

CROWN PRINCE OF GERMANY WOULD START WAR FOR FUN.

Planned to Conquer France and England and then the United States—Kaiser Accuses England.

That Germany has been endeavoring to blame England for the world war when as a matter of fact Germany had planned and prepared to conquer, not only France and England, but the United States as well.

The nobles of Prussia are always for war. The business men and manufacturers and shipowners desire an increasing field for their activities. The German colonies were uninhabitable by Europeans.

Since writing the above, the American woman who had the conversation with the Crown Prince wrote out for me the exact conversation in her own words as follows:

"I had given my Norman Angell's book, 'The Great Illusion,' which seeks to prove that war is unprofitable. He (the Crown Prince) said, whether war was profitable or not, that when he came to the throne there would be war—if not before—just for the fun of it.

It was England more than any other nation, that upset Germany's designs. The Kaiser thought England and the United States would not take part in the European war, and after he had whipped France, he would have been in a better position to tackle England, and with that country crippled Germany would have picked a quarrel with the United States.

England called Arch Enemy. Copenhagen, Aug. 24—England the arch enemy of Germany, must be beaten down at whatever cost.

Wednesday. An official statement issued in Berlin says the Emperor addressed deputations from all detachments which have had a share in meeting the British attacks. He said he felt impelled to express his thanks and his full recognition of the heroic gallantry shown by troops from all parts of Germany in the hard fighting of the last week.

"It is in God's hands when in his wisdom he will give us victory. He has taught our army a hard lesson and we are now going to pass the examination. With the old German confidence in God we shall show what we can do, the greater and mightier the problem the more gladly we shall grapple with it and solve it.

"All Germans have learned who is the instigator of this war and who is the chief enemy—England. Everyone knows England is our most spiteful adversary. She spreads the hatred of Germany over the whole world, filling her allies with hatred and eagerness to fight. Thus everyone at home knows what you know still better, that England is particularly the enemy to be struck down, however difficult it may be. Your relatives at home who, too, have made great sacrifices, thank you through me.

"A difficult struggle lies ahead of us. England, proud of her stubborn resistance, believes in her invincibility, but you will show that you can achieve still greater things, for the prize of the war is the German people's freedom to live—freedom of sea and freedom at home. With God's help, we shall see the struggle through and be victorious."

TEUTON ARROGANCE IS BLAMED FOR WAR

Lord Cecil Recalls How Germany Refused Conference on Eve of War—Conflict Prepared For.

London, Aug. 25.—"I see they are again talking in Germany about how England started the war," remarked Lord Robert Cecil, Minister of Blockade, in his weekly talk yesterday with the Associated Press. It is an old song, but I think the time has come, particularly in the United States, when it is well to re-state briefly the bald facts regarding the beginning of this great conflict.

"Frankly, I do not think anyone anywhere can honestly believe that England began the war. If any person had arisen in public assembly in this country two weeks before the war began and asserted that in a fortnight we would have been plunged into the greatest international conflict the world has ever seen, the speaker would have been regarded by everyone as a dangerous lunatic. Our people's thoughts were the farthest possible from war and our statements were overwhelmingly occupied with domestic affairs, particularly the Irish question, almost completely to the exclusion of international politics.

"It is true that some of our people had been saying for a year or more before that Germany intended to attack us, but their warning fell on deaf ears, so much so that no preparations were made.

Italy Rejects Proposal. "Certainly we did not start the war. Who did? I think the answer is unquestionable. For at least a year before the war began Germany had definitely made up her mind to fight."

"An Italian writer has told us how in 1913 Germany approached the Italian Government with a view to taking action in the Balkans, but Italy said she would regard such a war as offensive and not defensive, and would not lend her support. Germany withdrew her proposals, as she did not think she then was strong enough to go in alone.

"American Ambassador Gerard has told us the German Crown Prince made no secret of his desire for war, and that he even expressed the hope that it would come before his father died, and he added that if it did not come as soon as he, namely, the Crown Prince, ascended the throne.

