Increasing Imports from Japan.

During the past few weeks a Tokio letter of the London Economist remarks, Japan's trade prospects, already bright, have considerably improved, especially in trade with the United States, which, although on the increase for the past few years, has recently begun to show a more rapid advance. During January and February, exports to the United States rose $9,000,000 over the same period last year, and $10,500,000 above the corresponding period of the year before last. Imports for the same period were only $1,000,000 more than in the same time last year. Freedom of communication has greatly enhanced trade across the Pacific.

CONTRACT LET FOR TEN MILES OF PAVING

First Award Under New Law is Made to Warren Company On Lowest of Eight Bids.

Pendleton, Or. June 29.—A contract for 10 miles of hard surface pavement the first to be let under the road bonding measure, approved at the June election, was awarded by the State Highway Commission and the Umatilla County Court today to the Warren Construction Company for $110,120.42.

The section of road to be surfaced is the first 10 miles between Pendleton and the state line. The bids were for a strip twelve feet wide with two foot shoulders, the bidder to maintain the road for five years and guarantee workmanship and material.

The Commission, after awarding the contract, agreed to widen the road between the west end of the road and Saxe Station, about five miles, to 16 feet and the contract will be made on that basis.

A contract was also made with the successful bidder to maintain the road for an additional five-year period at a cost of 2 cents a square yard.

Warren Company Lowest. Eight bids were presented to the commission, representing three types of construction. The Warren Construction Company was not only lowest bidder for bitulithic, but its bid was the lowest presented for any kind of pavement, Oskar Huber's bid for Topeka mixture, $121,003.46 being nearest. The amounts of the various bids follow:

Bitulithic—Warren Construction Company, $119,120.42; Oskar Huber, $123,819.38; United Construction Company, $124,221.32. Asphaltic concrete or Topeka mixture, two-inch surface—Oskar Huber, $121,003.46; United Construction Co., $121,405.40; Montague-O'Riley, $123,489.34.

Asphaltic concrete, one-inch binder and 1 1/2 inch surface—United Construction Company, $126,333.26; Montague-O'Riley $127,713.22.

Campaign Promise Proved. Representatives of all the bidders were present and expressed themselves as well satisfied with this method, but being as opposed to bidding by mail, but made the suggestion which was accepted by the Commission, that in future it will not be necessary to open the bids in the county where the work is to be done.

The Commission was particularly pleased with the bids because of the fact that they bore out the campaign arguments that the road could be constructed for $10,000 a mile. The actual figures are $908 1/2 a mile or $1.29 a square yard.

"The Kaiser's Prayer"—The Latest Ultimatum.

Gott, Gott, dear Gott, attention please Your bardner Vilhelm's here; Und has a word or two to say Into your private ear; So turn away all odders now, Und listen well to me, For vat I say concerns me much—Meinself und Sherman.

You know, dear Gott, I vas your vriend Und from mine hour of birth, I quietly let you rule der heffen Vile I ruled o'er der earth; Und ven I told mein soldiers Of bygone baddie days, I gladly split der glory, Und give you half der braise.

In effery vay I tried to prove Mein heart to you vas true, Und only claimed mein honest share In great deeds vat ve do; You could not haf a bedder vriend In sky, in land or sea, Den Kaiser Vilhelm Number Two, Der Lord of Sherman.

So vat I say, dear Gott, is dis: Oot ve should still be vriends, Und you should help me send mein foes To meet der bidder ends, If you, dear Gott, vill dis me do I'll nodding ask again, Und you und me vill bardners bee For evermore, Amen!

But listen Gott, it must be quick Your help to me you send, Or else I haf to stop attack Und simply play defend; So four und twenty hours I gif To make der allies run, Und put me safe into my blace—Der middle of der sun.

If you do dis, I'll do my bart, I'll tell der world der fact; But if you don't, den I must tink It is a hostile act. Den var at vonce I vill declare, Und in my anger rise Und send my Zepplin ships to vage A fight up in der espies.

Dis ultimatum now, dear Gott, Is one of many more; Mein mind is settled up to clean Der whole world off der floor, Because you vas mein brodder. An extra chance is giften, So help me vonce, or else I'll be Der Emporor of Heffen. —Amen!

Why We Send Gold to Japan.

The heavy outflow of American gold to Japan continues to excite much interest and comment. An excellent presentation of the matter is given out by the Republican Publicity Association in Washington. The opinion has been expounded that some of our outgoing gold may be finding a round about way to Germany. But this would seem to be a far-fetched and highly improbable theory. The fact is that Japan has developed from a debtor to a creditor nation. Our financiers say that she has been making heavy loans to Russia. She is engaged in making large extensions to manufacturing plants, and is building new ones. She is "digging in" for the purpose of holding her commercial supremacy in the Pacific when peace comes.

