THE TILLAMOOK HEADLIGHT. F. C. BAKER, Publisher.

Editorial Snap Shots.

Iowa has gone into the "dry" column, which should help the loganberry booze to take the place of the tangled booze.

Those who advocated 1c. letter postage may not have gained their point, for it is going to take 1c. more for letters and postcards.

Amongst the articles of food that the government is going to control is cheese, and we quite anticipate that a fixed price will be the result. That it will be far below 26c., the price cheese is now selling, and will drop to somewhere near 20c. is what is generally thought.

Picking evergreen blackberries in Tillamook county the past few weeks have created quite an interest amongst the women and children, which have given them a large amount of pin money.

Below is a clipping from a paper published in Ohio, and we respectfully refer the same to our democratic friend, Bro. Trombley: "Understand now; be reasonable, and acknowledge that the "poor man's dinner pail" is not today a matter of "Republican Protective Tariff," nor is it a matter at all chargeable to the Republican party.

The business men who gave their financial support to the new shipbuilding industry, have elected two directors, and it is now up to them to assist in making a success of the new industry, not only so but everybody should do their bit to make it a success.

Before Congress adjourned it did one good thing in raising the rate of pension for women, whose husbands took part in the civil war and in the war with Spain.

Section 314. That from and after the passage of this act the rate of pension for a widow of an officer or enlisted man of the army, navy, or marine corps of the United States who served in the Civil War, the war with Spain, or the Philippine Insurrection, now on the pension roll or hereafter to be placed on the pension roll, and entitled to receive a less rate than hereinafter provided, shall be $25 per month; and nothing herein shall be construed to affect the additional allowance provided by extension pension laws on account of a helpless child or child under sixteen years of age.

tion shall be administered, executed, and enforced by the Commissioner of Pensions.—Passed by the Senate and House of Representatives, and approved by the President, October 6, 1917.

We believe the loganberry industry is a safe and profitable industry for anyone to engage in, and it takes but little money to plant five or more acres. But we would not advise our citizens to convert good pasture land in the county into loganberry patches. There are thousands of acres of land that can be used to raise loganberries which should be bought at a low figure, especially the logged off land. It took a little hustling to obtain a ship building plant and we believe the business men should get behind the loganberry industry as well. We believe several hundred citizens could be added to our population if some plan could be worked out so that land could be bought at a low figure and offered to new home seekers. It is a question in our minds whether it would not be more profitable to grow loganberries on some of the prairie land than yellow weed. It is not a question of the amount of land, for there is an abundance of non-productive land in the county that would make good loganberry localities, but obtaining sufficient acreage to warrant a pressing plant that is needed in the vicinity of Bay City, the foot hills, Long Prairie, Netarts, Sandlake and the south and north parts of the county all of which have hundreds of acres of land that is now idle. Why not make this land productive? We believe one can make good money putting this land into loganberries and disposing of it when the vines are bearing. Two things are important, the climatic conditions are ideal for loganberries, with an assurance of a good crop every year, and the assurance of good prices for the first five years after the vines begin to bear. We are not advising anyone to set out large tracts, but would advise a large number of tracts from one to five acres. Set out one acre if you have land more suitable for loganberries than dairying. The Tillamook Commercial Club is exceedingly anxious that the citizens take hold of this matter in that way, and those who decide to do so should let the committee know at once how many acres they will plant.

La Follette Found Wanting in the Balance.

Note the shiftiness of La Follette's speech. The sharp and increasing demand for his expulsion dates from the delivery of his disloyal St. Paul harangue. Prior to that, while the country's patriotic citizen felt that his utterances were harmful, his asserted privilege of opposition was generally tolerated.

But his St. Paul utterances put him visibly over the line that divides loyalty from disloyalty, and a shocked and indignant public sprang to protest.

On that speech La Follette evaded the issue. He dealt with criticisms of himself in general. Asserting an air of martyrdom, he falsely constructed his Saturday speech around the unwarranted assumption that himself and all his associates peace-at-any-price and kaiserite defenders have been denied a fair hearing; that their case has never gone to the great American jury.

The truth is, and all observers know it, that the LaFollette doctrine was kept noisily, theatrically and continuously before the public from the beginning of the world war in August, 1914, down to the hour of our own entrance into the conflict. For more than two years the American public listened patiently and reflectively to every argument put forward by the pacifists and pro-kaiser element. For two years leaders like Roosevelt, Root, Garrison (when secretary of war in the Wilson cabinet) and Senator Chamberlain of Oregon were bitterly, vituperatively and persistently assailed by the pacifist element under the leadership of men like La Follette. Journals which advocated rugged Americanism were falsely attacked as bought organs of the munition makers. Every anti-American utterance in Berlin was echoed ad libitum and ad nauseam by the pacifist element in this country.

Finally the case went to the jury, and as La Follette admitted Saturday all but six of the 96 senators and all but about 50 of the nearly 500 representatives in congress voted for the declaration of war on the president's clearcut statement of the nation's purposes. That fact effectively disposes of LaFollette's labored assertion that President Wilson overstepped the bounds of the constitution and usurped the constitutional functions of congress.

Under the false plea of championing free speech and free press, La Follette ran amuck before the senate Saturday and assailed every possible authority and patriotic element in the nation. He slashed at the president, the cabinet, congress, loyal governors of loyal states, the court and even the men in the khaki.

Here in America, where the facts are known and well weighed, his speech will have slight or no mischievous influence. But read abroad it will hurt. The kaiser's very active publicity bureau will attend to its circulation throughout Germany, Austria-Hungary, Turkey and Bulgaria and will give it widespread distribution in Russia, Mexico and South America.

For that reason La Follette should be removed from the senate. Not in a spirit of vindictiveness, but solely as a defensive action to help quicken the victory and make less difficult the grim task to which we have set our armies and navy.
