GRAND JURY REPORT

Compliments County Officials and Recommends Addition to Court House.

The grand jury having completed its work on Wednesday, submitting a report to Judge Bagley. The report compliments the county officials and recommends that the county court levy a tax of half a mill to improve and make addition to the court house. The report is as follows:

We, the grand jury of the County of Tillamook hereby respectfully report that we have now concluded our duties and request that we be discharged from further service. We have examined into the condition and management of the public prisons of the county, and into the condition and management of the offices pertaining to the courts of justice in the county; and also into the condition and management of public records and buildings of the county, and we hereby certify that we have found the same to be in good order and the public records well kept; but would respectfully recommend to the Honorable County Court of Tillamook County, Oregon, as follows:

First, that the steam pipes in the basement of the county court house be covered with asbestos in order to conserve the heat generated by the furnace for heating the county court house; and

Second, that the County Court beginning with the county tax levy for the year 1915, levy one-half mill each year until sufficient taxes shall be raised to make a suitable addition to the said court house, for the reason that some of the offices of most importance therein are becoming crowded, and from present indications it will not be more than two years before the said offices shall be insufficient in size to do the work necessary done therein.

Judge Bagley dismissed the grand jury.