All this means that Japanese bankers are finding profitable investments for gold, and as Japan has a large trade balance against us, she is sending her collectors around.

From the first of August, 1914, to March 31, 1917, we imported from Japan $300,000,000 worth of goods, and exported to her $200,000,000 worth of our commodities, leaving a trade balance in her favor of about $180,000,000. During that period exports of gold from this country to Japan totaled about $36,000,000. The $35,000,000 exported to her since the first of the year is chiefly accounted for by April and May withdrawals. Adverse conditions in our trade with Japan began to make their appearance very shortly after the passage of the present tariff law. During the first nine months of the operation of that law, before the outbreak of the war, October, 1913, to July 1914, imports from Japan increased $12,000,000, compared with the similar period, 1912-13, or from $76,000,000 to $88,000,000 while exports fell off $6,000,000 or from $51,000,000 to $45,000,000. During the last four months of the 1913-14 period exports fell off 53 per cent. We have been a heavy importer of Japanese toys and other cheap articles since the war started, due to the elimination of Germany as a trade competitor, and imports of Japanese hats, pottery and textiles are increasing monthly. Manufactured silk goods for instance, show an import increase of 350 per cent, during the first nine months of the current fiscal year over the similar period, fiscal year 1913.

Our exports to Japan during the war period have shown material increases, but the nature of those sales is such that while they may contribute to our prosperity at a time when we already have all we can do to meet war requirements, they will quite likely militate against our post-war prosperity unless the protective policy is restored to this country. Huge sales of war munitions have been made to Japan, a traffic of a gold-plated sort. Large shipments of machinery have gone there which will be used in Japanese mills by low-paid Japanese workmen, later to oust American goods. Japan had the foresight to get into our market early with enormous orders for steel plates for ship construction, and the contracts which she has booked with our steel plants now threaten to delay the construction of our steel fleet for war purposes unless an understanding can be arrived at which will postpone the filling of these Japanese orders. And our merchant marine must sooner or later compete with the subsidized Japanese marine.

The Underwood free trade tariff law has been a wonderful stimulus to Japan, and we may expect to see her trade balance against us continue to mount higher so long as the free trade policy is adhered to.

Japanese Hosiery Trade Grows.

Representatives of Russian and Japanese interests were in Philadelphia recently negotiating for purchases of knitting machinery, large shipments of which have been going forward for some months, according to builders of some of the leading knitting machines.

The person representing a large Russian concern was especially interested in metal hosiery forms, a contemplated order amounting to $25,000, exclusive of table and piping.

The Japanese buyer was also negotiating for metal forms and was interested in getting complete information as to footers.

The remarkable increase in Japan's hosiery trade in two years, in conjunction with important additions to equipment in recent months, make it apparent that powerful competition will have to be met eventually by manufacturers of hosiery in the United States.

Japan and China.

If Japan and China can firmly unite upon a commercial and mutually defensive policy, the Eastern skies will be cleared! This concession is a superb political play, for it promises a settlement of long-standing antagonisms between the two great neighbors. The increased Chinese duties will work hardship to the manufacturers and export merchants of great industrial centers like Osaka—the losses in that city for the first year being estimated at $1,500,000—but the near future is expected to equalize this penalty by closer relations with China. The enormous supplies of raw materials in that vast country will become more accessible to the steel and woolen manufacturers of Japan.

Help for Those Who Have Stomach Trouble.

After doctering for about twelve years for a bad stomach trouble, and spending nearly five hundred dollars for medicine and doctor's fees, I purchased my wife one box of Chamberlain's Tablets, which did her so much good that she continued to use them and they have done her more good than all of the medicine I bought before.—Samuel Boyer, Folsom, Iowa. The Round-Up.

A three-hundred-pound man stood gazing longingly at the nice things displayed in a haberdasher's window for a marked down sale. A friend stopped to inquire if he was thinking of buying shirts or pajamas. "Gosh no!" replied the fat man wistfully. "The only thing that fits me ready made is a handkerchief."

In the second act of a certain play the curtain raises on an empty stage; then presently a meek looking young man with a dustcoat over his arm comes on and loudly calls: "Uncle! Uncle!" according to the book of the play he should receive no answer, and after a pause, should proceed with a monologue. One night, however, a voice was heard from the gallery: "All right, I'm coming in a moment. How much do you want on it?"

Phyllis lived in a family very particular as to denominations, and heard a good deal about creeds. Her people were Methodists, but one Sabbath she came home and said, "I thought our Sunday School was Methodist." "So it is my dear." "But, mamma, the lesson was about John the Baptist."
