

Recruiting for Coast Company.

Captain S. S. Johnson, of the 10th Company, Coast Artillery, having received instructions to recruit the company to 150, a good deal of rustling have been going on the past week amongst the members of the company to bring it up to its full strength and it is gratifying to know that the Tillamook Company will be fully recruited this week, and as soon as the young men are able to take the physical examination, Dr. Boals has been exceedingly busy this week making the necessary examination. Quite a few failed to pass the examination. On Monday a number of the members of the company went to Cloverdale and about 25 young men in that vicinity consented to join the company. Tuesday they went to Mohler and Wednesday to Garibaldi, where several young men consented to join the company. It is expected that as soon as the company is at its full strength it will be ordered away. Several who have taken the examination will join other branches of the service.

Up to this (Thursday) morning there are 129 in the 10th Company, Coast Artillery. Following are the names of those who took the physical examination and joined the company this week:

Hoskins-Rowe.

On Easter Sunday a wedding of more than ordinary interest took place at one o'clock at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ira C. Rowe just north of town, when their youngest daughter Miss Sylvia Orelida Rowe became the bride of George W. Hoskins, the officiating minister Rev. J. E. Youel, of the Presbyterian church using the beautifully adapted ring ceremony. Lohengrin's Wedding March was played by the bride's sister, Mrs. L. E. Hammer, as the bridal party entered the room, and the bride's little niece Rowena Hanson was the proud bearer of the wedding ring. Only members of the two families concerned were present namely: Mr. and Mrs. Ira C. Rowe, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hoskins, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Bales, Mrs. Constance Hoskins, Rowena Hanson and Leonard Bales, of Tillamook, and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Hammer, of McMinnville, Oregon.

When congratulations and good wishes had been expressed, all were directed to the dining room, seated about the big family table and served with a bountiful dinner under the able direction of the bride's mother.

The bridal couple were the recipients of many valuable and useful presents. Both are well known in the community and are among the most ambitious and popular of its young people. Their relatives and friends are pleased to know that they are to continue to reside about Tillamook and will be at home to them at the Buel place.

Charged with Treasonable Language

City Marshal Myers arrested Ed. Hummel on Friday and placed him in jail for uttering treasonable language before war was declared. Hummel is a native born citizen but of German extraction, residing at Netarts. It seems that some time previous the city marshal and Hummel got into a controversy over the war, when Hummel seems to have made the remark that if American vessels wanted to take the risk of entering the prohibited zones, they should be blown up and he hoped that Teddy Roosevelt would be on one. The marshal told Hummel that in the event of war being declared he would arrest him the next time he came to town, which he did on Friday. The city marshal arrested the man on his own authority, not having any instructions to do so from the city, state or federal authorities.

Hummel was taken before Justice Stanley who set the trial for ten o'clock this (Thursday) morning.

The complaint alleges: That Edward Hummel at divers times between the 1st of October, 1916, and the 5th of April, 1917, did wilfully and unlawfully conduct himself in such a manner as to disturb the peace and quiet of the neighborhood, by stating to divers persons in this county and using insulting, violent, unpatriotic and treasonable language, some of the said statements being as follows: That he said defendant hoped that the German government would sink a number of vessels belonging to the United States, with Theodore Roosevelt, ex-mani, and the United States should them, that if war should be declared between the United States and Germany, and the United States should attempt to compel him to fight for the United States, they would have two fights on their hands; by stating that he denounced his citizenship, that he did not believe in the laws of the United States, and that he would not assist in the enforcement of such laws and by many other statements of like nature.

The first witness was Mat Perry who testified that about a year ago Hummel said that if the United States go into war with Germany he would fight for Germany and he did not care a damn who knew it.

J. T. Higgins, Mrs. Wheatley, N. J. Myers, Jack Rupp, E. E. Koch, Sid Travis, P. W. Todd, C. E. Trombley, Joel Mapes and J. Merrel Smith were the other witnesses all of whom testified that Hummel had used treasonable language and that he said he would fight for Germany.

The court room was crowded, and the case was not decided when we went to press.

The "War Resolution."

Adoption of which the Congress of the United States last Friday morning, definitely aligned this country against the German empire.

"Whereas, The imperial German government has committed acts of war against the government and the people of the United States of America; therefore, be it Resolved, By the senate and the house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled, that the state of war between the United States and the imperial German government which has been thrust upon the United States is hereby formally declared; and that the president be and he is hereby authorized and directed to employ the entire naval and military forces of the United States and the resources of the government to carry on war against the imperial German government; and to bring the conflict to a successful termination, all resources of the country are hereby pledged by the congress of the United States."

The resolution was signed in the United States Senate by Vice President Marshall at 13 minutes after noon Friday and by President Wilson at 1:18 p.m. The signing of the resolution by the president was the cause for the immediate flashing of the word "mobilize" to every naval vessel and naval station from the great wireless tower at Arlington.

Our Cause is Exalted and Righteous.

