That is a good idea, for the city needs something of that kind where the young men and women can get some physical exercise, especially during the long wet season when outdoor recreation is out of the question.

Bro. Trombley, the Democratic free trade rooster, is, no doubt, crowing early and late these days now that he sees Democratic policies being carried out, one of which was to reduce the cost of living. Tillamook cheese took another drop on Monday but, then, wasn't that what a large number of our citizens voted for when they put the free trade party into power? Of course it was. Not being content with Republican prosperity, they voted for a change and a change in the price of cheese also. And, surely, Bro. Trombley has good reason to feel happy now that he sees what he advocated being fulfilled.
