

A COMPARISON.

Pay Carl Haberlach a High Compliment for the Work he did.

To the Editor:--

Dear Sir: If you think it would interest any of your readers I would like to publish a few lines in regard to conditions as they were when I first struck Tillamook and those of today. In the first place I would like to say that I commenced dairying with one cow, which was given me by my father-in-law as a wedding present and that was plenty, as I had to clear the ground before I could raise hay enough to winter her. Time went on and I cleared more land (pretty slow those days with only a grub hoe, axe, augers whilst everything had to be burned except what one could use at the house) got more cows and started making butter. This we put down in 50 lb. kegs, shipping the output in the fall on a small sailing schooner to such firms as Allan & Lewis, Everding & Ferrell, etc. at the same time sending an order for our winter supplies. Our wants were small those days (taxes were not quite so high) there was plenty of game of all kinds and the rivers and bay swarmed with fish. Well the years rolled by and one day some parties arrived in Tillamook and proposed putting up a cheese factory, providing we signed an agreement to deliver our milk at a certain price on a basis of a four per cent test. Well we signed up, and don't you know those cows of ours didn't have because we didn't have any Jerseys those days. Well the long and short of it was if I remember right our milk fetched us 55 cents per hundred pounds and I had to get up every morning at 3 o'clock so as to have the milk ready for Amos Vaughn who was hauling it to Tillamook, a distance of five miles. You can bet he did not put on much fat on that layout, so as soon as our contract was out three or four of us bought separators and went to making butter again. Then came the idea of cooperation, started I think by Mr. Harrison and we then began to realize something like a fair percentage on our milk, but there was something lacking yet, and that was the grading of our cheese which came later and today we are getting all there is in our milk. There has been more than one attempt to break us up but all that time most of us farmers had been through the mill and they failed to fall for it, our only show is to hang together or back we slide again. I think myself that we owe our present prosperity in a large degree to the way in which our business has been handled by our secretary, Mr. Carl Haberlach and I think that his record during the last fourteen years in which he has done our business is one to be very proud of, and I, for one wish him to know that I fully appreciate it.

POINTS THE WAY

The Statement of this Hillsboro Resident Will Interest Our Readers. Our neighboring town Hillsboro points the way in the words of one of its most respected residents:

Mrs. W. H. Morton, 1439 Second St., Hillsboro Ore., says: "I can always speak a good word for Doan's Kidney Pills, since they pulled me through a terrible attack of rheumatic pains. For over a year, I wasn't able to dress myself and every cord and muscle in my body pained so that I couldn't rest day or night. I was in constant misery every minute. During this time trouble with my kidneys set in and they were irregular in action and congested. I felt sick and nervous all over. I couldn't get anything to relieve the suffering, until I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills. In a few weeks, my kidneys acted more freely and the rheumatic pains began to ease up. I stuck to them until I had finished about twelve boxes when I was able to get around as well as ever and do my work. Today I can get around without any pain or effort. I take a box of Doan's Kidney Pills now and then however and they keep my kidneys in good condition."

Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same as Mrs. Morton uses. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Bay City Community Church.

Regular services will be held next Sunday at two o'clock preceded by the Sunday school at one. The pastor will arrive with a message of interest and good cheer for every mind and heart. He will be looking for a good attendance which will indicate the standard of intelligence and character of the residents. The church of the community is the best index of standards of life and people composing it. A few faithful men and women have long been keeping the fires burning, and they deserve to be reinforced by many more who should be thinking of things eternal.

A Birthday Party.

Mrs. Edna Hall and Miss Edna Blum again celebrated their birthdays at the home of the former, Saturday, February 3, 1917. Owing to there being sickness in the house there were only a few present. Dinner was served at one o'clock. The birthday cake was made by the eleven year old daughter of the hostess and it was a thing of beauty. Some very pretty and useful presents were received by both parties. Best wishes were received from Mrs. M. C. Grover, of Mapleton, Ore., and others. Those present were Mrs. Edna Hall, Miss Edna Blum, Mrs. Frank Johnson, Misses Rosa and Grace Blum, Evelyn and Eunice Hall, Masters Sloyd, Eugene and Elton Hall. May the two Ednas live to enjoy many more birthdays together.

Presbyterian Church Notes.

The congregation and friends will have an exceptional treat next Sunday in both the regular services when Miss Abby Upham, of New York City will be present and deliver the addresses. She comes very highly recommended with a stirring christian message that is sure to strike home to the hearts of not only the women but men and all young people. All who have not their church obligations elsewhere are urged to plan to hear this excellent lady and fascinating speaker. The Bible hour is from 10 to 11, with a good program and classes for all ages. Parents of the children are invited to be guests of the school next Sunday morning. Cheer is prevailing because of increased attendance and interest in all departments of the church. There is a warm welcome here for all. The idea of whole family attendance and sitting together in the services of worship is being revived and advised in this church. The special music being furnished by the choir in each service is attractive to many and deserves appreciation.

City Council Meeting.

On Monday evening the city council met in regular session with the following officers present: Mayor, Boals; Councilmen, O'Donnell, Edmunds, Harris, Christensen, Hill, Attorney Botts, Marshal Myers and recorder Smith.

Most of the evening was devoted to the question in regard to the opening of pool halls on Sunday. Attorney Holmes represented the pool hall interests and presented a petition for a special election, with two questions to be voted on: One question to be voted on was in regard to closing all business houses and the other was in regard to closing just pool halls and reading rooms on Sunday.

