed improvement to obtain it?

11. Is Mr. Hawkins in favor of a deep channel from Tillamook City to the Bay? As the timber interests pay 80 per cent of the taxes wouldn't this be a good way for the citizens who are interested in this proposed improvement to obtain it?

Did it ever occur to Mr. Hawkins that with a little effort each of these localities could be made to cooperate one with the other in bonding the county for a large sum of money to carry out these improvements next year? Anyway this is the way some of our citizens argue and talk. We are in favor of bonding the county, but we want to say this that now it is conclusively proven that the timber interests have taken such an active part in the politics of this county, we think we understand Tillamook people fairly well that will resent this at some future time and carry a big bond issue. All that it wants is a little systematic co-operation to carry it through, for the improvements we have mentioned are what the people want.

Searching for an Army.

The Internal Revenue Bureau announces that it has begun an active search for an army of 146,828 supposed income tax dodgers. The bureau does not profess to have any evidence as to the identity of these offenders. Nobody has given a list of their names. But the Bureau will be very active. They are hunting for every possible explanation of these irregularities and acting if there would have to be overwhelming proof gathered by private individuals before they would be warranted in taking steps to disclose by legal processes and correct the alleged irregularities. But the Internal Revenue Bureau is free to use its initiative. It will not rest supine until private individuals bring in proof that cannot be explained away. It is to hunt for proof itself.

Somebody estimated at the time the income tax was framed that there would be 425,000 taxable incomes, exclusive of those between $3000 and $4000. But the returns were much below the estimate. The tax itself for the first ten months was $17,000,000 less than had been expected. How the estimate was made is a secret. We remarked at the time it was announced that it was an uncertain guess. The love of display is so characteristic of Americans that it is easy to imagine that persons of really modest income are in the most affluent circumstances. This is especially true of salaries and the tendency to exaggerate is not confined to stagefolk. The habit vulgarly known as "four-flushing" is very general, even when persons are really wealthy their acquaintances wildly overestimate the extent of their possessions. There have been but a few large fortunes in our day which measured up in the Probate Court to general estimates. It is not surprising that the estimate of 8500 persons receiving an annual income of over $50,000 each was more than double the number of returns.

The income tax was fashioned so as to shut off possibilities of evasion. One of the features not criticised was its apparent assumption that all Americans are thieves. This was the whole story of the scheme of collecting at the source. This cumbersome system, throwing expense and risk on private corporations compulsorily made unpaid agents of the government, has not been justified by trial. Doubtless there have been many Americans who, in spite of the pains and penalties provided by the income tax law, have dodged payment. But it is inconceivable that there are 146,000 or anything like that number. Even if over one fourth of the wealthy population where thieves they would have used a different method. They would have made returns, but concealed a part of their income. There has been more wild guessing than this form of tax dodging.

The Range With A Reputation

Some of the Reasons Why

A Perfect Baker—absolutely dependable, every day, year in, year out. Built on honor, of the best materials.

Outwears Three Ordinary Ranges

The only range made entirely of charcoal and malleable iron. Malleable iron can't break—charcoal iron won't rust like steel.

Economical in Fuel

The seams of the Majestic are riveted (not put together with bolts and stove putty)—they will always remain air tight, because neither heat nor cold affects them. The Majestic even is lined throughout with pure asbestos board, which holds in place by an open iron grating—you can see it—and it stays there always. Air tight joints and pure asbestos lining assure an even baking heat, saving one-half the fuel.

All doors drop to form rigid shelves. No springs. Malleable iron oven racks slide out automatically, holding whatever they contain.

The Great MAJESTIC Charcoal and Malleable Iron RANGE

—has an copper reservoir which heats like a tea kettle, through a copper jacket stamped from one piece of copper, setting against left hand lining of fire box. It boils 15 gallons of water in a very few minutes and by turning a lever the frame and reservoir moves away from fire. An exclusive patented Majestic feature. Open end air pans drop away with shoveling ash—confined ash gets pavement floor from catching fire—each cap catches ashes.

Don't buy the range you expect to last a life time—"might, unseem," or you'll be sure to be disappointed. Come to our store, and see the Great Majestic—have its many exclusive features explained—find out why the Majestic is 300% stronger than all other ranges where most ranges are weakest. It is the best range at any price and it should be in your kitchen.
