THE TILLAMOOK HEADLIGHT.
Editorial Snap Shots.

We believe it. Under the present system, newspapers are a source of power and influence in political elections in Oregon.

The unemployed are having a hard time. They are compelling them to work for their grub. So the unemployed who don't want to work think this is hard treatment.

Say, have you sworn off yet? Only a little over a month when the state goes dry—with this satisfaction that "wet goods" can be shipped in. And that is what they call prohibition.

Job printing ink which sold for $2 a pound has jumped to $4.00 a pound. And during a Democratic administration that promised to reduce the cost of living. How about it Bro. Trombly.

Well, you don't have to ask some political boss if you can run for office. You can groom yourself, run your own political machine, and be your own political boss these days if you want office.

The city budget will make city taxes come high this year, which will be five mills above last year. But the worst feature about an increase in taxation, we are suffering with the usual Democratic blight.

After taxing the taxpayers so many years the tax is to be reduced this year for the water system. Well, wouldn't that jar you. Is it because the city can't tax booze any longer it has to reduce the tax on water?

We don't see why Bro. Trombly should be hobnobbing with Republicans who aspire to office, for he is running a Democratic, free trade newspaper and will of course support Democratic candidates and free trade.

The County Court, in, we believe, better qualified than anybody else to pass upon the amount of money needed for road work, and $175,000 is the amount decided upon. The County Court came to that decision without the assistance of an advisory committee and after devoting several days going over the budget.

We are going to advise our subscribers to trade with and patronize those who advertise in the home newspaper. These are business men who support their home newspaper, because the home newspaper is a booster for home merchants. Catch the idea? If so then trade with the business men who advertise in the Headlight.

Another person has been murdered and placed in a trunk in Portland. Some persons don't scruple at anything—as long as they can obtain filthy lucre. We feel glad we voted for the death penalty when we read what cold blooded murderers are doing to innocent and unprotected citizens. It was the peoples' vote that save such murderers from the gallows.

Some of the taxpayers of Douglas county are going to fight an appropriation of $2000 to enforce the prohibition law. It takes money to catch bootleggers, and if justices of the peace and circuit judges would impose a good heavy fine on this class of law breakers this should be a source of revenue and not an additional burden upon the taxpayers.

Let's hope that the next county budget meeting will be conducted properly and that a few individuals wont undertake to railroad matters to suit themselves. We have always contended that the meeting of taxpayers is for the purpose of discussing the different items in the budget, and it is then up to the County Court to change the items after listening to the discussion.

The fish cases at Nehalem petered out, to use a common expression, the guilty and those thought not to be guilty, all rejoicing that they had beat the state. We haven't much regard for our so-called fish laws. This is the prevailing opinion amongst a large proportion of our citizens. It takes money to prosecute these fish cases, and that helps to make taxes come high.

It did not take an expert to know what was going to happen at Bar View when the winter storms set in. For over twelve months the waves have been gradually encroaching at that point, and despite this inevitable fact, no precautions were made to build a bulkhead, which would have prevented the washing out of that part of the beach, caused by the building of the jetty.

Editor Piper of the Oregonian, in an address before the State Editorial Association, said that Oregon was a radical state on account of freak legislation. This is generally admitted.

but it is pleasant to observe that our citizens are getting over the jag they indulged in when the boosted freak, impractical and foolish idea. The so-called "reformers" have had their day in Oregon and the overworked taxpayers have to foot the bills because they listened to them.

After all, what is most beneficial to our citizens, is good roads. Taxes go for this and that and the other thing, but the money paid for good roads is the one thing that we all enjoy more or less. It was a hard, hard struggle the early settlers of this county had to go through, living in isolated places with but trails for roads. This accounts largely why our citizens are so much in favor of good roads and willing to tax themselves to obtain them.

So the appropriation for the Bayocean road lacks only a few thousand dollars of being enough to complete that road next year. With a large amount of work and money tied up in that road, it seems to us that some arrangements could be made whereby the Bayocean people can get a way out next year, for it is the only settled community in Tillamook which is deprived of a road, with taxes again raised on the property in that vicinity.

The voters are to be given an opportunity to say whether they approve or disapprove the Sunday closing law, for it will be submitted to a vote of the people at the next election. Wouldn't it be more sensible to submit a Sunday closing law that would be more in accord with present day requirements? We believe there should be a Sunday closing law but let its provisions be broad, and not narrow like the antiquated law just resurrected. It is going to be somewhat difficult to please everybody in framing a Sunday closing law, because some people are so radical and narrow minded that they want to make everybody see through their goggles.

We understand that it is the intention of the County Courts of Yamhill and Tillamook counties to finish the Sour Grass road as early as possible next year. This is a good move and will dispose of one unfinished project next year. The State Highway Commission appropriated $9,000 and with the addition of $7,000 each by the two counties, will macadamize the road and put in several bridges, and when finished the road will be in good shape for several years. Everybody should heartily approve of completing the road next year, for the Dolph hill and toll road were always detriments to Tillamook County. We want to congratulate the County Court and especially the people of Tillamook County in the early completion of this road improvement in the county.

