

NO NAILS STEEL STEAL

Stay-Round Silo Company,

52 FIRST ST., PORTLAND, ORE.
W. H. MONROE, Manager.

The new silo shown for the first time at the Oregon State Fair last year has now been tested and has made good, and is being endorsed by the most enlightened men on the subject in the country, including Dairymen, Stockmen, Professors and Mechanics.

Prof. Barr, of the O. A. C., says he has recently examined the silage in two of them, and found it of excellent quality, and it kept well in all corners.

D. O. Lively, who was Supt. of the Livestock department, Panama Pacific Exposition, bought one for the Lively Stock farm at Palo Alto, California, after using several different kinds put up on the grounds there for advertising purposes.

It is the PERFECT SILO we are talking about, and what encourages us most is that competitors are telling farmers it is no good, that it bursts, etc.

But here is what we can prove it does. IT STAYS STRAIGHT AS A LINE. Because it shrinks up and down and nature's laws takes absolute care of it.

It is built without scaffold, and is built as quickly as a scaffold is built for other kinds.

It is built entirely of Oregon Fir, except some bolts in the door frame, and some nails in the roof, and is better than is possible to make of the combination of wood and steel.

There is no STEEL in its construction, and no STEAL in when we sell it, and it is guaranteed true to name.

Stay-Round Silo Co.,
PORTLAND, OREGON.

act. The decision peevish the Journal which claims it has refrained from "publishing on election day" any editorial or news matter bearing even indirectly upon the issues of elections and has refused to publish the advertisements for candidates for public office. "O dear, listen at this wail. The policy has been followed at some cost to The Journal, because it has been obliged to sacrifice the revenue that would accrue from the extra day's publication of these political advertisements." What a fearful loss.—News Reporter.

A certain class of people assert that a farmer is the most independent man on earth and that he has nothing to do but to enjoy life. That when winter comes and the cold snaps are on the wing he toasts his feet in the oven and reads the local newspaper and the only thing that disturbs him is a call three times a day to banquet on mince pies and other luxuries. It is a mistake. The industrious farmer begins work long before the sun thinks of getting up. With his soul shrouded in gloom he proceeds to build the fire and soften his boots with a sledge hammer. He then takes a lantern and shovels his way to the barn and feeds the hogs. It is the time to feed the newly arrived calf, which seems to delight in butting a pail of milk over the tiller of the soil until he only needs to be stamped to pass for a package of olemargarine. He crawls through a barb wire fence and digs the hay out of the snow, feeds the cows, cleans the stable, gathers up the frozen chickens, chases a stray pig worth 25 cents four miles, and does not catch it, doctors a sick horse, freezes his fingers, gets kicked by a one-eyed mule, and when the gloaming comes and quietness broods over all the earth, he has a single half hour to meditate and wonder how he will pay his taxes.—Umpqua Valley News.

Germany Has Become an Outlaw Nation

In calmness of spirit and firmness of purpose the American people will approve President Wilson's severance of diplomatic relations with Germany. No other course remained for a self-respecting nation, for the announcement by Germany of a reckless purpose to sink without warning passenger ships carrying no contraband of war makes her an outlaw nation.

Now is the time for the United States to make a stand for the freedom of the seas. We should let our ships sail as usual, and, if necessary, convoy them with our war fleet as a protection against outlaws.

The government should commandeer the German vessels interned in our harbors, and use them, if needed by our commerce, to replace ships destroyed by German submarines.

We are not yet at war with this outlaw government, but we are near the verge of it. If war must follow, let us be true to our high traditions, not flinching if an ordeal that was not of our making.

Without bluster, without fear, and in full understanding of what is involved and what may follow, congress must support the president and the nation must support its government.—Spokesman Review.

The Ounce of Prevention.

In an interview shortly after his recent arrival in America Sir Gilbert Parker states that had Great Britain enforced even the most rudimentary form of compulsory military training there would have been no European war. Germany and Austria, he says, forced the war on Europe because they believed Great Britain would not or could not fight. The belligerency of Great Britain, which alone has made possible the checkmating of the central powers, was not even seriously considered in the Tonic channel. Had there been a trained British army, ready for immediate service, the fateful ultimatum would not have been sent to Serbia, Belgium would not have been invaded, the world would not have been set on fire.

This of course, is merely personal opinion, but it is logical. The surprise and anger of Germany when Great Britain declared war sufficiently prove the contention that Germany regarded British belligerency as an impossibility. Assuredly it would not have been so regarded had Great Britain been even half ready for war.

More Misrepresentation.

Chagrined and disappointed in its effort to dictate to the Legislature and boss the state of Oregon, the Portland Journal, in "its rapid descent from partial to complete lunacy," has an article in a recent issue concerning the publication of the delinquent tax list in Washington county. In the conglomeration of figures, falsehoods and half truths, the Journal brings out three points. First, that there is "collusion" between the News-Times and the Hillsboro Argus because the two papers charged exactly the same amount for the publication. Second, that the charges made for publication were not collected from the taxpayers who were delinquent, but part of it came from the general tax payer. Third, that the rate we charged the county was higher than we charged private concerns, according to our rate card on file with agencies.

