

Uncle Silas Says.

The dog, is man's best animal friend. He is ready to go with his master anywhere, at any time, through anything, and counts his own life as nothing if he may but shield him from harm.

the world with feelings of self-satisfaction and contentment with his employment and possessing the necessary degree of self confidence, is yet wise enough to realize how little he really knows and how much there is to be learned.

No more remarkable inventions have been made during the last fifty years than the farming appliances which have taken the place of the sickle, the flail and the grubbing hoe.

A Year of War.

One year ago on Wednesday, July 28 was begun the war that has embroiled eleven nations, cost already $20,000,000,000, called to the field 19,000,000 soldiers, and caused the death of 900,000 men, with 4,000,000 wounded or missing.

The year's operation have not given much advantage to either side. Germany and Belgium, a portion of France, and a deal of Russian Poland.

Events appear to show that the statement of Great Britain and Russia were prepared to strike at Germany and that Germany averted the blow by striking first has little to substantiate it.

It is stated that Great Britain is giving 2,000 men—killed or wounded—and $15,000,000 a day to war; that France is losing more soldiers and $1,000,000 less a day; and that Germany, because of her desperate offensive operations is making greater sacrifice of soldiers, but because of her more economical management in the care and pay of her armies is conducting the war for something like $60,000,000 an hour—a saving of about $6,000,000 a day compared with Great Britain's financial expenditure.

While it does not appear that either side has gained much advantage in the year's fighting, it is generally conceded that Germany has astounded the world by the vigor of her offensive, the thoroughness of her preparation, and the wealth, extent, and size of her munitions. She has proved her self not only a military, but a warlike nation. From her equipment for destroying and killing, nothing that science could invent and industry manufacture has been omitted.

But it does not appear that her marvelous equipment, the result of years of military preparation, has done so much for Germany as she thought it would. It mowed a path for her through Belgium and France to the gates of Paris, but could not take her into the city; it has opened a way to Warsaw, but could not break a road through to Dunkirk and Calais.

The end of the first year of war sees little advantage to either side. Military critics say that the result of Germany's preparedness—her fine equipment and best men—has been in the field for the past twelve months and that the Allies are just beginning to get their armies in fighting condition. The second year of war, therefore, should show some decisive results for the great waste of money and awful slaughter of men.—Spectator.

Who Am I?

I am more powerful than the combined armies of the world. I have destroyed more men than all the wars of the world. I am more deadly than bullets, and I have wrecked more homes than the mightiest of sieges guns.

I steal, in the United States alone, over $300,000,000 each year. I spare no one, and I find my victims among the rich and poor alike; the young and the old, the strong and weak; widows and orphans know me.

I loom up to such proportions that I cast my shadows over every field of labor from the turning of the grindstone to the moving of every railroad train.

I massacre thousands upon thousands of wage-earners in a year. I lurk in unseen places, and do most of my work silently. You are warned against me, but you heed not. I am relentless. I am everywhere; in the home, on the streets, in the factory, at railroad crossings, and on the sea.

I bring sickness, degradation and death, and yet few seek to avoid me. I destroy, crush or maim; I give nothing but take all. I am your worst enemy. I am carelessness!

Tillamook Heads List.

For road expenditures in proportion to population Tillamook County needs the list of all Oregon counties, except such as have issued road bonds. Tillamook also has the highest per capita general tax levy in the state.

Table listing counties and their per capita expenditures for road bonds in 1914. Includes Columbia County ($24.35), Clatsop County (28.23), Jackson County (16.37), Hood River County (10.49), etc.

The ten counties whose road expenditures were from direct taxation rank as follows per capita road expenditures: Tillamook County $15.80, Curry County 14.85, Coos County 10.49, Crook County 10.06, Clackamas County 9.99, Washington County 8.49, Sherman County 7.52, Lincoln County 6.95, Lake County 6.75, Polk County 6.48.

The ten counties which rank the lowest for per capita road expenditures are: Yamhill County $.99, Baker County 1.99, Union County 2.56, Multnomah County 2.75, Wasco County 2.89, Morrow County 2.91, Malheur County 3.22, Josephine County 3.27, Gilliam County 3.84, Grant County 4.15.

An odd comparison of the whole comparison is that Yamhill County, which is the smallest per capita expenditure for roads, has some of the best roads in the state. Quite a contrast between Yamhill's expenditure of 99 cents per capita and the adjoining county of Tillamook, expenditure of $15.80 per capita.

It is apparent coast counties are forced by climatic and mountainous topography to spend more money than other regions to keep their roads in order. In these same counties, timber pays from 75 per cent to 90 per cent of the taxes, while in Yamhill—most of the taxes are paid by farmers.—Oregon Voter.

Growth of Death and Debt.

The Bureau of the Census has brought together into two volumes all the statistics pertaining to wealth, debt and taxation that have been issued in various bulletins the past year. The bureau estimates the total wealth of the United States in 1912, exclusive of Alaska and insular possessions at $187,739,000,000, showing an increase of 75 per cent in eight years. It is frankly an estimate, but the bureau believes that it is accurate as the previous estimate in 1904.

The annual shipment abroad of horses for several years past has been 28,000, average value $142, and the shipment of mules has been 5000, and valued at $150 each. During the ten months of the war the exportation of horses has reached the large figure, 215,759, valued at $47,783,848 or about $220 each, and 39,229 mules, valued at $7,783,041, or more than $190 a head.

The Hazards of Farming.

Farming has always been a hazardous business. Fire, and frost and flood; wind and hail and drought; blight and the hordes of insect enemies, have destroyed the crops since man began tilling the soil.

There is no starvation in the country and few cases of charity outside of the infirm and helpless. The problem of unemployment is not pressing, and we do not lie awake nights wondering if we can get the money to pay next month's rent.—Farm Life.

In time of peace prepare for war, for in time of war you'll have to; as Old England is laboriously doing. Says the Toledo Blade: "There must be some way to solve the high cost of living problem other than by eating goats."

Be careful of your goat's diet. The above named defendants are also notified that service of summons in this suit is ordered to be had upon each of said defendants by publication thereof pursuant to an order rendered and entered by the above entitled Court on the 21st day of June 1915, by which order the defendants

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a long time many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. A Freakish Storm.

And again Kansas is in the limelight with a new and strange mid-summer yarn. It is said that a Kansas tornado twisted up eight miles of wire fencing and after rolling it up into an immense ball, lightning finished the work by making it molten mass. This story is vouched for by the farmer who saw the whole proceeding. Since Kansas is dry there should be no reason for doubting the truth of this statement.