The business men of Dallas have taken a sensible step in protecting themselves against bad credit, which the business men of this city should also follow. Quite frequently it is reported that persons who have resided here for a short time and who have no property interests, have suddenly taken their departure. That would not matter much if they had "paid up" before their departure, but it generally happens that most every business man in the city is "stung", owing to the fact that a person can get $50 to $100 credit in one store and the same amount in other stores. Probably Dallas business men have been "stung" so many times it is absolutely necessary to stop this repeated leakage. Another wise thing they have also decided upon, and that is to cut out advertising schemes and advertising fakers and only advertise in the home newspapers. That is a commendable move, for nobody is as loyal to their home town as the newspaper and the business men of every town should be equally as loyal to the home newspaper. We want our business men to take a tumble to themselves and protect themselves from bad credit and fake advertising schemes.

In making up the road budget there was a little difference of opinion as to the amount. After the County Court had carefully gone over what road work was necessary for next year, Judge Hare and Commissioner Owens came to the conclusion that it would take $175,000, but Commissioner McKimins did not want to make the amount more than $150,000. And this is how the money is to be divided: Road districts No. 1 and 3 are each to receive $50,000 and road district No. 2 $50,000, with the understanding that several miles of hard surface is to be paid for out of that amount. It seems to us there should be no trouble in the County Court coming to an unanimous opinion on the amount of the road fund, for if Commissioner McKimins will agree to take $20,000 less for road work in his district, then the figures can be brought down to where he has gone on record as recommending. There are quite a number of roads in district No. 2 which will have to be fixed next year, and the judge was as economical as possible in providing money to improve them, the heavy travel in the central part of the county having cut up the roads and they need repairing.

It is the peoples' own fault that taxation is on the increase. This assertion may surprise some of our citizens, but it is a fact, nevertheless, and it will not take long for us to prove it right here in Tillamook. We are all more or less familiar with what is called the Oregon System and the sovereign rule of the people. Under this new fangled legislation a law was passed confining work on the roads to eight hours, or, in other words, it was a law to make county courts pay the same wage for ten hours work. It is plain enough to see that when the people voted for this law they voted to increase their taxes, for it takes that much more money to build roads. A large number of the citizens of Tillamook County voted for this increase in taxation, and, no doubt, who are now complaining about taxation.

This was class legislation, backed by labor organizations, and it is plain to see by looking over the vote in this county that those who worked on roads were in favor of it and voted for the eight hour law. Another thing. It takes some experience in expending county funds, especially on road work. The people elect men to serve on the county court who have had little or no experience in road building. They do the best they know how, but in gaining experience they are bound to make some mistakes, which the taxpayers have to pay for. But after a few years in office and at the time when they have learned how to expend the road fund economically, the people clamor to "turn the rascals out". It was so at our last county election. The people elected all new, unexperienced men to look after the road work, and turned down one man who had the technical knowledge and experience in road building, and what mistakes the county court made this year was because of lack of that experience. Place three new men in the office of this newspaper who had had no experience, and, of course, they would make mistakes. The same thing applies to the County Court, and for that reason we have not one word of complaint to offer. But the point that we want to emphasize is that the people are responsible for the increase in taxation, and this brought about by the eight hour law and electing men to office who have not had experience in work they have to look after.

They Miss the Editor.

The editor of the Prison Mirror, published in the penitentiary of Minnesota, says: "Why it is that from the first inception of our paper up to the present time we have never had an editor to sojourn in our midst? Other professions have been well represented. Of preachers we have had enough to furnish subsistence to an African chief for a year; of doctors sufficient in number to depopulate a state; of lawyers, enough to establish a good sized colony in hades. But of editors—not one."

Psalm of War.

The War Lord is my shepherd; I shall always be in want. He maketh me to lie down in meek trenches; he leadeth me into chill waters. He harasseth my soul; he leadeth me into hellish camp for his fame's sake.

Yea, though I come unscathed from the shadow of death, I shall be no better off, for thou art still with me; thy tyranny and thy taxes discomfort me.

Thou preparest danger for me in the presence of so-called enemies; thou makest me useless toil; my cup runneth empty.

Surely evil and hatred will follow me all the days of my life, and I shall dwell in the army of the War Lord forever.—Ellis O. Jones, in Life.

We Qualify.

Our esteemed contemporary the Tillamook Headlight, took the wind out of our sails in its last boosting article, because the Courier stated that this end of the road work had not had its share of the road work in the past. All right, we will qualify that remark by stating that we have not had more than our share, with a hope that our esteemed contemporary will accept. However, as a matter of news, let us state that Mr. Farmer has not been the only commissioner this end of the county has ever had. There has been quite a few of them, all good men, and they, like Mr. Farmer, did the best they could with what they had to do with.

