Tale of the Dollar Bill.

A farmer went to town to spend Some of hard earned dough, And in a merry jest, and just To show his printing skill,

He printed his initial on A brand new dollar bill. He spent that dollar that same day, Down at the village store,

He thought 'twas gone forever then And he'd see it no more; But long before the year rolled by

One day he went to fill A neighbor's order, and received That same one dollar bill. Once more he spent that dollar bill

In his own neighborhood, Where it would do himself and friend The most amount of good.

Four times in two days it came back As some bad pennies will, And each time he'd go out and spend This marked one dollar bill. Had he been wise that dollar might.

Be in his town today, But just two years ago He sent far away. The people who received it then I know have got it still,

For 'twas a mail order house He sent his dollar bill. No more will that marked dollar Come into the farmer's hands, And nevermore will help to pay

The taxes on his lands. He put it where it never can, Its work of life fulfill, He brought about a living death Of that one dollar bill.

Mr. Clark and the Stamp Tax.

Before the holidays the Democrats of both houses of Congress extended the so-called war tax for another year. The Republicans were willing to extend it from three months to six months and offered amendments to that effect. But, without assigning any reasons for the year's extension, the Democrats insisted upon it, while at the same time admitting that a new measure for raising additional revenue would be submitted later in the session. In view of this, many will be surprised at Speaker Clark's announcement that he will work for the repeal of the stamp tax and also opposes the stamp on checks that the president and Mr. McAdoo have suggested. Mr. Clark calls such "onerous, vexatious and harassing methods of taxation" inadvisable. He is speaking politically, as was Senator Tillman some time ago, when he said that banqueted their husbands at the Guilo every time a man wrote a check he Hall on Fcb. 4. A table was spread would "cuss the Democratic admin-which reached from one end of the istration." Both gentlemen realize not then openly object to the kind of tax. He confided to a constituent his real reasons in a letter published at the time in the Globe Democrat. He said that it should have been postponed until after the November election. It is possible that the speaker bears in mind the approach of another election, one or more vital conse-quence to the Democrats than that of 1914. The present tax is unquestionably unpopular. Mr. Mondell recent's ridiculed the spectacle of Uncle Sam begging pennies at the telephone booths and exacting tribute from the school girls on their chewing gum. The stamp tax on notes has come in for special criticism. One disgusted citizen says: "The Democratic administration has busted me and now soaks me when I try to borrow money with which to pay my debts." The problem of raising revenue without alienating voters is a big one. The administration may finally con-clude to get the bulk of it by increasing the surtax on large incomes. That would not cost many votes.