"There is no question but that Germany made up her mind that somewhere about the summer of 1914 would be the best time for war, this because the new French military service act would not yet become effective and the Russian strategic railways would not yet be ready. Moreover they knew thoroughly the condition of corruption in Russian official life and hoped our domestic preoccupations would keep us out, although they were determined to go on with the plans whether we stayed out or not.

Murders Give Excuse.

"This was the situation in Germany when the Sarajevo murders gave the war party its eagerly awaited opportunity. The Austrians delivered their ultimatum to Serbia. There is no reasonable doubt that the ultimatums were submitted to Germany and approved, and there is no doubt it was then and there decided that whatever was Serbia's answer they would proceed against her.

"You are familiar with the efforts which the English Foreign Secretary, Sir Edward Grey, made to have the Teuton demands submitted to arbitration. The Teutons brushed all efforts aside.

"That is the simple story of the war's origin. The most crushing indictment against the central powers is that they over and over again rejected all proposals for conferences on the eve of war—conferences which must inevitably have resulted in averting the conflict, because it would have been shown how flimsy was the whole structure upon which the central powers were starting the world war."

His Girl's Gift Crippled Him.

One of our lads up at Fort Niagara is nursing a lame foot that shouldn't be. His girl knitting a pair of socks for him, and he put them on the very day they arrived and wore them upon a hike. One of his feet bothered him from the start, and it wasn't long before he was too lame to walk. The company doc looked him over and couldn't diagnose the trouble at all. The socks looked all right, but, quite by accident, they found a piece of paper, now worked into a hard ball, in the toe. They unraveled it and read: "God bless your poor tired feet.—Mabel."—Tom Daily in Philadelphia Evening Ledger.

An Assortment of Excuses.

A solicitous mother wrote to a congressman at Washington to inquire if her son could not be exempt from the draft on the ground that he is left-handed. The congressman is said to have taken the matter up with the war department and learned that "a large number of left-handed guns had been ordered" for soldiers of left handed tendencies! Seriously there are probably as many absurd excuses given by slackers who wish to escape the draft as there are slackers in numbers. The frankest of these is a Philadelphia youth, who, on a personal visit to the White House at Washington and lodged a plea for exemption on the ground that he was too big a coward to fight.

Peace With Complete Victory.

Germany probably would not if she could and surely could not if she would, make terms of conceivable settlement. She must, then, be beaten by her knees; must be fought and starved into submission; must be treated as an outlaw and permanently disarmed as an outlaw; must be driven out of France and Belgium and Poland; must give up the stolen provinces of Alsace and Lorraine; must restore Luxembourg; must pay double indemnity to Belgium; must forsake her ever lost colonies; must destroy her infamous dynasty and banish the kings and princes who comprise her no less odious council; having, as a nation wantonly drawn and shamefully used the sword, as a nation she must perish by the sword.

Peace with complete victory! Peace with unconditional surrender! It is the only way—the only way of living, the only way of righteousness, the only way of mercy.

Let us now face the situation!—George Harvey in North American review.

INSTANT ACTION SURPRISES MANY HERE.

This grocer's story surprises local people: "I had had stomach troubles. All food seemed to sour and form gas. Was always constipated. Nothing helped until I tried buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-ika. ONE SPOONFUL astonished me in its INSTANT action. Because Adler-ika flushes the ENTIRE alimentary tract it relieves ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas and prevents appendicitis. It has QUICKEST action of anything we ever sold. J. S. Lamar, druggist.

WAR APPEAL STIRS

Gerard Tells Pro-German Irish of Prison Camps.

Helena, Mont., Aug. 26.—James W. Gerard, ex-Ambassador to Germany, delivered a stirring address here today before 3500 persons gathered at a picnic given by farmers, the Council of Defense and the Helena Commercial Club.

Mr. Gerard presented his respects to the pro-German element in the United States by asking: "What do these people want? Do they expect to share with Germany in the conquests of the field?"