It would not be out of place to recall that on numerous occasions the Courier has complimented Mr. Farmer and other members of the County Court on the valuable improvements made in road work during their administration, especially the permanent location of roads, such as the tide land cut off, the change of road leading from the Condor bridge to Hebo, and the change of road at Hemlock, also the road improvement from Cloverdale to Hebo, which was started and completed during Mr. Farmer's administration.

A look at the Courier files will suffice to prove that it has boosted all road improvements under every commissioner that has held office, and what is more, it intends to keep on boosting until there will be no need for boosting for good roads.

And further, we don't want to be in this boosting business alone. We want everybody else to boost. Don't knock; boost. Join us and boost Tillamook County into the limelight as the greatest county in Oregon, for good roads and honored citizenship, and home prosperity.—Cloverdale Courier.

(We accept Bro. Taylor's statement and we want to say that he is not narrow or sectional in his views when it comes to road improvements. And we may add that as long as F. L. Owens holds down the job of county commissioner no one in the south end of the county need worry, for he is Johnny on the spot when it comes to looking after the interests of his end of the county. If he does not succeed in getting hold of some of the unexpended road money in other districts it won't be his fault.)

J. Leonard Replogel, who paid $15,000,000 for 20,000 shares of the Cambria Steel Company, entered the employ of that concern twenty-seven years ago in the capacity of water boy at $5 a week. He was the son of well to do parents when the great Johnstown flood swept the city in which he lived. Two of his immediate relatives lost their lives and all their property was destroyed. From water boy he rose in succession to clerk, shipper, assistant superintendent, assistant general manager, assistant to the president and on September 26, 1913, he was elected vice president. He resigned March 1 to enter the fight which he completely won by his purchase of the 20,000 shares of stock.

Kill Karc Klub.
 On November 18th was the gathering of the Kill Karc Klub at the home of Mrs. Olson, Mrs. Poorman assisting. The president, Mrs. Plank, was confined at home on account of illness, Mrs. Haberlach filling the chair.

There were fourteen members present, all responding with an interesting "current event." Papers were prepared by Mrs. W. A. Williams and Mrs. Emmett Bales on the subject, "How has America been influenced or what advantages derived from the art of other nations?"

The Klub voted to leave the vacancy open caused by the death of one of their beloved and respected members, Mrs. Christensen, until next September.

The hostesses proved their ability in the way of dainty cooking and we all did it ample justice.

Next meeting to be with Mrs. Mason at the home of Mrs. Plank.

Bids Wanted.

Bids will be received by School District No. 1 up to 10 o'clock a.m. on Saturday morning, November 27, 1915, for the erection of a play house. Plans and specifications can be seen at the office of the County School Superintendent. The School Board will furnish all the material on the ground, and reserves the right to accept or reject any or all bids.

The circulation of petitions in Nebraska for the placing of the name of Associate Justice Charles Hughes on the Republican ballot in the presidential primary is attracting much attention. It is intimated that avowed candidates for the presidency are back of this movement with the hope that it will force the justice formally to withdraw or attempt to withdraw his name from the ballot, a step which would be greatly to their advantage. But there is no necessity for making such an assumption. It is the opinion of many of the shrewdest observers that there is more sentiment for Hughes than for any other individual whose name has been connected with the Republican nomination next year. Some go so far as to say that there more sentiment for Hughes than for all others put together.

A recent cablegram to the New York Times from London says: "From an extremely well informed source it is learned that a definite move in the direction of peace by the central empires is in contemplation, if not actually in preparation. The agency by means of which Germany and her allies will seek to approach the entente powers has already been selected by Wilhelm Strasse, and though it cannot be definitely stated that the American government is the chosen instrument there are indications, according to the New York Times' correspondent's information that Berlin's eyes will be turned hopefully on Washington. If the preliminary negotiations should show that President Wilson's declared readiness to act would be nullified or restricted by the conviction, arrived at on data available, that this mediation was unlikely to be acceptable to one section of the warring powers, it is probable that recourse will be had to the pope. My informant who makes this prediction, has recently been in Germany where, as an official holding a high position in a neutral country, he had good opportunities of gauging the views of leading men."

A Tariff for "revenue and Free-Trade junk" is what the Cedar Rapids Leader calls the Underwood law, and that is what it is.

Printing Point Does Not Bob Up and Down

In an L. C. Smith & Bros. Typewriter the point on the paper which is to receive the type impression is stationary at the instant the type hits. The carriage does not bob up and down when the shift is made to write capitals.

Why?
 Because the type is shifted—not the carriage.

The only movement of the carriage is back and forth on its closely adjusted ball bearing runways—and this does not take place while the print is being made. There is no lifting of the carriage.

This is one reason why L. C. Smith & Bros. typewriting is free from blurs and every letter in the right place.
