

A TEMPERANCE DRINK.

To be Manufactured by the Weinhard Co. and Sold in Tillamook.

Rather than close down their great plant at Portland, the Weinhard Co. have retained their men and are manufacturing a new temperance drink in strict conformance with the Oregon prohibition law.

Golden and Amber Nectar is made of Oregon Hops and barley and contains vital strength-giving qualities which will make it a favorite throughout the state.

Mr. Wessinger is determined in his effort to prevent any violation of the law in the sale of Golden and Amber Nectar. He requires a cash bond of $250 which is subject to forfeit if any dealer is guilty of selling intoxicating liquors under the guise of this new temperance drink.

"Here's one bit of proof of our policy regarding this new drink," said Mr. Wessinger, in talking with a reporter the other day. It was a letter written to a man in Madras, Ore.

"We are frank to state," continues Mr. Wessinger in this letter, "that we do not desire, even in the remotest way, to offend any public official or to do anything contrary to law but as explained before, the people when voting on the question, certainly voted only on intoxicating malt and intoxicating vinous liquors.

Twenty-Cent Gasoline and Monopoly.

It is none too soon that the government at Washington has started an investigation into the high price of gasoline with a view to forcing concessions. The public will not be overconfident of the success of the attempt, in view of the fact that the trail leads directly to the camp of the Standard Oil Company, but it is an attempt which should be made anyhow.

Nobody honestly believes that the price now being charged for gasoline is warranted by market conditions. Of course, the manipulators are very careful to attribute the price to "decreasing production of crude petroleum and the increased demand for gasoline for export to Europe."

The story of the country's oil output has been one of the steadily progressive maxima for a period of ten years. In 1911, 1912 and 1913 the production was so enormous that curtailment instead of increase has been the watchword of the controlling magnates ever since.

Germany Withholds Dyes.

In appealing to Secretary Lansing to use his best endeavors to persuade Great Britain and Germany to permit the export of dyestuffs to the United States, the National Clothiers' Association seems to overlook the efforts already made in that direction and the cause of their failure.

land. The fault is not that of Great Britain, unless its attitude toward shipment of cotton to neutral points with Germany as the ultimate destination be construed as a justification for Germany's position.

Germany has a right to lay a conditional embargo on dyestuffs, but the condition is not regarded as reasonable by the American State Department. There is little prospect with compliance of it. Whether Germany will adhere to its position is a question. So far as immediate results are concerned, the lifting of the embargo would profit Germany little.

Money Needed for Horse Breeding.

The Russian government had an appropriation for horse breeding in 1914 amounting more than $4,000,000, the year amounting a million dollars more from its private purse, while the appropriation for the same work in the United States during the same period was cut from the original appropriation of $30,000 to $30,000.

"We find a desire to patronize our horses growing constantly, but unfortunately we are hampered by the lack of sufficient money to go on with it in the way its importance demands. It is a work that would make a big showing in a year or two, and it is a project which calls for much thought.

"We have endeavored always to place the horses in districts where there was the greatest need for improving the general purpose horse," continued Mr. Bell. "In every instance I think, we have accomplished our object, and we have had to limit the season of the thoroughbred Octagon and the trotter Richard Jay, 2:13 1/4, so great in the desire to patronize sirs of their splendid type."

"Sin Killer" Griffin's Faith.

A colored evangelist, famous as long as a quarter of a century ago, because of his declaration that he was brave and able enough to fight sin at close quarters and "killit every time" is resurrected from what has long seemed to be a growing obscurity through a demonstration of his faith by his works.

"Sin Killer" Griffin has been conducting a revival at Hot Springs, a place which has often figured in newspaper reports as one given over to many of the frivolities of life. Last Sunday a number of colored converts were to be baptized in the big lake party Whittington Park. When the foot alligator, which had escaped from the government collection in the park, showed himself on the face of the waters, and headed a course toward the evangelist and the converted one entering the water with him.

"Sin Killer" Griffin's faith, courage and promise were being put to a supreme test. It affords us pleasure to say he met the test nobly. Crying out to some men and boys in the crowd to attack the alligator with stones and clubs, he led the meeting in prayer and afterward in a song before the end of which the great reptile had turned tail and was swimming rapidly toward the opposite shore. There was fear and trepidation that he would come back among the converted who were to be baptized and their friends.

Old Saws Autoized.

The auto's the thing. A tire saved is a tire bought. Gasoline makes the auto go. Oil in time keeps the engine fine. While there's gasoline there's hope. Be careful and you'll never be pinched.

It's a long stretch of sand that has no end. An autoist is judged by the company he rides. Unto each machine some accident must befall.

All the world loves the owner of a new model. A four cylinder car may look at a twelve.

Trust in the Lord and keep your tail light burning. A car in the garage is worth two on the sales floor.

You never miss the gasoline till the tank runs dry. He who rides in the rear seat cannot choose the way.

Out of the fullness of his gasoline tank the good tourist lendeth. In the spring a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of a new model.

Let thy muffler remain closed, for the muffler oft proclaims the man. Speed and the world speeds with you, slow down and you slow down alone.

All machines that glisten are not gold, but if they glisten you may be sure they don't need painting. Seest thou a man diligent in his driving he shall get to the next town, he shall not tarry long on the road.

Democrats and Merit System.

Although the Democratic national platform declared in favor of the honest and rigid enforcement of the civil service law, to the end that merit and ability should be the standard of appointment and promotion, rather than service rendered to a political party, nobody familiar with Democratic traditions and tendencies took it very seriously.

"I strengthen him with the party," Although the presidents a former vice-president of the national association, for extending and protecting the civil service, was pledged by his record as well as by his platform to the policy, he signed acts which limited instead of expanding it. None of the employees provided by the new currency act were put under the civil service. The deputy collectors of internal revenue and the deputy United States Marshals were taken from under it.

