The Wheeler Reporter has been resurrected, with Arthur Hansen a' the helm. May it live long and prosper, for Wheeler is destined to be one of the best towns in the county at some future date.

One of our city attorneys did Fourth of July stunt on Sunday by taking a law partner. And he did not raise any technicalities nor did he demurrer to the proceedings, but promised to love, honor and obey his but law partner.

The toll road people in Yamhill county have threatened legal proceedings to stop the building of the Sour Grass road. Wouldn't that jar you. Of course, they are sparring for time, and resort to law to accomplish their purpose. But they won't be able to stop this progressive move on the part of the two counties, which means the first nail in the coffin of the toll gate at Dolph. It has taken years to eliminate toll roads in this part of Oregon, but they are doomed now.

We want to congratulate Fire Chief Coates and the Hose Company on its fine appearance, and its activ ity, and smartness. It is a volunteer ire company that any city the size of Tillamook might be proud of. It seems only a few years ago when the fire fighters had to pump the water from wells in the main street with a man killing engine and their other apparatus was just as crude. Well, it is a good improvement for whenever a fire occurs the boys give a good account of themselves.

Press courtesies have been somewhat over looked in this city, notwithstanding that people are exceedingly anxious to obtain notices in the newspapers of what is going to happen and what have happened, but they have not been in the habit of exending courtesies to the press. We mention this simply to show the difference between home people and those from the outside,, for the first thing that the latter does is to hunt up the newspapers and, if giving a concert or entertainment extend Mrs. Blowers, manager of the troupe, courtesies to the press.

Judge H. H. Belt says they can egislate him out of holding court in Tillamook County, but they can't egislate him out of coming over to erate a ity to rec

This warning is istics showing the excessive proporion of farmers' wives who grow dipy from sheer loneliness and humy from sheer loneliness and hum-irum existence, and for a while it ooks as though Geo. Washington idn't know what he was taiking bout when he said agriculture is the aost healthful pursuit of mankind. bout this time everybody gets all worked up in favor of a social center nd they meet for the purpose of deiding whether they will have roquet or Shakespeare, Post Office of May Pole, Just enough human cicles are bound to be present to quelch anything that has human apcal with the result that the boys and irls continue to buy one-way tickets o The Great White Way. Well, hings go along like this for quite while and everyone seems to be ournified when suddenly two or three acn with good red blood in their eins start a whirl-wind campaign and walk straight through all the Can'ts' of do-nothingism. The Fourth of July celebration is an instance. If you think that Messrs. Small, Lamar, and Kuster didn't have ai infuseed some high voltage enthusiasm into his community and dig their toes into the ground and tug, you've got inother guess coming. People who ought to know what they are talking about say it was one of the best elebrations ever held in Tillamook. When one considers the limited time and means at the disposal of the committee, it must be conceded that they have made every minute and penny work up to its full horse power Promptly at 9:30, Friday, as sched-lled, The Tillamook County Boosters ed on him and started to talk Snook Band started their fine assortment of music that lasted through the two days. There was a great deal of talk in this town a short time back that insurance rates were going sky-high because the firemen were about to disband. Well it didn't look very much that way when they came marching down the street like trained soldiers in their new uniforms and with their finely decorated hose carts. Messrs. Perkins, Ryan and Brodhead were judges of the best decorated hose carts and decided in favor of Company No. 1, Wm. Harris, Capt. Beginning at 11:00 a.m. the Tillamook County Booster's Band rendered selections in different parts of the city and were followed at 1:00 p.m. by the Blowers Troupe of Entertain-

Billy Jewel, one of the troupe, gave a number of rube and black face acts which were above the standard, but he made his best hit as an old Maid Suffragette. Miss Dollie Peltier gave some of the latest rag-time numbers and ballads. Mante Collins, Jr., furnished some comedy singing and monologue. M. Lee rendered some of the latest ballads. Much credit is due according to the committee, for her co-operation.