The debate on the war resolution carried much that was lofty and illuminating. Senator Lodge's speech was particularly inspiring and serviceable in drawing sharp attention to the folly of the suggestion that the United States should hold aloof from the sentence allies and make war on Germany single-handed and without intelligent cooperation.

"It would be madness," declared the Massachusetts senator, "for us to attempt to make war alone and find ourselves perhaps at the end, left isolated at war with that power, when all the nations had made peace, because we had not associated ourselves with them."

Speaking to the same purpose Senator Williams drove to the heart of the situation when he said:

"Which would you rather do, fight Germany now with France and Great Britain and Russia, or fight her alone later? You've got to do one or the other. I tell you if Germany does win that fight on the continent of Europe she will begin building and getting ready to whip us unless the English fleet prevents it."

To support their plea for independent action opponents of concerted warfare are garbling and distorting the words of Washington. Washington wisely counseled against entanglement in "the ordinary vicissitudes of European politics, the ordinary combination and collisions of her friendships or enmities."

"If we remain one people, under an efficient government," added the first president, "the period is not far off when we may defy material injury from external annoyance; when we may take such an attitude as will cause the neutrality we may at any time resolve upon to be scrupulously respected. When belligerent nations, under the impossibility of making acquisitions upon us, will not lightly hazard the giving us provocation; when we may choose peace or war as our interest guided by justice shall counsel."

That admonition was predicted on previous counsel to prepare for war; on Washington's faith that we would not abandon universal military training. If this nation had held to his counsel it would have had such strength on land and sea when the storm broke over Europe that our neutral rights would have been respected.

Unfortunately our military weakness led Germany on to increasing "acquisitions upon us," to the committing of repeated and flagrant "provocations."

We have seen our women and children slain at sea, our ships sunk, our commerce destroyed in violation of the human laws of nations.

We have seen plots and conspiracies, directed from Berlin and hatched in the German embassy and German consulates, to incite desperate and lawless men to the perpetration of violent crimes. Paid employees of German government have wrecked in our harbors the ships of friendly nations. From the German embassy at Washington a widespread conspiracy was directed to incite sedition and encourage revolt against the government.

And crowning act of hostility a dark plot was developed in the German embassy to induce Japan and Mexico to invade our country.

Information coming from several directions leads to the belief the Southern Pacific Railway company contemplates railroad extensions in the Marshfield vicinity, probably from Beaver Hill junction, 12 miles from Coos bay, to Bandon, by way of Beaver slough and down the Coquille river to the coast.

W. P. Wilson and his son, J. L. Wilson, of Olalla claimed the largest varmint-bounty ever paid in Douglas county for the capture of varminis from one family, when they presented eight coyote puppies about two weeks old to the county clerk at Roseburg for bounty. The total amount paid was $160, being $20 each.

Attorney-General Brown received notice that he had won another of the F. A. Hyde land fraud cases. Decision in favor of the state has been rendered by Circuit Judge G. F. Skipworth of Lane. This is the fifth out of seven Hyde land fraud cases, which have been won by the state. The other two are undecided.

Seventeen bricks of gold, weighing 1221 ounces and valued at $23,199, said by milling men to be the largest clean-up ever yielded by a southern Oregon gold mine, were brought to Grants Pass by James Logan, owner of the Simmonds-Logan placer mine at Waldo, about 40 miles southwest of Grants Pass. The mass of gold was the result of a 10-day run.

The legislative road bond committee has decided to hold a statewide rally in Portland, April 28. This will not be in the nature of a convention, but will be a rally to which are invited delegates from all organizations in Oregon interested in the road movement. Governor Withycombe will be invited and the three state highway commissioners will be in attendance.

Insurance business in the state is increasing by leaps and bounds, according to figures compiled by Insurance Commissioner Harvey Wells. During the first three months of this year the fees of his office amounted to $121,910.88, as compared to $97,524.43 for a similar period last year. When the new insurance code goes into effect the amount of the fees of that office also will be greatly augmented.

The first two weeks the rural credits amendment has been actually in operation show that 67 applications have been made for loans from that fund, and out of this number 44 have been approved. The loans asked for average about $2000, although some run as high as $5000 and others as low as $300. Approximately $90,000 worth of loans have been approved out of the $140,000 worth applied for.

Central Oregon communities are responding with liberality to the request of Robert E. Strahorn for aid in the financing of the Oregon, California & Eastern railroad which, when built, is to serve Crook, Klamath, Harney and Lake counties. Klamath Falls has voted $300,000 in municipal bonds; Burns, $125,000; Lakeview, $20,000. Bend has contributed $35,000, and is preparing to vote $100,000 in bonds in aid of construction. Surprise valley citizens are taking steps to vote $100,000 in bonds.

Treasurer Kay has directed letters to the Oregon delegation in congress, asking that steps be taken to regulate food prices. He asserted in his communication that speculators have taken advantage of the war to run up prices, even on American-made goods, the manufacture of which are not affected in any manner by the war, and that as a result the wage-working classes throughout the United States would soon be reduced to the condition of the people in European countries if some remedial legislation is not enacted.
