THE TILLAMOOK HEADLIGHT.

Editorial Snap Shots.

"Vote 'er straight." That is the Republican slogan for the G. O. P.

Preparedness in Tillamook county is getting ready for the rainy season.

Just make a mental calculation, Bro. Trombley, of the large number of business and professional men in this city who are supporting Hughes and the few who are supporting Wilson.

The Nehalem Times headed a summons with this caption "Surprise party." And it happened to be a divorce case.

The Democratic party in its platform four years ago promised to reduce the cost of living.

The bogus eight hour law that Wilson insisted on putting through Congress is acting as a boomerang to the Democrats.

Every person who votes for Wilson next month will be a free trade Democrat, for that is the policy of the Democratic party.

Speaking of fire patrol roads to protect timber from fire, wouldn't it look silly to have to travel 18 miles via Netarts to go to a forest fire on the bay side.

Two Zeppelins came to grief when making a raid on England, but before doing so 30 persons were killed and 116 wounded.

Our prohibition friends, when the dry bill was introduced stated that it was to rid Oregon of saloons, which was a good thing, but quite a number of the "wets" predicted that it would not be long before they would endeavor to prohibit the importation of liquor into the state.

If Bro. Trombley is such a pious Democrat, why was he boosting for a Republican candidate for circuit judge and not the Democratic aspirant at the primary election?

Simon Benson gave the cement trust a hard dig last week when discussing hard surfacing problems.

The question of enlarging the Port of Tillamook is a matter that the citizens of the central part of the county should consider from every standpoint and without prejudice.

of everybody to get together and solve the problem. If Grays Harbor country can get hay laid down from California at $1.50 a ton, then it seems to us that an effort should be made so that the dairymen can obtain feed at reasonable rates.

Bruce Bliven, professor of journalism at the University of California, says: "Unless the print paper situation is relieved before long, half the country papers in the United States will have to suspend publication temporarily at least." He then made a good suggestion when he said: "There is no good reason why newspaper publishers should not have co-operative buying organizations, purchase in big quantities and distribute to their members as the paper is needed. For that matter, there is no good reason why they should not get together and build their own mills, buy their own timber and make their own paper."

Hugo Effenberger was in the city last week and asked the snap shot man how he liked money from this district being used to benefit Dist. No. 3. The snap shot man is not a stickler where or in which district the money is expended in, what we object to is discrimination against one section of the county for the benefit of another.

The County Court went over the proposed Bayocean road via Netarts on Wednesday. To connect the road at Netarts with Bayocean will require seven miles of new road to be built, five miles of which would be heavy construction over a mountain 500 feet high, with some heavy grades and through timber, which would make the road costly and hard to maintain, especially in winter.

Every once in a while we have to discuss the bonding question with some of our citizens who favor bonding the county for hard surfaced roads. There may be some good points in the arguments advanced in its favor, yet for all that it seems to us that, owing to the unsettled state of affairs, this is no time to plunge the county into a bonded indebtedness.

Those who want to quibble over silly sentimentalism because the snap shot man published the information that one of the candidates for circuit attorney had a prison record, had better consider the matter a little more, for a week or more before we did so it was common gossip and people were peddling it around.

Simon Benson gave the cement trust a hard dig last week when discussing hard surfacing problems. He said "The thing to consider is to get the best for the money but don't leave the decision to a paving promoter." But listen to this "Some day we hope to see the paving trust busted and then we will cease to pay $2.40 per barrel for cement when the average selling price in the United States is 84 cents a barrel."

The question of enlarging the Port of Tillamook is a matter that the citizens of the central part of the county should consider from every standpoint and without prejudice. The feed problem last winter was a serious matter with those who had to buy feed at big prices, and if some plan can be arrived at whereby this can be greatly reduced, it is the duty of unchristian act in informing the people of Tillamook county of the past record of a person who was a candidate for the important office of prosecuting attorney. That is a matter of opinion. The snap shot man believed that the people of the county had a perfect right to be informed, and it was the duty of the press to do so, and for that reason the snap shot man does not fear criticism.

"The other day, the Times is informed, the road crew near the Eason place took an hour or more off in order to have their pictures taken. Was the crew docked for this time off or did time go straight on and the county pay for those photos? If so, let's all go to work for the county so we can have our pictures taken."

We want to impress upon the Republicans of Tillamook County the importance of working for and casting their ballots for every candidate on the Republican ticket. It is the privilege of everybody to affiliate with the party of their choice, but it looks exceedingly inconsistent for anyone to register as a Republican and then favor the election of a Democratic president.

The Cost of Preparedness. It is estimated that the mobilization of the national guard on the Texas border and the preparations for national defense in connection therewith, has cost the government about $15,000,000 a month since the movement caused by the raid on the little town of Columbus began.

Before the raid of bandits on our southern border aroused the people to a sense of their national weakness and the need of putting their house in order the United States had but the skeleton of an army, with no dependable reserve, and only grossly inadequate equipment for even the skeleton. When suggestions were made of a possible menace from any direction there was the smug, self-satisfied reliance on American spirit and patriotism that needed only a call to arms to make it immediately effective against any odds.

The United States is not any more warlike than it was before, it is not any less appreciative of the blessings of peace or any more inclined to military, but it recognizes its obligations to itself and to humanity and its responsibilities to one of the world's great powers and it has done those things which were necessary to be done to strengthen its self-reliance

Isn't this funny. The Nehalem Times says the snap shot man did an