The Mayor and council except councilman Harris, wanted to go before the people in a simple proposition as to whether the people wanted the pool halls open or not on Sunday. The contention of the Mayor and council was that with so many questions up the people would become confused as to the real issue and the idea of the council was to make it as simple as possible. The pool hall interests through their attorney Mr. Holmes has brought mandamus proceedings against the council to compel it to act according to the wishes of the petitioners.

Anniversary Celebration.

At the regular convention of Marathon Lodge, No. 37, K. of P. Tillamook, Oregon, held at their Castle Hall Monday evening, in this city, it was unanimously agreed to hold an open meeting February 19, for the purpose of celebrating the 15th anniversary of Marathon Lodge.

Some weeks ago a committee was appointed to make arrangements for this event. The committee has worked untiringly to make the occasion a success. They have secured some good speakers, also some good singers and musicians. They are co-operating with the Pythian. Sisters, and from all accounts every one interested with the thought and action for a rousing good time. It is hoped that all Knights and their families will be present. Everyone, whether a Knight or otherwise, will be welcome. There will be refreshments served.

Marathon Lodge was at a standstill some time back, but during the past two years, the old Pythian spirit has been aroused, and with the addition of about 20 new members, the lodge is in a position to entertain the public in the good old Pythian way.

If you have other engagements it would be well to postpone same and join for the night of February 19th, and help us to make Pythianism what it was in the past.

Methodist Church Notes.

The Sunday School will convene at 10 o'clock, Morning worship at 11 o'clock, sermon by the pastor.

Union revival services in the evening. Music by a chorus choir under the leadership of Thos. Isaacs. Mr. Isaacs is doing fine solo work. You cannot afford to miss it.

These meetings will continue during the next week. They are growing in interest, come and join us in them.

ROME'S GREAT COLOSSEUM.

A Grim Theater of Death That Was Drenched With Blood.

The most imposing theater ever erected by mortal hands, a grim house of death, consecrated by blood and tears, the Colosseum stands today a stupendous monument to Roman pride and degradation. Almost a third of a mile in circumference, it towers 157 feet up into the air, the original and monumental "play to the gallery" of popular approval. In 80 A. D. Emperor Titus opened its history with a tremendous inaugural of a hundred days of "games," in which men fought with other men and with wild animals, and no one knows the exact tale of the lives snuffed out on its bloodied sands "to make a Roman holiday."

In the construction of the Colosseum its builders adhered to the then new note of superimposing the three orders—Doric, Ionic and Corinthian—an idea that has exerted a greater influence upon the design of monumental works than any other Roman innovation.

But who thinks of that standing before it today with the golden Italian sunshine glorifying every scar and conjuring back from the dead past vivid spectacles of Roman holidays, full of noise and color, laughter and bloody agonies, or when liquid moonlight transfigures the classic ruin into a magic fabric, where stalk the thin ghosts of salubrious, slave and emperor?—National Geographic Magazine.

WHEN PETROLEUM WAS FREE.

That Was Very Early in the History of This Country.

The first reference to the discovery of petroleum in America was contained in a letter written in 1629 by Joseph de la Roche d'Allion, a French missionary working among the Indians. He had crossed the Niagara river and made his way southward through western New York into northern Pennsylvania, where he found a spring from which oil flowed. This oil was highly esteemed by the Indians for medicinal uses.

The letter of the priest was published in 1822 in Sagar's "Histoire du Canada." This oil spring was probably identical with the one described by the Massachusetts Magazine in 1789:

"In the northern part of Pennsylvania there is a creek called Oil creek, which empties into the Allegheny river. It issues from a spring on the top of which floats an oil similar to that called Barbados tar and from which one may gather several gallons a day. The troops sent to guard the western posts halted at the same spring, collected some of the oil and bathed their joints with it. This gave them great relief from the rheumatism with which they were afflicted."—New York World.

How the Ancients Bathed.

Ancient Rome is said to have consumed no less than 240,000,000 gallons of water a day, and one of the most noticeable features of the modern town is the prodigal effervescence of its water, gushing from fountains of every conceivable size and design. The Trevi is the most magnificent in the city, its waters (called Aqua Vergine, virgin water, because of its purity) the finest. The old Roman baths required a lot of water. The splendid Thermae, built by the degenerate Emperor Caracalla, had accommodations for 1,000 bathers. Besides the baths proper, the establishment included within its area of about a quarter of a mile square a gymnasium, athletic field, library and even a race track. Its ruins tower above the plain today like some mountain blasted by nature.—National Geographic Magazine.

Why Is It?

When you are in a hurry why is it that—
There are no means of locomotion in sight?
You haven't any change?
Every one bumps into you?
You remember you have left the front door open?
All the streets are blocked?
The last train has just gone?
You are held up by some bore?
You see the most beautiful girl in the world?
Your watch is wrong?
The other person is late and you are kept waiting an hour?—Life.

Knights of Old.

The knights of the days of chivalry were so well protected by their armor that they were practically invulnerable to all ordinary weapons. Even when dismounted they could not be injured save by the misericordia, a thin dagger, which penetrated the joints of the armor. In more than one battle knights fallen from their horses could not be killed until their armor had been broken up with axes and hammers.

The Reason.

Patience—There was a time in her life she could have married nearly anybody she pleased.

Patience—And yet she has never married?

"Never. You see, she couldn't please anybody."—Yonkers Statesman.

A Matter of Color.

He (of Yale team)—Yes, our family dates back to the Normans. Blue blood counts for something. She—It won't count much with pa. He's a Harvard man.—Boston Transcript.

In the Old Days.

Debatante—I wonder why women used to wear such wide wedding rings. Please Matron—Because at that time, poor things, they expected them to last a lifetime.—Life.
