

WORTH OF SUGAR LIMIT.

Hoarding is to be Stopped At Once in Oregon.

"Hoarding of sugar in Oregon must stop at once," says W. K. Newell, assistant food administrator.

Sales to family consumers are limited to one dollar purchases.

Sales to hotels, restaurants and boarding houses to be limited to ten days' supply.

Farmers living at a distance from purchasing points will be allowed to purchase in 25-pound lots.

Sugar shall not be used as a leader for special sales or to encourage the sale of other merchandise.

All grocers are requested to report to the federal food administrator for Northwestern National bank building, Portland, Ore., the names and addresses of all persons attempting through misrepresentation, to purchase in excess of the above limitations.

Letter From Tenth Company, C. A.

Now that Thanksgiving is over we shall try to write a bit of news again. Our Thanksgiving started last Wednesday and ended today (Sunday). On Wednesday we filled up on delicious cats sent us by the good people of Tillamook.

Last Thursday the three companies of the fort were inspected by an Inspector General. He said that our company made the best showing and was the best fitted for the field.

We are still living in tents but will soon be in our cantonments. The lumber arrived yesterday. A big crew of men will be employed in putting up the cantonment.

Paul G. Bond, Captain, O. C. A., was assigned to this company about the middle of last month. He is now engaged in acquainting himself with the workings of the company.

James W. Bailey, a brother of Corporal Elmer Bailey, joined the company on the 23rd of November. He is now busily occupied in knocking off the rookie edges.

On Wednesday of last week 13 members of the company were granted furloughs to extend over the Thanksgiving period. They are Sgt. Alvin A. Wickland, Corporals, Calvin Blair, and Vern Larson, and Privates John Imlah, Thomas J. McKnight, Antone Borba, James A. Fitzpatrick, Hoyt Snider, Lloyd Woods, William Thomas, Elmer Dougherty, Asa G. Haugen and Fritz Burmester.

On November 21st Privates Will Kennedy and Norman E. Myers were sent on detached service to the radio branch of the Enlisted Specialist School at Fort Monroe, Va.

We are informed that this company will be filled up to full war strength within the next two or three weeks. We need 23 more men in the company.

Nearly one half of the boys have taken out government insurance. They have taken the limit which is $10,000.00 and costs from $6.00 per month on up according to age.

Several of the men of the company with dependents will receive the benefit of the general allowance offered by the government commencing with their pay for November. Corporal Jennings heads the list, having a wife and three children. He is compelled to allot one half of his salary or $18.00 toward their support.

Important to Men Registered.

Every man registered under the draft law who has changed his residence or postoffice address should immediately, without fail, notify his local board of his present address so that he will receive the Questionnaire he is required to fill out under the new draft regulations.

This applies to all registered men, even those previously exempted or discharged. All previous exemptions and discharges from the draft are automatically revoked on December 15.

The Questionnaires will begin to be sent to registered men on December 15. Each man will have seven days in which to fill out answers to the many questions asked and return the Questionnaire to his local board.

Failure to answer the Questionnaire and return it to the board within this seven-day limit will endanger a man's right to claim exemption, regardless of whether he did not receive the Questionnaire.

Hence it is urgent that every registered man whose address has been changed should, for his own protection, at once notify his local board of his change in address.

So important is this matter considered by Provost Marshal General Crowder, at Washington, D. C., that he has issued the following instructions relative to giving it full publicity.

"Please cause the broadest and most extensive and continuous publicity to be given through the Adjutant General, local and district boards, the newspapers, and by all other possible means of warning to all registrants who may have changed their places of abode and postoffice address to communicate immediately with their local boards where they are registered, and furnish their present address so that Questionnaires, which will begin to be mailed December 15, will reach such registrants without delay.

"Registrants are bound by law to keep themselves advised of all proceedings in respect to them, and failure to do so may result in their losing right to claim exemption or discharge."

Warning to Merchants on Holiday Fires.

Harvey Wells, state fire marshal, has issued the following statement:

"We do not know to what extent the stores will display their Christmas goods but we are going to be early and appeal to the merchants of this state to take every precaution against the destruction of their stores by fire.

"In the past a vast amount of property has been destroyed through carelessness and thoughtlessness in decorating and displaying Christmas goods. Statistics show us that many fires originate through defective wiring and of placing of electric bulbs too close to paper or other inflammable decorations. Candles or open light of any sort should never be used near Christmas decorations, and trash and rubbish should never be allowed to accumulate in the basement or in the rear of stores. If you intend to make an electric display, do not permit amateurs to tinker with your electric wiring. While it may be a little more expensive, it will pay to have an expert make your electric changes.

