WHERE TO GET WAR FOOD SCHEDULES.

Firms Required to Report on Stocks of Provisions May Obtain Blanks in this State or From Washington.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1.—Since the Federal law requires that all firms having commercial stocks of foods shall make returns for what they have on hand or in transit on August 31, the United States Department of Agriculture, charged with carrying out the provisions of the law has designated certain places within each state where the blank food survey schedules may be obtained. These blanks are to be filled in duplicate, one copy to be retained by the reporting firm and the other to be sent to the department at Washington. In this state the survey blanks may be obtained at Offices of Federal Grain Supervision, 310 Worcester Building, Portland, Ore.; Bureau of Markets, 318 Live Stock Exchange, North Portland, Ore.; Field Agent in Marketing, Oregon Agriculture College, Corvallis, Ore. Each blank has space for recording the stocks of eighteen principal commodities, including the chief food cereals, meats, lard, oils, fish, sugar, and condensed or evaporated milk. Elevators, mills, dealers, canners, bankers, confectioners, manufacturers, jobbers, packers, grocers, hotels, department and general stores dealing in groceries, and other types of business to the number of about 100, are required to report their stocks not later than September 19, though an extension of time may be granted by the Secretary of Agriculture on special request if a good reason can be shown.

Survey is Preliminary.

The survey of August 31, in so far as it concerns the supplies of 18 principal foodstuffs, is a preliminary one, to be followed by a more complete one after the crops are harvested. For the complete schedule the blanks call for returns on 103 items. Blanks giving all information have been mailed to some 350,000 firms, but any firm which has not yet received these blanks should apply at once to the Bureau of Markets, Department of Agriculture, Washington or to the nearest State address given above. While the returns are required under the law with a heavy penalty for non-compliance, it is expected by the Department that all firms will consider it their patriotic duty to fill out and return the schedules as required.

OREGON WHEAT SHOULD BE GROUND IN OREGON

Bran Needed by Dairywomen to Be Used as Substitute for High Priced Staples.

Corvallis, Ore., Sept. 4.—Oregon dairywomen want the bran for dairy feed, and so the state food committee has petitioned the national food administration department to arrange to have Oregon wheat ground in Oregon and the flour only exported for the use of the countries armies and allies.

Unless some material aid is extended to the dairywomen many of them feel that they will be forced to dispose of a good part of their dairy herds. While butter and milk prices are soaring the cost of feed stuffs is mounting still faster, so that only the most careful management will prevent serious loss in dairying. Cheaper and more abundant feeds are the most pressing need, and the bran and other wheat by-products of the Oregon wheat will supply these if the wheat is milled at home.

Should the dairywomen be forced to sell their milking and breeding animals a great shortage of food would result. Not only that, but many breeding animals of rare quality and great value would be sacrificed, which would seriously interrupt the tremendous development of the dairy industry of the state.

The resolution in favor of home milling is signed by W. J. Kerr, President Oregon Agricultural College; C. E. Spence, Master of the State Grange, Oregon City; J. D. Brown, President of Farmers' Union, Portland; O. K. Hartwig, President State Labor Council, Portland; William Pohlmann, President of Cattle and Horse Raisers Association, Baker City; E. J. Stack, Secretary of State Labor Council, Portland; Miss Ava B. Milan, Professor of Domestic Science at the Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis; W. B. Barrett, President of the State Wool Growers Association, Heppner; Whitney L. Boise, Development Bureau of the Portland Chamber of Commerce.

Getting the Truth at Last.

Lieutenant General Baron von Freytag-Loringhoven is likely to get himself into trouble in Germany. He is their chief military historian, with access to the staff records, and what he writes about the invasion of Belgium squares with the truth. All the falsehoods circulated of French designs on that country or airplanes and automobile attacks are discarded by him as childish. The invasion is shown as what it was—the unpardonable violation of Belgium to secure a military advantage over France.

That advantage was in a large measure secured, and this is ample justification to this German military critic. France trusted the neutrality of Belgium, and her mobilization was made with due regard to international rights between Balford and the Belgium frontier, in the confident assurance that Germany would respect her pledges. Had France been equally unscrupulous the whole of northern France now in German occupation, and at least that part of the Belgian coast now used for submarine bases, would have been saved.