Men of proven efficiency have been demoted, to permit promotion of others. Sometimes these demotions were so great that the incumbents, either as a matter of self respect or from sheer necessity, retired from the service. After a postal employe has worked his way to a good position and has incurred obligations and adopted a standard of living in keeping with his income, it works a great hardship when he is demoted. When this is arbitrarily done it is a gross injustice to the employe and a flagrant disregard for the public service.

The Origin of Bashfulness.

Bashfulness, says a magazine writer is a distinct form of selfishness. That is, perhaps a good way to put it, for if bashful people could be made to believe it they would be cured. So it is well to urge bashful folk to think of others and make companions of the neglected ones in a throng.

But bashfulness is not selfishness. It is in part at least, love of good opinion of others and fear that one will not so bear one's self as to gain it. It is lack of confidence in one's powers, a distrust in one's ability to do the things expected. It is undervaluation of one's self and over estimation of others. That is very far from selfishness; in fact, it is very opposite to the selfish.

Tariffs and Cost of Living.

If Senator Gore of Okla. will again poll the delegates to the Baltimore convention, as he did when asking each if he knew what he was about in voting that plank in the platform favoring the exemption from tolls of American ships in coastwise trade using the Panama Canal, he might again get negative assurances from a large majority. The present opportunity presents itself as one result of official figures now available, showing the cost of living during 1914, the first full calendar year under the present tariff law.

The demonstration now at hand proves either that trusts are not dependent upon high tariffs or that high prices are not dependent upon either trusts or tariffs. In every line of household necessities, food, clothing, fuel, light, lumber and building materials, and house furnishing goods, prices are higher than any one of the four years of Taft's administration, specifically arranged in the Baltimore platform. Records of 1914 prices, now set out in the Bureau of Labor Statistics in its annual bulletin, and covering a period of fifty years, show them to have broken the records of high prices, in most lines, during most of the half century preceding.

We have never, at any time, needed this demonstration to convince us that the Baltimore platform makers did not know what they were about in adopting these resounding resolutions touching protection, trusts and prices. That the people of the same mind is indicated in the million and quarter majority of Taft and Roosevelt under Wilson. The demonstration is now so complete that we entertain a hope that, if Senator Gore will make another poll of the Baltimore delegates, a majority of them, anxious to save their faces, and having now formed the habit, may be willing to admit that they voted for these two planks without knowing how.

Leap Year Science.

At the Scientists' meeting last week Dr. Kittenhouse, president of the New York Life Extension Institute, said, the presence of 17,000,000 unmarried men and women is an evidence of mental and physical decline. It is hoped this scientific utterance will not have any depressing effect upon the anticipations of the fair sex, upon this advent of leap year, but will inspire them to extra efforts to rescue the men from their decline. Such an effort would go far to disengage them from the sorry fate imposed to them by this scientific authority.

As to the men, we are justified in the conclusion that the decline is rather mental than physical, and is exhibited in the fact of a prevalent idea that celibacy is itself a noble destiny, to offset which the unmarried men should recognize tenders of the heart, when they come in the form of blushes and smiles that are the more tempting offers of marriage because they are inspired by modesty and gentility. Don't care what the scientists say. The men are all right, but they are simply deficient in the understanding of their golden opportunities.

The man who bought a fur overcoat may yet have a chance; he ought to take it to Pasadena, Cal., where it snowed last week for the first time in ten years.

No matter how entertaining "company" may be, you have to hear mostly bromides; nay, you perpetrate them yourself.

"Save your money;" and, wherefore? Why, so you can spend it in larger lumps.

When the wine is in, the wit is out; though in occasional instances, it is the wine that brings it out.

ALL TIRED OUT.

Tired all the time; Worn and worn out night and day; Back aches; head aches; Your kidneys are probably weakened.

You should help them at their work. Let one who knows tell you how. Mrs. Lydia Pearson, 1017 Third St., McMinnville, Ore., says: "Pain in my back bothered me a great deal. I had headaches and often felt tired. I tried a number of medicines but nothing seemed to give me much relief. After taking Doan's Kidney Pills a short time, I was entirely free from kidney disease. The backache and other troubles left me." (Statement given Aug. 28, 1907).

THE NEWEST REMEDY FOR Backache, Rheumatism and Dropsy.

Kidney, Bladder and Uric Acid troubles bring misery to many. When the kidneys are weak or diseased, these natural filters do not cleanse the blood sufficiently, and the poisons are carried to all parts of the body. There follow depression, aches and pains, heaviness, drowsiness, irritability, headaches, chilliness and rheumatism. In some people there are sharp pains in the back and loins, distressing bladder disorders and sometimes obstinate dropsy. The uric acid sometimes forms into gravel or kidney stones. When the uric acid affects the muscles and joints, it causes numbness, rheumatism, gout or sciatica. This is the time to try "Anurie."

During digestion uric acid is absorbed into the system from meat eaten, and even from some vegetables. The poor kidneys get tired and backache begins. This is a good time to take "Anurie," the new discovery of Dr. Pierce for Kidney trouble and Backache. Neglected kidney trouble is responsible for many deaths, and Insurance Company examining doctors always test the water of an applicant before a policy will be issued. Have you ever set aside a bottle of water for twenty-four hours? A heavy sediment or scumming sometimes indicates kidney trouble. The true nature and character of diseases, especially those of the kidneys and urinary organs, can often be determined by a careful chemical analysis and microscopic examination—this is done by expert chemists of the Medical Staff of the Invalids' Hotel. If you wish to know your condition send a sample of your water to Doctor Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., and describe your symptoms. It will be examined without any expense to you, and Doctor Pierce or his Staff of Assisting Physicians will inform you truthfully.