"This is a year we cannot afford to lose one store of any value, as we must preserve and protect our resources, for once a fire gets started no one can tell but what an entire block or town may be destroyed.

"Just remember that Fire Prevention is the elimination of carelessness, and it is your patriotic duty to prevent carelessness by taking every precaution to remove a possible cause of fire."

STARS IN BASEBALL.

They Are Really Essential to the Success of a Club.

It is absolutely necessary for each and every major league club to have at least one unusually brilliant performer on its roster to be a good gate attraction, and more often than not these stars are pitchers.

Remember the Chicago White Sox of 1906? Ed Walsh was the star who did most to place that team in baseball history, though he received not a little assistance from Doc White. Who made the Giants of a few years ago the most talked of team in baseball? Why, Christy Mathewson, to be sure. He was a star of stars, and in fair or foul weather it was he whom the rooters paid to see.

Bill James in his time came pretty close to making the Braves, and Bill Donovan, Ed Reulbach, Mordecai Brown, Babe Adams, Joe Wood and Grover Alexander all have played leading roles as gate attractions.

What would the Senators have been for years without Walter Johnson? Is it the Tigers or Ty Cobb whom the fans want to see at play? Hal Chase featured the Yankees for years, for many seasons Speaker has been the leading figure with the teams with which he played, and Joe Jackson, Marquard and Lajoie all had large individual followings.

Today a new crop of stars has just about "arrived" and are pulling the crowds.—Ed A. Goewey in Leslie's.

THE "EROICA" SYMPHONY.

A Musical Portrait of Napoleon as Beethoven Idealized Him.

The most notable example of a masterpiece with a political origin is Beethoven's "Eroica" symphony. General Bernadotte during his residence in Vienna in 1798 as ambassador from the French nation suggested to Beethoven the composition of a symphony in honor of Napoleon. At that time Napoleon was looked upon as the champion of freedom, the savior of his country, the embodiment of republican ideals, with which Beethoven was in thorough sympathy, and he willingly accepted the proposal.

Before the symphony was published Napoleon became emperor, and when the news reached Vienna Beethoven was violently angered. "After all, then, he is nothing but an ordinary mortal! He will trample all the rights of men under foot to indulge his ambition and become a greater tyrant than any one!"

With these words he seized the music, tore the title page in half and threw it on the ground. He never again referred to the connection between his work and Napoleon until news of the latter's death reached him. Then he said, "I have already composed the proper music for that catastrophe," meaning, of course, the funeral march. But the whole symphony, with its essentially revolutionary character, is a musical portrait of Napoleon as Beethoven idealized him.

In 1881 a so called prophecy of Mother Shipton's was in every one's mouth: The world then to an end shall come In eighteen hundred and eighty-one.

A traveling tailor denied inspiration to this prognostic, nor, as now appears, was it remarkable for accuracy. But he went further. He demonstrated in the dust of the road why that exact date was chosen. Not only was it cabalistic, a multiple of nine, etc., but it was the only date available to Mother Shipton which in Arabic numerals was the same backward, forward and upside down. Eleven hundred and eleven was past, and not till 1881 would the coincidence recur. The next Mother Shipton will select 8008, which is not tomorrow or next day.—London Globe.

An English scientist weighed a small ant and a dead grasshopper which it was dragging to its nest. The weight of the grasshopper was found to be sixty times greater than that of the ant. The force exerted by the ant in dragging the grasshopper along the road was therefore proportionately equal to that of a man weighing 150 pounds pulling a load of four and one-half tons or a horse of 1,200 pounds a load of thirty-six tons.

That patriotism which, catching its inspirations from the immortal God and leaving at an immeasurable distance below all lesser, groveling, personal interests and feelings, animates and prompts to deeds of self sacrifice, of valor, of devotion and of death itself—that is public virtue; that is the noblest, the sublimest of all public virtues.—Henry Clay.

Gentleman—Why don't you get out and hustle? Hard work never killed anybody. Rastus—You're mistaken dere, boss. I use lost four wives dat way.—Boston Transcript.

Mother—Oh, Mary, why do you wipe your mouth with the back of your hand? Mary—"Cos it's so much cleaner than the front.—London Punch.

A commonwealth ought to be immortal and forever renew its youth.—Cicero.

WINNING SUCCESS.

It Must Be a Continuous Performance, With No Intermissions.

"The other day," says a writer in the American Magazine, "a famous author was telling me how he felt when his first story was accepted. He said that within a few minutes the thought flashed across his mind that he could not stop, but must go on. One good story must be followed by another and another and another, else his reputation would die, and he would be humiliated. He said that the feeling was not exactly comfortable; that the prospect was in a way terrible. 'Being successful,' he said, 'is not easy. The successful man advertises to the world that he can do certain things well, and he must go on making good or back off the map. It's a great sensation, a great experience, worth almost anything, but it isn't a snap.'

