

TILLAMOOK COUNTY AGRICULTURAL NOTES.

By Roy C. Jones, County Agriculturist.

Drainage.

About a year ago the Krebs Bros., proprietors of the Tillamook Clay works, were much discouraged at the way their tile were moving. The demand was altogether too light to make the business pay. Last week they reported that they were nearly sold out and having difficulty in keeping up with orders.

This indicates progress toward the betterment of Tillamook County. There are some 6000 acres in the county that can be improved and their productive capacity increased from 25 to 100 per cent by the use of tile drains that will cost much less than they will add to the value of the land.

Mr. B. L. Beals is putting another 20 acres under tile. Last year he took 115 tons of hay from 30 acres, drained a year ago. This land was previously too wet to make good meadow. These figures offer a basis for meditation upon the subject of whether it pays to drain land or not in Tillamook county. There is no question about it in this case. The acre cost was approximately $20. The same results may be expected from 600 other acres in the same drainage district. Mr. Carl Hunt and George Williams are also putting in considerable tile this spring.

O. A. C. Drainage Expert Here.

J. E. Larson, soils and drainage specialist of the Oregon Agricultural College, Extension service, is here for a stay of about two weeks. We are now working on the plans for the drainage of the lands between Cloverdale and Woods on the south side of the Nestucca river. We will also give aid, so far as possible, to individuals who are interested in putting in private systems. Mr. Larson says he has found many instances in the state where much money has been wasted by improper planning and laying of tile drains.

Those in position to benefit by Mr. Larson's stay in the county can call me up by either phone and we will arrange to give help to all those that time will allow.

Prairie Soils.

Anything that will throw any light upon the question of what will make our black prairie soils as productive as they look like they should be, is not only of interest but is of some thousands of dollars worth of value to the county. Chemical analysis shows that these soils are very acid and lacking in some of the important plant food elements.

Last year pot tests were made supplying lime and the various plant food elements, with very good results in some instances. These tests will be repeated this year and will be tried out on a larger scale on the County Fair Grounds. We hope, by the end of the season, to be able to give a practical solution for the prairie soil problem.

Change in Office Arrangement.

Up to the present field work has demanded the attention of the County Agriculturist to such an extent that it has been impossible to keep the office open more than one day during the week. We have been unable to answer correspondence as promptly as it should be done, too few articles of interest and information to the people, our State library books have not been accessible to the people, except on the one day. We believe that this part of the work is important and have arranged to have the office open during the forenoon of each day of the week as well as on Saturday beginning Monday, April 24th. Watch this column in the paper for all items of interest regarding agriculture in the county.

Dr. DeBusk Speaks at the City Hall.

Dr. DeBusk of the University of Oregon visited the Tillamook schools Friday and spoke at Garibaldi Friday evening. Saturday he spoke before a Principal's Club Meeting at Bay City. Both meetings were well attended. Saturday night he spoke at the City Hall under the auspices of the Parent Teacher's Association. The attendance at this meeting was not large. Dr. DeBusk's subject was "The Hygiene of the Child." He spoke particularly of the factors which help the growth of the child and outlined tests and remedies which could be applied. Among other things he pointed out that nearly all of the maladies of later life have their beginning very early in life. "There is scarcely a thing," he said, "in mental diseases which one cannot trace to below the fifth or sixth year. Improper feeding leads to many diseases as well as interferences with growth and mental development. Malnutrition means not only a lack of sufficient quantity of food but the wrong kind of food or harmful food. Many a child is ruined in later life by being allowed to drink coffee in infancy, for instance."

He then went on to advocate the establishing of school lunches, pointing out that in other countries this is a universal practice and that many of the schools of this country are establishing the hot lunch for all children who cannot go home at noon. The children pay from five to ten cents for a hot lunch of ample size and nourishing quality. In many schools this is served in connection with the Domestic Science Department assisted by the Parent Teachers Association. Some schools have cut the cost of this as low as four cents a pupil. "Children should have plenty of exercise," he said, "and at regular intervals. Frequent recesses or opportunities to move about and relax the muscles are as essential for good work and healthy growth as good warm food." He also decries the practice of letting children go to school with wet feet and insufficient clothing, pointing out that both of these cause a heavy drain of energy to keep the body warm which otherwise could be expended on growth and mental work. "The majority of children," he said, "who are retarded or are unruly in school have as a cause of these characteristics some physical ailment which can be corrected and when it is corrected will again be normal in their progress and conduct. Among these causes he mentioned eye-strain, adnoids and other causes of an insufficient supply of air to the lungs, defective hearing and malnutrition through lack of sufficient food or digestive ailments. Parents frequently do not realize what is the matter with the child or if they do realize, do not have the trouble corrected. "In the course of time," he said, "we shall have what many of the European countries have now, a regular health service which cares for the health of the children in the same way in which we now care for their education."

For Circuit Judge of the Nineteenth Judicial District.

W. H. Hollis.

I am a candidate for nomination to the office of Circuit Judge, of the Nineteenth Judicial District, composed of Tillamook and Washington Counties, subject to the Republican primary election to be held May 19th, 1916.

I am a resident of Forest Grove, in said Washington County, and have been an attorney for thirty years, am admitted to practice in all the courts of this state and the Federal Courts of the United States for the district of Oregon.

I have been a lifelong Republican, but in the discharge of public duties have always held the interest of the people above that of party or politics, and that the judiciary should never be swayed by partisan influence or party prejudice.

I have ever constantly stood for rigid economy in the expenditure of the peoples' money. The burden of taxation is increasing out of all proportion to the benefits received, increased wealth or ability to pay. If nominated and elected I will administer for the business of the Court of this district justly, promptly, and with the least possible expense to the taxpayers.

Less litigation; less expense; less delay and more justice shall be my aim. Your support is respectfully solicited.

W. H. Hollis.

We would like to ask some of these adepted individuals who want the Tariff taken out of politics to define the word as applied to this country.

"To get the maximum service out of a fence, it is absolutely necessary that it should be well built," says Department of Agriculture bulletin 321. That means that the Underwood "Tariff-for-less-than-revenue" fence must be torn down and a rugged Republican protective tariff fence must take its place.