To the first we point out that if the Journal knows anything at all about which it is talking so much, it knows that the County court fixes the compensation, and that naturally the Court fixed the same rate for both papers. And this rate was considerably less than we charge private concerns. So much for "Collusion."

A Million Dollar Waste IN Tillamook County Each Year

Stop this Leak at Once with a

TILLAMOOK Silo!

The greatest waste in Tillamook County is made with feed for our dairy cows. We waste at least one half of the possible production of our soil in the way of feed for our cows.

My relation with the Dairy Industry and the experience in operation of dairy farms for the past 15 years has given me an exceptional opportunity to study the problems of the dairyman. The result of the 15 years' experience, and four thereof in Tillamook County amongst you has caused me to design and present to you the TILLAMOOK SILO.

The design, mechanical arrangement and construction of the Tillamook Silo is made to suit local conditions. It is made with the view of simplicity, durability, efficiency and economy.

The Tillamook Silo is built in Tillamook. Is made of the best Douglass Fir and workmanship. It is manufactured and presented to you by local people, people you know and meet most every day. The Tillamook Silo is absolutely guaranteed in every respect, so you are taking no chances.

The Tillamook Silo is your bank. It will return to you in the form of good silage every pound of good feed put into it, just as you expect a bank to return every dollar you deposit in it.

The price of the Tillamook Silo is the lowest, and all information free. The Tillamook Silo will be sold on terms for six months at 6 per cent interest. If longer time is required special arrangement may be made on approved security.

I am located at Tillamook City, with headquarters at the Tillamook Hotel for the present. I also handle a full line of Silage Cutters, Farm Implements, such as Plows, Mowers, Rakes, Tedders, Manure Spreaders, Wagons, Gas Engines, Barn Equipment, Hay Forks, Pumps, Milking Machines, Wood Saws, etc.

Let me know your wants. All goods are guaranteed, and all information and assistance free. Get my prices before buying.

BEN KUPPENBENDER, Tillamook, Ore.

What the Editors Say.

It costs $20,000 a year to support the baby John Jacob Astor. Of course he isn't worth the money, but as he serves to keep the money in circulation he isn't wholly useless.—Observer.

Why not a "mole-hound"? We have blood hounds, deer hounds, fox hounds and grey hounds, why does not some dog breeder try and develop a mole-hound? There is a good opportunity to make some money for the successful breeder.—Nehalem Times.

Back in Colorado they are trying to get an anti-tipping bill through, making it a misdemeanor to give or take a tip. This would be a hard blow to the poor Pullman company, which is the only company on earth that now requires the public to pay the salaries of its employees.—Observer.

Getting up three hundred and sixty-five times a year we do, a person would think we'd get used to it. But we don't. Not even the bell boys, alarm clocks, coal waten, wives, waiting breakfast and other pernicious to egg us on, we don't. Folks have been getting up ever since the world began; and they don't like it any better than they did the morning Cain slew Able.—Ex.

It is said to be on the slate at Salem that the tourist appropriation is to pass and the appropriation for maintaining the Portland exhibit in the Chamber of Commerce knocked out. Fine work! Bring the tourists here for the benefit of the hotel keepers and then have "nothing to show them which might induce settlement. Most state recognize the importance not only of attracting the tourist but also informing him of resources and advantages, and permanent exhibits are recognized as an effective means of doing this. Exhibiting scenery may gratify state pride, but it doesn't mean additional population. Pilgrims came from all over the world to visit Crater lake, but we haven't heard of inquiry for farms and home sites in its vicinity.—Independent.

On February 5 Henry Ford tendered to Secretary of the Navy Daniels the use of his big automobile factory at Detroit for government munition works, and agree to operate it without profit to himself. Those fellows who made so much sport of Henry's peace propoganda will be hard pressed for any just criticism of this show of patriotism. Henry is a good patriot and along with it is a mighty good advertiser.—Telephone Register.

H. H. Rosenberg, who has been living on Balm street, left this week for his home at Tillamook. Mr. Rosenberg is a hay buyer and has been coming here for several years past. He is a booster for the improvement of the road through the Grand Ronde reservation, as he realizes that that piece of road is the great artery between the valley and Tillamook county. He looks forward to a co-operative effort between the county courts of Yamhill and Tillamook in putting the road in passable condition the year round.—News Reporter.

The "Chionial" publisher does not like the sound of rolling coin. He caused the district attorney of Multnomah county to submit to the grand jury whether the Oregonian had violated the corrupt practice act by publishing political advertisements and other political matter tending to influence voters on election day. And Judge Gentebien, passed on an hypothetical presentment by the grand jury, holds that it not a violation of Section 3518 of the corrupt practice

As to the second statement, we are informed by the sheriff that during the years the list has been published the collections from the delinquents have more than paid for the publications.

