When you buy at home, or patron ize a local professional man, your money remains in the home town and will come back to you in one way or another. When you send away a dol-lar, it is gone forever and it builds up another locality at your expense,-News Reporter.

Among the voluminous mail received at Governor Withycombe's office are, of course, some amusing communications. Below is the text of a complaint received from a citizen who was "Fatally injured," "What is the matter with the State Accident Commission? I received a fatal in-jury by losing two teeth and they don't want to pay for loss of them. What I want is the teeth put back."

The Reporter recently sent out a number of letters to leading men and officials throughout Northwestern Oregon, asking for opinions and plans looking toward the completion of the Tillamook loop of the Pacific Highway as a hard surface throughfare. A large number of answers have been received showing deep interest in this road and offring plans and the heartiest co-operation for the comple tion of the work on this great high-way. These letters will be published in their entirety in early issues of this paper.—Wheeler Reporter.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon spoiled a per-fectly new 15-cent cigar when asked by a reporter of a New York paper why he voted for the Adamson bill.

"Why, damn it all," said he, as he bit a full third of the Havana and then spat it out, "if I had anything at all to say to your paper I'd say-The veteran statesman paused, pon-dered and another third of the cigar was bitten off and spat upon the ground; "If I had anything at all to say," he continued, "I'd say tell your paper to--- " and the statesman used a big bad swear word .- Oregon Register.

In our young days we are usually burning up with military ardor, says the Iowa Buckeye. We feel that it would be grand to go forth and if accessary die for our country. And as we grow into the years we begin to put an ever increasing value upor life, and we have not the faintest desire to kill other people, and an evergrowing disinclination to give up our own lives. If no soldiers were permitted to go to the front under forty years of age, there would be little fighting, and the casualties would be very small .- Forest Grove News Times.

Somebody has wisely written: "Every man should have a graveyard of his own. In it he should bury all of his mean thoughts, his hatreds, his animosities, and evil aspirations; and bury them deep, so that there can be no resurrection. If you hear a bit of malicious gossip-bury it deep. If you have been nursing a feeling of hatred toward somebody for years-then bury it. And when you have finally filled your graveyard with the worst that was in you, you will find the world, and all that goes to make it, a much better place than ever be-ness is so closely drawn that the public in its haste often criticises the newspaper for not boosting some person's enterprise which is conducted for gain. The newspaper's adver-tising columns are its stock in trade. It cannot any more be given away promiscuously than a merchant can afford to give his goods to the public. In fact, advertising is the only source of revenue a country newspaper has. Its subscriptions would not pay run-ning expenses,-Polk County Itemizer.

The increased cost of milk would be a good thing for the country if it should lead people to keep goats. For some reason goat's milk has never been popular in America, although in Europe, especially in France, Italy, and Switzerland, it is much esteemed, particularly for babies. A goat can be kept at small expense where it would be impossible to keep a cow. Garden waste and roadside browse will support it. A small shed affords sufficient shelter. A goat is far cleaner in its habits than a cow, and requires only such care as a child can give it. Let us get goats.-Cloverdale Courier.

There are very few men who do not speak to their acquaintances as they pass them on the street. How silly it is to let some silly little difference in business or civic affairs fill a man up with hate. God pity the man who engenders hate in his heart. His soul is sure to shrivel up and refuse to let the best of life enter. The most miserable being in the world is a man who harbors a grudge and whose life is spent in an effort to "get even" with those by whom he may have been wronged or only imagines that he was, it is all the same to him. His heart looses all the better elements possessed by the human being and is turned into a charnel house of gall and bitterness. Keep your heart sweet and hold no grudge against any man. -Banks Herald.