The disposition of some Irish in America to favor the German cause brought forth the wish from the speaker that such people could have been with him in the German prison camps where Irish war prisoners were confined.

"When these prisoners were first brought to Germany," he said, "they were separated from the others, better treated and given a chance to join Germany against England. Sir Roger Casement was sent to a camp where 2700 of these men were confined to urge them to join the Kaiser. He made some 30 converts. Then the Irish prisoners proved true to their oaths and threw him out.

"Then," he continued, "persecutions of the Irish began, and if the exponents of Prussianism in this country could have seen those men shot with little or no excuse, dying of tuberculosis brought on by starvation and going insane from abuse, their opinion of the matter might change."

M'ARTHUR BILL TO HIT TEUTON PRESS.

Translations of News and Editorials Required to be Published.

Washington, August 25.—No German paper published in the United States, can be printed in German unless it runs a parallel column of identical matter in English. A bill introduced by Senator McArthur should become a law. Mr. McArthur believes the time has come when the disloyal German press of this country should be suppressed, and to that end he offers the two-language plan, in order that any American reader can tell at a glance the news and propaganda matter these newspapers are circulating.

The McArthur bill does not go as far as a bill by Senator Kink, of Utah, which would prevent, during the remainder of the war, all newspapers being printed in German. Speaking of the purpose of his bill, Mr. McArthur said:

"It is high time for the United States Government to take a hand in suppressing the seditious and traitorous foreign-language press of the country. While it is true that some of these papers recognize their obligations to the Government under which they exist and which affords them protection, it is also true that many of them are thoroughly disloyal and doing everything they can do to hinder the Administration's conduct of the war.

Discontent is Spread.

"The publishers of these papers are standing close to the treason zone, and it is time to show them up. They have willfully misrepresented the attitude of this Government since the beginning of the war and even since our entrance into the struggle they have done much to spread the germs of treason and discontent. The war cannot be won if these henchmen of the Kaiser are permitted to pursue their wilful course, and nothing will bring them to quicker account than a thorough understanding of their methods.

"Only a small percentage of our people can read German, so it behooves us to require these publishers to print their news and editorials in English. If this is done all of us can read what is printed and public sentiment will not long tolerate false news about the war and misrepresentations as to our aims and policies.

"That portion of the German-language press that has shown itself patriotic is representative of the bulk of our German-born population, but the other portion—the traitors and hirelings of the Kaiser—is the one that will be brought to account if this bill becomes a law. These disloyal publishers represent a small but active minority—a most dangerous group of our population. We waste time and effort worrying about the Russian situation when we have a greater menace right here at home. If we are to win this war, we must put our own house in order before we offer gratuitous aid to the allies.

Time Here For Action.

"Our forces will eventually triumph over Prussianism, but we must pursue a policy that will give Prussianism no quarter in this country. It must be wiped out—exterminated. It is time for patriotic action and determination, not cowardice."

IRRITABLE NERVOUS

Was Condition of Indiana Lady Before Beginning to Take Card-u-i, the Woman's Tonic.

Kokomo, Ind.—Mrs. H. Hankemeier, of this town, says: "I look so well, and am so well, that it does not seem as if I ever needed Cardui. But I was not always this way... I think I have taken a dozen bottles... before my little girl came.

I was feeling dreadfully bad, had headache, backache, sick at my stomach, no energy... I was very irritable, too, and nervous.

I began taking Cardui about 6 months before my baby came. As a result all those bad feelings left me, and I just felt grand, just as if nothing at all was the matter, and when the end came, I was hardly sick at all.

Since that I have never taken Cardui at all... It has done me good, and I know it will help others, if they will only try it."

Many women have written grateful letters like the above, telling of the good that Cardui has done them. Why should it not help you, too? If you suffer from any of the ailments so common to women, and feel the need of a safe, reliable, strengthening tonic, we urge you to begin today and give Cardui a fair trial.