As the general says, the French had to break up their plan and move their troops in order to meet the attack through Belgium. This, against four perfectly equipped and prepared German armies, gave the Germans an advantage of from ten to fourteen days, and entailed the French fighting rearguard battles up to the German check at the Marne. Nothing could bring out more clearly the enormous value of civilization of the heroic sacrifices the Belgians made. Had they not made them, the Germans might have been in Paris now, and probably in the occupation of the channel ports.

It will be observed how this cold-blooded and logical account of what took place, without the slightest perception of its fearful moral obliquity, of its cowardice and shame, brands with falsehood the kaiser in his letter to President Wilson and every German statesman who has discussed the invasion of Belgium. At last the truth is breaking in Germany, and it is a mighty force. The public appetite for it grows with what it feeds on. It cannot long admit the moral validity of the plea that Germany was entitled to do this deed of treachery in order to prevent conflict on German soil. She could have done that by avoiding war, and, as all the world is beginning to recognize, she was the one nation with the deciding voice in that matter.

DON'T WAIT.

Take Advantage of an Astoria Citizen's Experience.

When the back begins to ache, Don't wait until backache becomes chronic; Till kidney troubles develop; Till urinary troubles destroy night's rest.

Profit by an Astoria residents experience. Mrs. Mary E. Morrison, 595 Grand Ave., Astoria, Oregon, says: "At times my back was so weak and sore that I could hardly get around. When I bent over to do anything or sat in one position very long, it was all I could do to straighten up. My kidneys were also more or less out of order during this trouble with my back. After I had taken two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, my back felt strong in every way and I was able to get about as well as ever." Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Morrison had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

NEW DAIRY LAW.

Attention Called to Provisions All Should Know.

To the Editor: Judging from correspondence coming to this office it would seem that considerable misapprehension exists among dairy farmers relative to the requirements of the law passed by the legislative assembly of 1917, which requires the pasteurization of all milk and cream sold to consumers and all by-products of creameries or cheese factories if not produced from tubercule test cows.

Would you therefore do me the favor and your subscribers a service by allowing me space in your valuable columns to place before your readers the exact text of the law which is known as chapter 332 of the general laws of 1917, section 2 of which reads as follows: "That from and after Sept. 1, 1917, it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, company, corporation or association, to sell or offer or expose for sale or exchange, for human consumption any milk from cows that have not passed the tubercule test, unless such milk shall have been pasteurized as hereinafter provided. It is understood and hereby expressly stated that nothing in this section shall apply to the delivery of milk or cream to creameries, cheese factories or condensed milk factories by the producer of such milk or cream, or in bulk to the wholesale trade."

It will be noted from the reading of the above that this part of the law does not apply in any way to any dairy farmer who is selling his milk or cream to a condensary, creamery, cheese factory, milk depot, or any manufacturing plant, but said condensary, creamery, cheese factory, milk depot or manufacturing plant are held responsible for the process of pasteurization.

On the other hand, if dairy farmers are making what is known as "dairy butter," or any other milk product and selling the same directly to consumers, then and in that case, they come under the purview of this act.

Section 8 of the act makes provisions as follows: Milk from any cow or cows whose owner or lessee shall apply to the state livestock sanitary board to have such cow or cows tubercule tested shall be exempt from all of the provisions of this act until such time as such cows shall have been tested. This application should be made to Dr. W. H. Lytle, State Veterinarian, Salem, Oregon.

Snakes, The Farmers' Friends.

Among the best although least appreciated friends of the farmer are the harmless snakes, such as the milk-snake, the chicken-snake, the garter-snake, the bull-snake, and some others. All of them are the natural enemies of rats, mice, weasels and similar animals that infest farms and village homes, especially where there is poultry or other small live stock.

In an article in the Scientific American, Dr. Robert W. Shufeldt, of Washington, says that it would well repay every farmer in the country to keep half a dozen harmless vermin-devouring snakes on every acre of his place. Thousands of harmless snakes are killed every year by boys, ignorant farm-hands and misinformed women, although it has been proved that rats, mice and other rodents cause enormous losses to cereal crops. Although most farmers believe that the common chicken-snake hunts their outbuildings in order to feed on their young ducks and chickens, the snake does nothing of the kind; but it destroys great numbers of young mice and other pests.

Harmless snakes are the easiest animals in the world to tame, correct. More than that, it should be taught that, like birds, and it is high time that the false ideas about them should be they are among the best animal friends that the farmer has. If we destroy them, we pave the way for the destruction of our forests, our staple products, and a good deal else that now and has been protected by snakes and birds.