"It is the same way in business. The salesman who sets a high mark has to go right out and beat that mark or suffer by comparison with his own record. He can't sit down in a rocking chair and devote the rest of his life to receiving congratulations.

"Have you ever sat in a restaurant and compared your job with that of a waiter? Try it some time. No matter what your work is, I am sure you will see the point if you watch the waiter and think how exactly his job typifies yours. Take, for example, my job—that of an editor. An editor's job is exactly like that of a waiter. He has to go and get something good and bring it in. And after he has brought it in he has to go right out and get something more and bring that in. The minute he sits down or stops to talk unnecessarily with the guests, he ceases to give as good service as before. Then the guests who praised him a moment ago begin to growl. And so, almost immediately, he has turned from a good servant into a poor one.

"This fits any line of human activity. A continuous performance is what is wanted. Nothing else counts."

CULTIVATE SIDE VISION.

It Will Enable You to See in Several Directions at Once.

One of the most useful gifts one can have is a good side vision. By side vision is meant literally ability to see in several directions at once and to know what is going on in other directions besides that upon which the gaze may be fixed at the moment.

Just try the next time you are reading your paper in the train, for instance, and you will understand clearly what is meant.

You can with little effort and while still reading follow the movements of those sitting opposite you and even those at your side. With a little practice the range of your side vision can be extended behind you in each direction to an angle of forty-five degrees, and you can see clearly every movement that takes place on both sides simultaneously.

Now, just think what this means. The man in possession of a good side vision is not an easy one to take by surprise. In business he finds it a valuable asset, especially when talking with more than one person at a time.

He can guard against dangers from unexpected sources, and when crossing a roadway he can clearly see the traffic coming from either direction while still looking straight ahead.—London Answers.

The Jugoslavs.

Why do we write Jugoslavs when south Slavs would do much better? The word simply means south Slavs, its first half being the universal Slav term for "south." It is not written as pronounced, or, rather, it is written as a German would pronounce it. Our phonetic transliteration should be "Yugo-Slavs," a form which is often used. But "south Slavs" indicates much more intelligibly the great racial unit of some 15,000,000 souls that occupies the whole southwest corner of the dual monarchy abutting on the Adriatic.—London Chronicle.

To Face the Music.

According to James Fenimore Cooper, who said that he looked the matter up, the phrase "to face the music" originated among actors, who when they went on to play their parts had really to face the music. Another suggestion, which Cooper did not approve, was that it originated in the old time training days, when the militiamen were bound to appear armed and equipped facing the music.

Buttons Made From Yeast.

Buttons are now made from the spent yeast which collects in the vats of breweries. It is dyed, grained and pressed into any shape, and it has the great advantage over horn and bone that it grips as in a vise any metal part—a shank, for instance—that is pressed into it.

Which Is Yours?

The remuneration received for services rendered has many names. The laborer calls it "pay," the skilled mechanic "wages," the city clerk "salary," the banker "income," a lawyer "fees" and a burglar "swag."—London Answers.

The Untired Horse.

Mother—My dear, what is the matter with the horse? Isn't he walking lame? Small Boy—I know what's the matter, pop. One of his hind tires has come off.—Baltimore American.

Similarity.

"You say Grafters makes you think of a corkscrew. Why so?" "Like a corkscrew, he has a pull, but it's on account of his crookedness."—Exchange.

Startling News About Cheese Making in Tillamook County.

The following paragraph taken from the Oregon Register, Eugene: "Tillamook creameries work day and night—Harry Kester, owner of a large dairy near Tillamook, was in the city yesterday for the purpose of getting contracts with the local merchants to supply them with Tillamook cheese. He reports the cheese market has doubled itself within the past few months and the demand is so great that the Tillamook cheese factories are working day and night to fulfill their orders."

The facts are: Cheese making in Tillamook county have ceased, on account of the large amount in storage, and the cheese factories are separating the cream from the milk and shipping it to Portland.

Seventh New County Agent.

Appointment of Henry E. Tweed as county agricultural agent of Baker county is the seventh made under the emergency conditions produced by the war. The new counties that have swung into line in accordance with the provisions of the Federal food preparedness campaign are Benton, Douglas, Marion, Washington, Clackamas, Walla and Baker. This action is in harmony with the plans of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Federal Food Administration, as the best known method of increasing crop production, of modern marketing, and of economical conservation. Twenty-two counties now maintain agents and others are completing arrangements to begin the policy.