The third point is an unqualified falsehood, as the Journal knows, if it has read our rate card as pretended. The rate given on our card, and which we always collect, is five cents per line per issue for classified and local advertising (the kind the delinquent advertising comes under.) Instead of charging more than the rate we have given the county a discount of 20 per cent, as the records will show.

As to the mass of insinuations, abuse and silly vapors about graft by the News-Times and other newspapers, we pass it as unworthy of notice. We will stake the reputations of these papers against that of the Journal, as to honesty in business and fairness to the taxpayers of their counties. The attempt of the Journal to make capital out of the repeal of this law, is in line with its constant effort to make capital for itself by attacking every measure that does not meet with its fantastic ideas, and to belittle and besmirch the reputation of men or newspapers that will not bow to its domination. Verily, the descent of the Portland Journal to complete lunacy is about completed.—News-Times.

Notice of Final Settlement.

Notice is hereby given: That the undersigned has filed his final account as executor of the last will and testament of Jacob Luthi, deceased, in the County Court of the State of Oregon for Tillamook County, and the court has fixed Monday, the 5th day of March, 1917 at 10 o'clock a.m. in the County Court room in the court house at Tillamook City, Oregon, as the time and place for hearing objections to said account.

All persons are hereby notified to present their objections, if any, to said account at said time and place. Dated this 1st day of February, 1917.

Emil Benschmidt, Executor of the last will and testament of Jacob Luthi, deceased.

Reason Enthroned.

Because meats are so tasty they are consumed in great excess. This leads to stomach troubles, biliousness, and constipation. Revise your diet, let reason and not a pampered appetite control, then take a few doses of Chamberlain's Tablets and you will soon be well again. Try it. For sale by Lamars Drug Store.

FOND OF IMPOSING TAXES

More Being Devised That at Any Time Since the Close of the Civil War.

The national administration is without a rival in one respect. It has devised more varieties of taxes than any since the Civil War, when the fate of the Union was in the balance. In addition to its tariff for revenue only and the ordinary internal revenue taxes, it has levied increasing taxes on individual incomes and abolished the exemption on corporation taxes. It has invaded the villages and cities and taxes circuses, theatres and pool tables. It has demanded a toll from the mourning widows and orphans. For a time it collected pennies at the telephone booths and telegraph offices and added insult to injury by taxing debtors on the evidence of their indebtedness. But after all these heroic efforts to wring more money from the people by oppressive taxation, as the Baltimore platform would say, the profligate waste of it leaves a huge deficit looming.

Dr. McAdoo recommends that the patient be bled again. He would increase the inheritance tax 50 per cent $280,000,000, so the country might as a starter. This has always been considered a tax on privilege and there is no national privilege, since there is no inheritance under the federal laws, but little things like that do not count with this administration, when it sees the prospect of getting another $22,000,000 a year so squander. But even this will not be enough. An additional tax on profits of corporations and partnerships is proposed. It has come to the attention of Dr. McAdoo that some of them are guilty of the scandalous offense of making over 8 per cent on their investments. He would levy another 8 or 10 per cent on this excess. Some may get around it by paying their officers bigger salaries and leaving nothing for the common stockholders, but after allowing for that, Dr. McAdoo figures that he can get $500,000,000 a year from this source. This would be more than half the amount the niggardly Republicans spent for all governmental purposes, when they had charge of affairs. But Dr. McAdoo is taking no chances. He knows the war may end, which might cause a slump in profits. The most improbably rumor of peace is enough to shake the market. As a matter of precaution, he would have Congress authorize a bond issue of $280,000,000, so the country might have some souvenir of this administration.

YOUR DAIRY PROFITS

Can be greatly increased if you can produce your feed economically. High prices on hay and grain cost dairymen thousands of dollars each year. The proven way to avoid high feed costs is to equip the farm with a cheap feed producer in the form of a good silo. And the proven way to secure a good silo is to buy the

INDIANA SILO!

This famous silo has established its supremacy by its clean, efficient record the past 14 years, and is now in use on over 60,000 American farms. We now manufacture it complete at our big Oregon factory, so it comes to you at the lowest possible cost. Our absolute guarantee goes with every silo; ask your banker about us.

We are now booking orders for delivery during the Spring and Summer. The first car—now made up—will reach Tillamook in May. Get our quotations on your needs now, while our Early Buyer's Discount is still in force.

The Chas. K. Spaulding Logging Co.,
SALEM, OREGON.

Cement Silos! for Permanence.

To be permanently prosperous you must have a Cement Silo and a Cement Manure Pit on your dairy farm.

They will give you a return of from 30 to 50 per cent on your investment each year of its existence, which is a mighty long time, if properly constructed.

In combination with the Cement Manure Pit, the Cement Silo will enable you to continually decrease the cost of crop production and continually increase the fertility of your land.

The Concrete Silo and Manure Pit on your farm is the foundation of coming prosperity.

With adequate equipment and experience I solicit your Silo Building.

A. T. DOLAN, Cement Contractor,
TILLAMOOK, OREGON