In the dry test by the hose companies, Company No. 2 won first prize and No. 1 second. In the hook and ladder race, No. 1 won first prize and No. 2, second prize. Henry ers and Henry Woolfe, judges. In the foot race for boys under 15 years of age, Roy Huett won first and Lucas, second prize. For the girls under 15, Miss Severance first and Miss Thayer second. The Booster's Band furnishing the music and many people took advantage of the occasion. It was on Saturday, however, that the people were really limbered up. If they had been called to judgment they couldn't have flocked in any thicker and every one seemed to fall in with the spirit of the day and was out for a jolly time. The Grand Parade started at 10 a.m. lead by marshals Myers and Fitzpatrick on horseback, who were followed by the Tillamook Booster's Band. Then followed in order named; Liberty Car a beautiful float with twenty flower girls; an auto in which rode the orator of the day Hon. Jno. L. Henderson and Messrs Botts and Lamb, a beautiful Odd Fellows' float with a trailer representing the Rebccca Lodge, designed by Mr. David O'Donnell; a beautifully decorated auto by C. I. Clough carrying 11 little girls known as Tillamook Rosebuds; a finely decorated car by Adolph Erickson; a float by Winters & Hill showing a model California bungalow which in workmanship and design was in a class by itself as a float; a clever and beautiful float by E. T. Haltom, in which the North and the South were represented by comrades Bristow and Ellison clasping hands, these two men having fought on op-posite sides in the Civil War; Dortha Daniels, rather poverty stricken in appearance and suggestive of appetite advertised the Ramsey "Good Eats"; Wealth of the Nation, youngsters made up as man and wife holding children; 25 boys carrying Chautauqua banners; the Redmen, two horses leading, a squaw on one and papooses on the other followed by the Redmen The mint makes it and under the in regalia. collowing out the diabolical plans of our friend Small, he proceeded to make it hot and uncomfortable fo some of our prominent citizens. The first gentleman he tackled was the Beet 1 rust better known as Morris Leach. Leach was attending strictly o his own business, as he always does, when this thing wound its tenacles around his neck and exhibiting two or three missing teeth beseeched nim to kiss it. For a moment Leach thought he was in a Harem. Leach says he felt just like a man going up in an express elevator for the first time. He got sick to his stomack and his nails turned purple and with mighty effort he fought it off and made for an alley. Frank Heyd, in the presence of his wife, came in for a little carressing and reminiscences of other days in the balmy South, when it had known him as a lover. Frank blushed to the tips of his hair and denied ever meeting her before, but she was insistent and Frank had a little purgatory all his own while his wife listened. Then there was our friend Haltom. Lamar lead it up to nim and scratched his head as a signal and the fireworks were off with sisses, usually Haltom shows quite a bit of back bone, but when she floppum talk he just naturally caved in and went down like a Turkish towel. Following such antics came the free for all 100 yard dash in which Alderman took first prize and Rice second. in the 200 yard race Rice took first and Kellow second. In the 100 yard Fire Department race, Rice took 1st prize and Smith second. The girls race, Vea first, Hughy second. Boy's race, Laughlin first, Leach second.

In the evening the crowds were simply jammed in on First Street for the tree dance. The committe had the pavement especially prepared and it was a revelation to the dancers. The music was furnished by the Tilla-mook County Boosters' Band and it was up to its usual high standard. After the dance had progressed about half an hour the Redmen in full regalia appeared on the scene with plood curdling yells and proceeded to make things move fast and furious. They showed their respect for the law by giving marshals Myers and Fitzpatrick a free ride together with several other prominent citizens.

After that they pulled off one of the stunts of their repertoire, namely, the snake dance from the Sioux and were about to scalp Erwin Harrison, when they discovered he didn't have any hair. After that they started in to dance and they soon had all the timid squaws' in the game. Their regailia lent much to the picturesqueness of the scene and they certainly deserve the name of the liveliest and cleverest bunch in town. The dance is some thing that ought to be repeated from time to time with the lodges given an opportunity to give drill work and other novelties. This is a matter worthy the consideration of the business men of Tillamook. The dance was as clean and well conducted as any could possibly be and in this connection special credit should be given officers Myers and Fitzpatrick. There are a number of other things in connection with this celebration that we would like to mention but our space is limited and we will be unable to review them. We can think of no more appropriate ending for this article, however, then a mention of the Drum and Fife Corps with its martial beat and its suggestion of those phanthom troops now over the great divide.--that Grand Army of the Republic whose ranks grow year by year pathetically thiner. It is for us to remember what a mockery our Fourth of July would have been without them and we recall the words of Robert Ingersoll with whom most of us probably disagree in many things but not for one moment when he said: "I have only one sentiment for soldiers, living and dead. Praise for the living, tears for the dead." Dies While Here Visiting.

Mrs. Shaver and her husband came to Meda a couple of weeks ago to be present at the celebration of her sister's golden wedding. A few days before the event she was taken seriously ill and the day that was to have been so happy was overshad-owed with the angel of death.
